Claudine Longet, Andy Williams' Ex-Wife, Arrested In Skier's Death

ASPIEN, Colo. (AP) — Singer-nutress Claudine Longet has been arrested in connection with the shooting death of Vladimir "Spider" Sabich, who dominated the world professional ski tour in the early 1970s, Dist. Atty. Frank Tucker says.

Tucker said Miss Longet posted a personal recognizance bond at the Pitkin County sheriff's office Sunday and was released.

"I anticipate Miss Longet will be charged sometime Monday in connection with the shooting death of Mr. Sabich," Tucker said in a telephone interview.

Tucker said the charges would be filed in Pitkin County District Court here. He refused to say what charges would be filed.

Miss Longet was arrested Sunday under a Colorado law that allows arrests for investigation of a possible crime.

Tucker said Sabich died at his home in an exclusive subdivision near this Rocky Mountain ski resort town from a shot fired from a handgun.

Earlier, Dr. Charles Williams, the county coroner, said Sabich, 30, had been shot in the abdomen. He was taken to the Aspen Valley Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival shortly after 5 p.m.

Tucker declined to say how many times Sabich had been shot or provide other details.

He said the body was being removed to Denver for an autopsy.

Miss Longet, 33, the divorced wife of singer Andy Williams, was a close friend of Sabich. The two were seen together frequently.

The sheriff's office refused to release any details of the incident, but said a full investigation would be undertaken.

It also refused to release any details of the shooting.

Miss Longet was separated from her husband in June 1970, after eight years of marriage.

"The problem was that Claudine is intense in everything she does," Williams said of the breakup of his marriage.

The couple had three children, who live with their mother.

Tucker, a personal friend of Sabich, termed the death "devastating, a needless thing."

"I can't understand the concept of handguns. Guns are in toys. They do such terrible things."

Sabich, who competed in the 1968 Olympics, turned pro early in 1971, when the pro ski tour was in its second season.

He immediately established his dominance over other skiers, laying claim to the tour championship in his first season, when he won $21,000, and the following year, when his ski earnings were $50,000.

The next year, however, Sabich failed for the first time in 50 attempts to qualify for a slalom race, and on April 7, 1973, suffered a compressed vertebra in a fall during a race.

He surrendered his world title that spring to Jean-Claude Killy, the French star.

Sabich injured his knee seriously in a race at Sun Valley, Idaho, in the spring of 1974 and underwent surgery the following August. After sitting out a year, he attempted a comeback this season but met with little success.

Qualifying for only two races all season, he won only $800.

Survivors Digging Through Rubble In Oakland, Macomb Counties

By PETE YOST
Associated Press Writer
Shaken survivors dug through the rubble of their homes and businesses grimly totaled up the damage Sunday in the wake of tornadoes in Oakland and Macomb counties which left two persons dead and injured at least 40 others.

The hardest hit area was a mile-long path through West Bloomfield Township in Oakland County, where about 50 homes were demolished or heavily damaged and at least a dozen business establishments were hit near the busy intersection of Maple and Orchard Lake roads.

The Saturday night tornado cut a swath in a northeasterly direction through the business area, flinging a motor home through the window of a bank. The tornado then proceeded through several subdivisions before it lifted up again.

Killed in the tornado that struck West Bloomfield Township was Kely Weaver, 15, daughter of a Bloomfield Hills attorney. Killed in a tornado that struck northeast Macomb County was 4-month-old Gregory Rachow, who died as his parents attempted to rush to the basement of their home.

Police blocked off the area. Power was cut off and utility crews were sent in to repair hundreds of snapped power lines. Some 1,000 telephones were knocked out.

Guy, William Milliken ordered a survey of the stricken areas to determine whether they qualify for federal disaster aid.

Plevis of advertising signs from two gasoline service stations were carried more than a mile by the twister and deposited in the backyard of Weldon Petz of West Bloomfield Township, who was not at home when the chimney and part of the roof were blown off his house.

When she saw the tornado strike, Mrs. Milliken ordered a survey of the stricken areas to determine whether they qualify for federal disaster aid.

Mrs. Wentz, 36, a dental assistant and mother of four from Hayward, Calif., said in an interview Sunday night. "I know I went over it, and over it — everything — before deciding."

She said she thought that both the prosecutor, U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr., and chief defense attorney F. Lee Bailey "did a very good job in presenting the case."

Another juror said the ordeal of deliberations was so intense that some members of the panel wept and others became sick to their stomachs.

Teenager On A Date, Tot In Father's Arms Are Victims

By Associated Press
The tornadoes that struck southeastern Michigan Saturday night snuffed out the lives of a 15-year-old girl and a 4-month-old boy.

Kely Weaver of Bloomfield Hills was sitting in a car at a stop light with her date and another couple when the twister touched down.

It tossed the car in the air several times and then brought another unoccupied car down on top of it, police said. Miss Weaver was crushed and died instantly.

Her date, 17-year-old Peter Wilson, and the other couple suffered minor cuts and bruises.

The teenagers were on their way to a Sadie Hawkins Day dance at Lahser High School, where they were students. Miss Weaver had asked Wilson for the date.

"She said she was using her babysitting money to take him," said a neighbor.

The car they were in was less than 100 yards from the Bloomfield Canopy restaurant, where Miss Weaver was taking Wilson for dinner, when the tornado struck.

She was one of twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. John Weaver, an attorney and a schoolteacher.

About 50 miles away, in Macomb County's Richmond, 4-month-old Gregory Rachow was fatally injured in his father's arms when a tornado hit their home and plunged the family into the basement.

Gregory, son of Dennis and Marie Rachow, was dead on arrival with massive head injuries at a Detroit hospital. The tornado destroyed the Rachow home.

A neighbor said the Rachows were trying to salvage some of their belongings Sunday and had taken a truckload of household goods to a relative's home in Memphis.

"Marie said she just couldn't care about the house — not about anything except losing the baby," the neighbor said. "If only they had made it to the basement."

The infant's grandmother, Mrs. William Rachow, said Gregory and the couple's other child — a 3-year-old girl — were on their way to the basement when the twister struck.

"Dennis was holding the baby and was at the top of the basement steps when suddenly the steps were gone," Mrs. Rachow said.

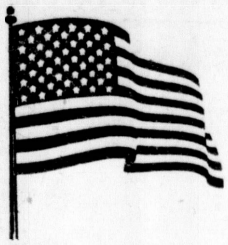

"They knew they were in the air but the wind just lightly dropped them into the basement, leaving Dennis on a pile of glass with the baby in his arms."

Mrs. Rachow said that as soon as Dennis could climb out of the basement, he took the infant — who was still alive — to a neighbor's house and returned for his wife and daughter, Mrs. Rachow said. No one is sure how Gregory was injured.

"It was pitch black and Dennis never let go of the baby," she said. "We just don't know what happened."

Another tragedy was averted in the West Bloomfield Township tornado. Liquor store owner Ed Cesarone pulled a boy away from the front window of his store and dove for cover in a corner, covering the boy with his body.

Seconds later, the tornado touched down and the window where the boy had stood waiting for his parents was blown out.

When the tornado slammed into her West Bloomfield Township home, Rosanne Shapiro was at the top of the second-floor staircase trying to rush her young son and nephew to safety.

The twister ripped away the second floor, picked up her and the boys and tossed them into the front yard.

Mrs. Shapiro landed in the shrubbery and suffered a broken nose. The two boys landed near her and were

"Dennis was holding the baby and was at the top of the basement steps when suddenly the steps were gone," Mrs. Rachow said.

"They knew they were in the air but the wind just lightly dropped them into the basement, leaving Dennis on a pile of glass with the baby in his arms."

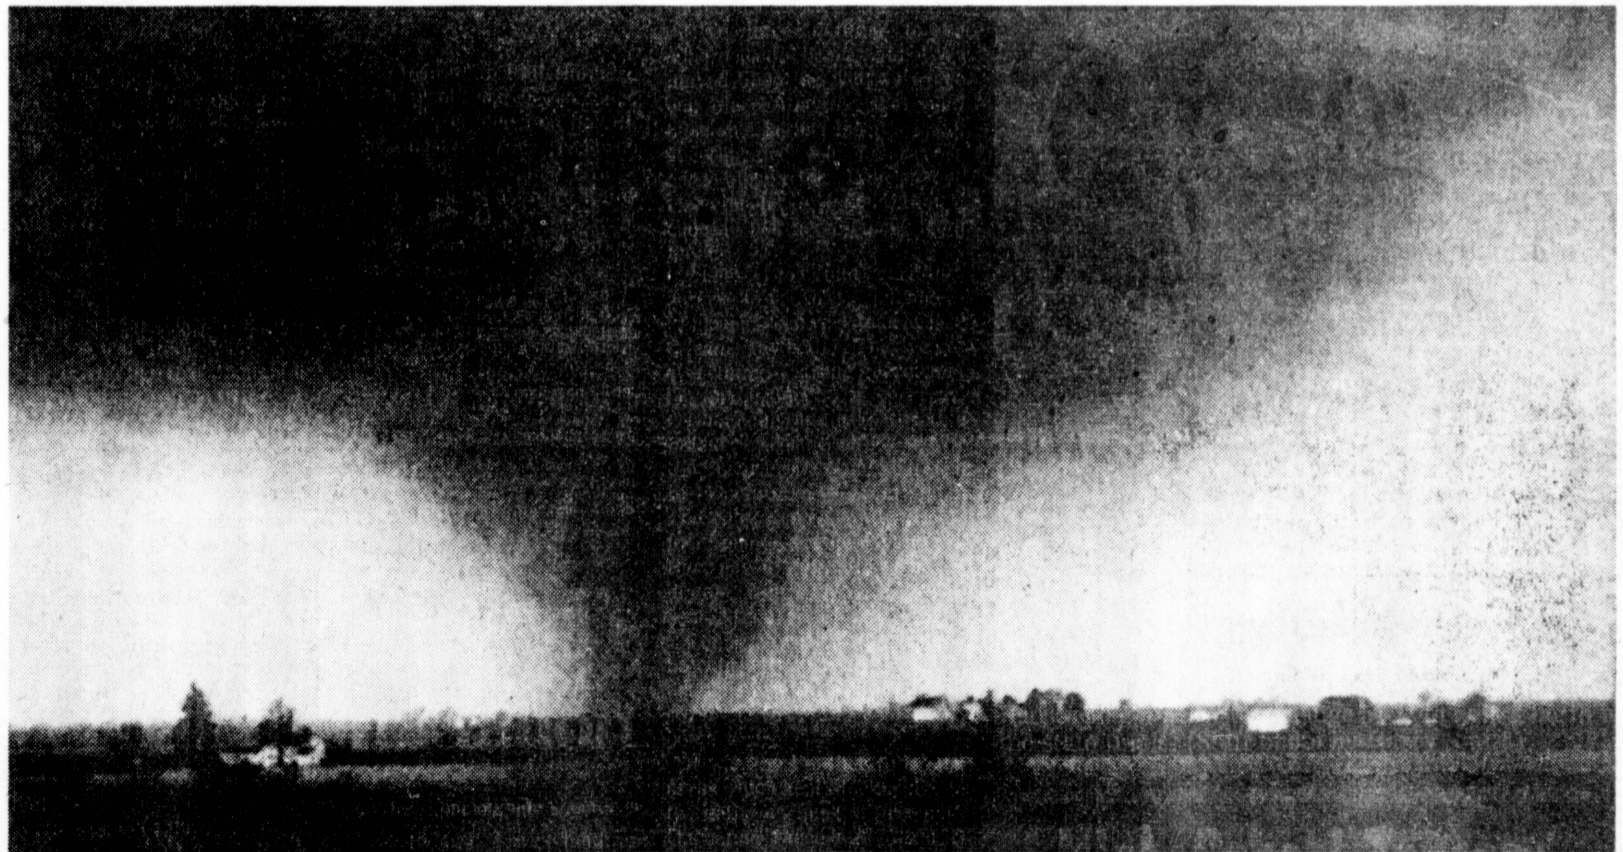

Mrs. Rachow said that as soon as Dennis could climb out of the basement, he took the infant — who was still alive — to a neighbor's house and returned for his wife and daughter. Mrs. Rachow said no one is sure how Gregory was injured.

"It was pitch black and Dennis never let go of the baby," she said. "We just don't know what happened."

Another tragedy was averted in the West Bloomfield Township tornado. Liquor store owner Ed Cesarone pulled a boy away from the front window of his store and dove for cover in a corner, covering the boy with his body.

Seconds later, the tornado touched down and the window where the boy had stood waiting for his parents was blown out.

Berrien Circuit Court Needs Another Judge

Nine years ago when the legislature, under prodding from the Michigan supreme court, authorized more judges for many of the state's circuit courts, it was assumed here that adding a third judge to the Berrien circuit would take care of the local court's load for a generation.

Less than half of this anticipated time span has run its course and our court is now close to being swamped once again by the numbers game.

Its criminal docket holds the dubious distinction of being among the top ten in Michigan, possibly within the entire midwest.

Criminal cases enjoy priority in trial time. However jammed the civil docket may be, the judges must first see their criminal list through to a conclusion before going on to hear civil disputes.

Next in preference are land condemnation suits and divorce actions involving custody of minor children. Though the condemnation suit is not a large factor, divorce is popular in this area and so is the proclivity of too many parents, usually the father, to skip on his support payments. Contrary to one assumption leading to its inception, no fault divorce has not simplified or speeded up that type of case. On the contrary, the warring couple fights harder than ever over financial adjustments and custody of their offspring. More, not less litigating, has become the fashion.

After wading through that lineup, the judges are then free to preside over an automobile damage claim, a suit to collect an unpaid debt, an action to determine where a line fence should be positioned, and the myriad of other disputes into which we mortals fall.

At this point, thanks to plea bargaining, a custom denounced by liberals of all shades, Judges Byrns, Hughes and White are holding their own on the criminal trials.

They are in fair shape with the divorce calendar.

So far, they are staying even with the balance of the civil docket.

Totally, however, the Berrien case load cannot be viewed with what a candidate for office calls guarded optimism.

Between the ever rising case volume and the complicated procedural rules being imposed upon the trial or working judge by his superiors from the appellate courts, the Berrien circuit more accurately resembles a leaky boat heading out into Lake Michigan on one of its tempestuous days.

This condition is not confined to Berrien county, a fact already being given consideration in the legislature where bills have been presented to expand in six other circuits.

It might be likened to that of a distinction without a difference.

Only recently has the local overcrowding received the attention it deserves.

Judge Hughes, the Berrien circuit's presiding officer, outlined the problem to the Berrien board of commissioners last week and prior to that presentation a lay committee interested in the court's affairs stated the matter to the commissioners' administrative and finance committees. The county's bar association has also endorsed the request of another judge.

If the full board gives approval to the plan, then our area legislators will be asked to guide it through Lansing's halls.

Expedient administration of justice is absolutely vital to justice's very existence; that justice delayed is justice denied goes without saying.

Nobody, our judges included, is anxious to run up the cost of government, but unless the Berrien bench receives relief quickly, the public will have to accept the consequences of insufficient staffing in a most critical office.

It is vain to expect the appellate courts to unravel the procedural requirements they impose upon the trial courts which require twice the time necessary to process a case; and unless Berrien county becomes more law-abiding and its residents less litigious minded, the case load will continue to pile up.

Better to plug a developing hole now than to permit it to grow into a Grand Canyon.

Revenue Sharing Traces Back To 1836

Back in 1836, the U.S. government found that a $28 million surplus was burning a hole in its pocket. It rid itself of the annoyance by distributing the surplus to the states, which then numbered only 26.

That may have been the beginning of revenue sharing, although the formal concept came along much later. Whether 1836 or 1976, the federal government has proven to be very adept at revenue raising. However much one laments its lack of spending restraint, there can be no doubt that

Washington is an excellent tax collector.

It was on the basis of that expertise that systems of federal largesse have expanded and been perfected. Whether under such names as "grants-in-aid" or the broader "revenue sharing," few continue to question the concept of collecting taxes at the local level to flow through Washington and returned to the states and communities, disproportionately and minus administrative expenses.

The idea of having voters and their representatives in Congress forego dependence upon federal financial assistance and the federal government relinquish some of its taxing powers is suggested periodically. The support from Washington for this proposal best could be described as icy.

Whatever the students' personal feelings toward Ky might have been, he was an invited speaker and thus there were those in the audience who wanted to hear what he had to say. Their rights, as well as Ky's, were violated by the mindless zombies who chanted "out, out, out" until Ky left the stage.

It is of some consolation that the faculty report condemned the outrage and went to some length to outline the difference between peaceful protest and rude behavior bordering on anarchy.

BHHS Student Declares Parents Are Guilty Ones

Editor,

I am writing in behalf of the students at Benton Harbor high school who care enough about our school to do something about it.

On March 11, 1976, a speech instructor, Mr. Charles Henderson, along with some very intelligent and talented students attempted to present a talent show which was open to the community.

The presentation was a very successful one, and would have been much more successful had it not been for the actions of a few persons in our community who decided to make a ruckus.

The results of this was lots of confusion and embarrassment and Mr. Henderson being denied the privilege of having any other form of entertainment in the Benton Harbor High School Performing Arts Center.

I feel this was very gross and unjust towards Mr. Henderson, Benton Harbor high school and the community.

It is not the responsibility of an instructor, principal, or student to teach others the correct way to behave in a public place. Therefore they cannot and should not be held responsible. This job rests upon the parents. It is their responsibility to teach their children the values of others; rights, property and feelings, but most of all they should be taught the value of self-respect. When this doesn't occur, then how can we possibly expect them to respect others.

I feel that the actions which were taken were very unfair and irrelevant, and were enforced upon the wrong people.

The only wrong which Mr. Henderson can possibly be guilty of is trying to make Benton Harbor a better community by providing decent entertainment. Is this so wrong?

The ones who are to blame are the ones who are sitting back letting these types of situations occur. The guilty ones are the parents.

Editor,

There is a move afoot to abolish the Michigan Council for the Arts, and to create, in its stead, a State Commission for the Arts.

Senator Jack Faxon introduced SB-1204 February 10th, pushed it through the Senate, where it passed 27-9. It now is pending in the House of Representatives under Committee on Judiciary.

Under provisions of the present bill, a 15-member Commission would be appointed by the governor. The chief executive officer (the executive secretary) of the Commission also would be appointed by the governor, to serve at his pleasure of the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate.

While all 15 members of the Council now are appointed by the governor, the executive director is chosen and selected by the Council chairman. He is not under political control; but is under council control, as he should be. He is chosen for his professional stature and expertise.

The present director is E. Ray Scott, who developed the ArtTrain, which has enriched thousands of people in Michigan and in other states. Numerous arts councils throughout the State have been created (81 currently, from 8 originally) and many have received grants.

The Michigan Council for the Arts now ranks second among the 50 states in dollars appropriated by the State Legislature and its administrative costs are exceedingly low in WASHINGTON — (NEA) — I met Mike Mansfield a decade ago in a hotel room in Helena, Mont. He was the state's senior senator on a visit home. I blew in on a reporting assignment. A mutual friend offered an introduction and I seized the opportunity for narrow reasons: it was the time of Vietnam, which I then embraced, and I wanted to argue Mansfield's antiwar views.

The door to the senator's room was open, and he was waiting for me in shirtsleeves on the edge of the bed. He didn't like suits, he said. He had no entourage. His needs were simple. Saying this, which was a lot for him, he retreated behind an expression of solemnity, and listened while I explained my concern for his Vietnam opposition.

I said that I had seen a great deal of the combat as a correspondent and was worried that the increasing lack of support for it in America might eventually place U. S. soldiers in jeopardy. I was overly blunt, one might even say insufferable. I said I had seen enemy leaflets quoting George McGovern's condemnation of the war, and had talked with men in the ranks who were becoming confused with the similar remarks being made by Mansfield. Naturally, I added that such talk here could only encourage the enemy and prolong events.

"Have you been in Vietnam?" I asked.

"Not recently," he said.

"Then how can you judge it at all?"

I learned later of course that my equating his ignorance of Southeast Asia with his lack of experience was not only naive but in error. Mansfield had been a lifelong scholar on Asian affairs, a university instructor in such before becoming a lawmaker, a man whose Far Eastern knowledge was thought so valuable that Franklin Roosevelt sent him there on a strategic war mission in the 1940s.

Mansfield said none of this, by the way. For much of our conversation, actually, he said very little of anything. He nodded. He shook his head. He said "yes" or "no" where applicable. I suppose I took his simple reticence as a weakness, as have many over his 34 years in public life (10 as a congressman, 24 as a senator, 36 as the majority leader). His lack of dynamism has been a Washington issue for decades. Colleagues have for years urged him to come alive, to which his response has been: "I am not a ringmaster."

And now that he has announced his retirement, I'm reminded of his finest quality. That day in the hotel room he let me speak as if I had something to say. I was there for an hour or more, a crusading zealot, before the talk closed. In the end he said that if the United States stopped in Vietnam, the suffering would stop. Then he said he had a great deal of respect for the military except when it was wrong. His pipe was empty. We shook hands. I left.

Downstairs in the lobby the mutual friend asked how the interview went. I said it was disappointing. How so? Well, it was frustrating, I said. — "I couldn't get through to the old man at all."

Which Senator Will Lead?

WASHINGTON (KFS) — A mere two hours after Majority Leader Mike Mansfield announced he would retire at the end of the year, Sen. Ernest Hollings (D-S.C.) (unimolled Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) in a Capitol corridor and asked Humphrey to support him as Mansfield's successor.

Humphrey hadn't even heard the news yet. Furthermore, he may have plans of his own.

Humphrey would very much like to be majority leader. He served as whip for four years until he resigned in 1964 to become Vice President.

Three senators have already rushed forward to announce for the post — Sen. Edmund Muskie (D-Me.), Majority Whip Robert Byrd (D-W.Va.) and Hollings. Byrd, in fact, has been covertly campaigning to move up to Mansfield's job the past few years.

In Humphrey's case, there are certain complications. It might appear uneasily to be seeking the majority leader's job and the presidency at the same time.

In addition, Humphrey is convinced that, "By January a lot of things can happen that will affect the choice of majority leader." Promises made at this early date, in other words, may easily be broken in the light of changed facts and new pressures.

The main development will be the election of a president. If the president is a Democrat, the Democratic majority may be eager to select a leader with whom he has indicated he would prefer to work. Newly elected President John Kennedy was influential in the choice of Humphrey as Senate whip in 1961, for example.

If the new president is a Republican, the Democrats in Congress will be under great pressure to select a leader who will present a forceful public image. Technical skills in running Senate business, which is Byrd's strong suit, for instance, might become less important than the ability to articulate a sound national course.

Each of the men seeking to become the new voice of the Senate majority is able and has some claim to the job. Hollings is in the tradition of Southern progressives, who have controlled the leadership through much of history. Muskie, the 1968 vice presidential nominee, has acquired a new stature through his balanced handling of the chairmanship of the powerful new Senate Budget Committee. And Byrd, although handicapped by an over-identification with conservative causes, is generally regarded as a first-rate whip.

Byrd appears to be ahead in the contest today, but he has not sewed it up. Hollings can be expected to siphon votes from him, while Muskie and Humphrey compete for the liberal cluster.

Mansfield has indicated he will not intervene in the contest, and indeed he probably would have little success if he did.

Humphrey is basically correct; it is a waste of energy for senators — and columnists — to worry about the majority leadership for several more months. But when the time comes, the choice will be as important as the selection of a president, for it may determine the direction of the Senate for a decade or more, not just four years.

Mansfield has indicated he will not intervene in the contest, and indeed he probably would have little success if he did. Humphrey is basically correct: it is a waste of energy for senators — and columnists — to worry about the majority leadership for several more months. But when the time comes, the choice will be as important as the selection of a president, for it may determine the direction of the Senate for a decade or more, not just four years.

Revenue Sharing Traces Back To 1836

Back in 1836, the U.S. government found that a $28 million surplus was burning a hole in its pocket. It rid itself of the annoyance by distributing the surplus to the states, which then numbered only 26.

That may have been the beginning of revenue sharing, although the formal concept came along much later. Whether 1836 or 1976, the federal government has proven to be very adept at revenue raising. However much one laments its lack of spending restraint, there can be no doubt that

BHHS Symphony Band Moving Back Into Musical Spotlight

By STEVE SAGER
Staff Writer

The Benton Harbor high school symphony band under the tutelage of second-year

Band Director Charles Bullard recently took a step towards regaining some of the "glory of old" once enjoyed under former Band Director

Bernhardt M. Kuschel. The symphony band earned a Division I rating for excellence in Class AA competition at the Southwestern Michigan Band and Orchestra Association District VI festival held March 13. According to Bullard, it was the first Division I rating a Tiger symphony band has received in district competition since 1973.

The symphony band will now compete May 1 at the State Band and Orchestra finals to be held at Muskegon. A Benton Harbor high school symphony band has not received a Division I rating at the state finals since 1971, Kuschel's last year as band director at Benton Harbor high school.

Bands competing can be rated from Division I to Division V with Division I representing the best. Bullard said the ratings are based on performance and sight reading (reading music never seen before.)

Under Kuschel, who is presently director of the Benton Harbor school music program, Benton Harbor high school symphony bands received Division I ratings 21 consecutive years (1951-71) in district competition and 11 years earned Division I ratings in state competition.

Kuschel was also known state-wide for his Tiger marching bands.

Bullard, a native of Fayetteville, N.C., and a graduate of Methodist college, located there, termed Kuschel's record "fantastic".

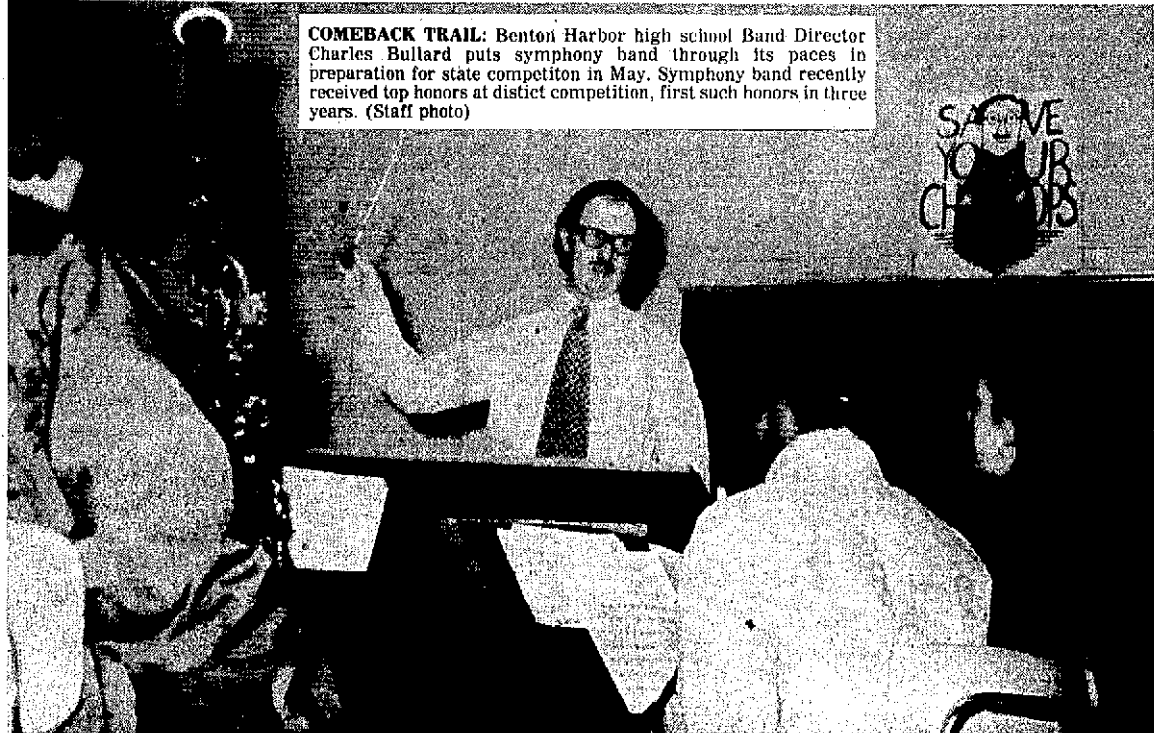

Bullard said, "No other band director in the state probably has his record for symphony district competition. He's been a tremendous help to me and I still seek a lot of advice from him."

The high school symphony band is made up of 48 members from junior and senior classes.

Bullard, as director of high school bands, also works with the freshman band, concert band, the Tiger marching band, the pep band, a stage (jazz) band and a pit band for musicals. Not all bands meet throughout the year.

Bullard is presently working towards a Master's degree. He and his wife, Brenda, who teaches music at Benton Harbor elementary schools, reside at 213 Hampton road.

Missing: One 40-Foot Trailer

Stolen or misplaced: One 10,490-pound, 40-foot-long flatbed trailer, valued at $8,000. This is the problem confronting the Aurora, Colo.-based Santa Fe Pipeline Construction Co., which maintains a sub-office at 5503 South Red Arrow highway, Stevensville.

The report of the missing trailer was filed at 8:53 a.m. Saturday with Berrien sheriff's officers by sub-office Manager Paul Gristler.

Gristler said the trailer could have disappeared anytime since last January. He said a check of area construction sites failed to recover it. Santa Fe has been installing natural gas pipelines in Berrien county.

The trailer is described as a 1970 red Leland tandem float (flatbed) unit, with eight tires. It bears the identification, "T-46" on both sides, officers were told.

The sub-office said Sunday that the disappearance was discovered when the Colorado headquarters called to inquire about the trailer's current whereabouts. The sub-office said a driver reported using the trailer last December, but hasn't seen it since.

The firm reported it could have been stolen, or dropped off at one of the firm's nationwide outlets without being recorded on an invoice.

A $300 air compressor and 150 feet of rubber hose were reported stolen from a home under construction on Lake Chapin road, Berrien township, Berrien sheriff's deputies said. James Ware, 514 Kephart lane, Berrien Springs, owner of the compressor, said it was stolen from the basement of the new house in the Dawn Haven subdivision.

George Nall, 23 West South street, Hartford, told Benton township police a citizens' band radio, valued at $100, was stolen from his car parked in a lot in the 800 block of Crystal avenue Sunday.

Thefts reported to Benton Harbor police were:

—Two cents, a $57 check and $83 in cash, from Empire Cleaners, 190 West Empire avenue.

—A stereo console and seven tapes, totaling $435, from the home of Lathree Lewis, 176 Church street.

—A television set and stereophonic equipment valued at $290, and $120 in cash, from the home of Ella Rice, 1030 Calfax avenue.

—A purse containing $40 cash, from the home of Cheryl Payne, 714 Lavette street.

Bruce C. Springer, 22, of 1522 Bonny Bruce drive, Stevensville, reported the theft or loss of his wallet Saturday afternoon in St. Joseph.

Springer said he felt the wallet fall from his pocket as he ran in the rain from the Memorial hospital parking lot toward the hospital entrance.

Springer said he turned around and saw two boys and a girl running toward a car. The wallet reportedly contained $33 in cash. Police were notified at 4:01 p.m.

State police of the Benton Harbor post arrested two men Sunday on charges of possession of marijuana, one of whom a computer check showed was wanted in Detroit on a warrant charging delivery (sale) of heroin.

Booked at the Berrien county jail and held for Detroit police was Michael Jerome Locke, 28, Chicago. Troopers said a car in which he was a passenger was stopped on I-94 near M-139, Benton township about 4:30 p.m. A small amount of suspected marijuana was confiscated and a routine computer check revealed the drug warrant.

About 2:30 p.m. troopers said a small amount of alleged marijuana was confiscated from a car stopped on I-94 near Napier avenue. Booked at the Berrien jail was Reginal Bryant, 18, Detroit.

Benton Harbor police and Berrien sheriff's officers searched but found no bomb Sunday at the Sears store, 640 West Main street, after three bomb threats were telephoned to Benton township police. The store was closed at the time.

Benton Harbor police said they went to the store shortly after the first call at 5:06 p.m. and remained in the area until 8:10 p.m.

There was no indication why the calls were placed to township police. The store is in the city.

A Stevensville man was arrested on a charge of fleeing a Berrien sheriff's deputy Sunday after he allegedly fled on foot from a car being pursued by the deputy. Booked at the Berrien county jail was Robert Ray Hamilton, 19, of 1578 West John Beers road, Lincoln township.

Deputy Dean Kugle reported the incident occurred shortly before 8 p.m. in the 1200 block of West John Beers road and said the driver of the car he was pursuing turned himself in shortly after 8 p.m. Kugle said he pursued the car after noticing its taillight had no red covering.

Benton Harbor police at 8:30 p.m. Saturday booked Sylvester Ventress, 27, of 277 Walnut street, Benton township, on a charge of malicious destruction of property over $100. Officers said the arrest was made in connection with an alleged fight in the home of Connie Allen, 1244 Monroe street, Benton Harbor. Furniture valued at over $100 was broken, police reported.

Benton Harbor police arrested two men during an investigation of a sidewalk fight in the 100 block of Territorial road at 10 p.m. Saturday. Police said the fight reportedly occurred over the purchase of beer.

Booked on charges of being drunk and disorderly were Edward Lee Dean, 22, of 382 Lincoln, Benton Harbor, and Jerry G. Whitlock, 41, Lansing.

Berrien Farm Worker Dies

After Mishap

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Miles Reed Livingston Sr., 54, an Eau Claire man injured in a farm-related accident March 12 near Berrien Springs, died Sunday at Berrien General hospital. Hospital officials said today that an autopsy has been scheduled to determine the cause of death.

A Berrien Springs village-Oronoko township police department spokesman said Livingston was injured about 3:15 p.m., March 12, when a fertilizer bin in which he was riding toppled into a ditch from a tractor-pulled trailer.

Victor Yost, department chief, said his department was checking to determine if the accident should be considered a traffic accident and, if so, if the death should be considered a traffic fatality.

At the time of the accident, Yost said the investigating officers did not classify it as a traffic accident.

Livingston was an employee of the Lloyd Zeeh farm, Berrien Springs. Police said the tractor was being driven by another Zeeh employee police identified only as John Quinn.

The tractor and trailer were making a turn east onto Hinchman road off Gage road when the canvas-covered bin toppled over, police said.

Officers who investigated the accident believed Livingston may have hit his head in the fall, police said. He had been hospitalized at Berrien General since the accident, a hospital spokesman said.

Mr. Livingston was born Nov. 22, 1921, in Hurry county, S.C. Survivors include a son, Miles, Jr., Oronoko, Calif.; a daughter, Mrs. Jerry (Donna) Stiekney, Oronoko, Calif.; five brothers and a sister, all in South Carolina.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at Goldfinch funeral home, Conway, S.C. Friends may call at the Bowerman funeral home, Eau Claire, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. this evening. The body will be transferred to South Carolina on Tuesday.

Garage Act Writ Granted

MASON, Mich. (AP) — A preliminary injunction was ordered today against part of Michigan's new auto repair law pending final disposition of a suit challenging the law's constitutionality.

Ingham County Circuit Court Judge James Kallman, noting that "it appears there may possibly be irreparable harm," granted the preliminary injunction "to enable the court to determine the full extent" of damage.

Les Seeligson of Ann Arbor, attorney for the Automotive Service Councils of Michigan which filed the suit, said the injunction apparently applies to provisions of the new law which require all auto mechanics to be licensed by 1981, registration of auto repair facilities, and written estimates on repair costs.

The injunction will not go into effect until Seeligson or his co-counsel Paul Sigal prepare an order for Kallman to sign.

SJ Firemen Douse Small Jail Blaze

Give Home Picture Wall

The desirability of a gallery wall increases in many homes as the collection of art work and family photographs grows.

Such a wall should be a neutral, but warm color, and textured but patternless. A favorite choice of decorators is flush-joint, one by four-inch wood paneling.

Picture arranging is quite flexible, as hangers set into the tight joints between boards can be removed and relocated, leaving only barely discernible marks.

BEAUTY HINT OF THE WEEK

The modern "natural" look permits the use of the new sheer makeup. Lip gloss, blusher and eye shadow are available in small tubes or crayons that are convenient to carry in purse or pocket.

The really stunning hairdos: brushed down, probably originated in our salons. Come in and let us convince you.

HANDY HINT: Keep your makeup in a separate little bag in your purse to avoid contact with germ-bearing keys and coins. It's convenient, too.

Fellowship Deadline

EAST LANSING — The deadline is April 30 for older women in the Lansing area and within commuting distance of Michigan State university to apply for the popular Mildred B. Erickson fellowship for fall term.

Since the lifelong education tuition-aid fund began in the fall of 1974, a total of 149 fellowships have been granted for one course for one term, to women whose ages averaged 41. Some 390 applications were submitted — all from deserving applicants, according to fund officials. However, funds are limited.

Many of the recipients are housewives with children; many are working outside the home. Previous scholars have come from Lansing and East Lansing, Owosso, Brighton, Charlotte, Grand Ledge and other cities.

In the first term, 15 fellowships were provided. In spring there will be 37 recipients, enrolled in nine of MSU's 17 colleges. Each term, the women get together for an evening to discuss their interests, problems and progress.

Application forms can be obtained from Mary L. Jackson, controller's office, administration building, Michigan State university, East Lansing.

Stop Door From Sticking

If you have a door that sticks and needs a bit of sanding, but you don't have the time or energy to remove it from the hinges, just put a piece of sandpaper between the floor and the door at the trouble area. Secure the sandpaper with thumbtacks or tape so it does not slip. Opening and closing the door several times will do the trick.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Overeating Causing Trouble

Dear Ann Landers: My wife and I are in our mid-40s. We have plenty of money and will soon be by ourselves. Jean (fictional name) has always had a weight problem but kept it under control until two years ago. This past summer she put on so much excess poundage that she weighs at least one-third more than she ought to.

I have this thing about fat people. I think they are disgusting, weak-willed, self-indulgent and stupid. Fat kills and they ought to know it.

When I see Jean waddling around, out of breath, looking like a stuffed sausage in her expensive dresses (splitting at the seams), I well up with resentment. Our sex life is almost nil because I just can't get turned on by a fat slob. Then I feel guilty.

I've discussed my feelings with Jean and suggested several self-help groups, but she always ends up crying and insists I should love her the way she is.

Does the woman have a disease, like alcoholism? Please help me see this thing in the proper light. — Turned Off And

Gully

Dear T.O.: Overeating is very much like alcoholism.

Your wife hates being fat but she has some severe psychological problems that keep her mouth working overtime.

Urge Jean to get a complete physical check-up (to rule out an organic problem), then suggest help for her head because that's probably where the problem originates.

Don't Fink

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a secretary in a large agency office. There are only four people here, two executives and two secretaries.

My problem is the other secretary. As I write this letter, she's been on the phone with her mother for 40 minutes and is still going strong.

Last Friday I kept track. She made twenty calls to friends and relatives. Our desks are fairly close and her constant gossiping and yakking distracts me no end.

The woman has seniority which poses something of a problem. But I'm sure her boss has no idea of the extent to which she is taking advantage of him. I feel like "an accessory to the crime." Am I? What should I do? —

Ding Dong Fed Up

Dear Ding: If there's a "crime" it has nothing to do with you. Finking, however, is something else. In order to fink, you have to be one. I don't recommend it.

"Motor-mouth" must be a super-efficient dame if she can get her work done and spend so much time gabbing. I wonder how she does it.

Give Facts

Dear Ann: Our 19-year-old daughter was married (against our wishes) to a fellow I'll call Fred. He's in the Navy. I'm ashamed to say she has been running around and is now pregnant. The baby cannot possibly be Fred's because she hasn't seen him in a year.

The girl is getting maternity care at the naval base here. It is my understanding that when the baby is born the Red Cross notifies the father. How can we spare him the shock of knowing his wife gave birth to a child that he will know isn't his? — More Gray Hairs

Dear Friend: Your daughter should write to Fred immediately and tell him the facts. When he returns, the two of them will decide whether or not they can make a life together. But Fred should be told about the baby at once — by her.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

So Many Cards

Erma Bombeck

Greeting cards were originally born out of the need to say for people what they couldn't say for themselves.

I once gave my mother a card depicting a little girl in a hoop skirt knocking on the door of a cottage and saying, "You bask in the sunshine of sweetness and light . . . and make all my dreams come true . . . prithree reap the harvest of all my love . . . in everything you do. Happy birthday."

Mother smiled and said, "It sounds just like you." "Prithree, mother," I said, "you've been basking in the sunshine too long. All I wanted to say was I'm not much, but I'm all you can afford."

Not so today. I've never seen so many cards for so many occasions saying greetings in so many ways in all my life.

Some of them you can even send through the mails.

If you put your foot in your mouth and are sorry, there's a card for it.

If you won a tennis tournament, a diploma in sheetmetal, a divorce, or passed your eye examination, there's a card for it.

I even saw one that said, "I love living with you because I've got a case on you." When you open it up, it threatens, "Marry me or I'm taking you to court." There are marriage proposals, business proposals, vacation proposals and some proposals that are just plain indecent.

I was picking out a Valentine for my husband when a salesperson asked if she could help. "I'd like something a little sentimental," "Here's one," she said, handing me a card. My cuts turned red. "You want to see my L.D.?"

"That one's not so bad," she said. "We had one that was waterproof so you could read it under a cold shower. Just tell me what you want to say and how you want to say it."

"Maybe I'll just get a Mother's Day card."

"Unwed? Underage? Unwanted? Undone? Unsung? Unexpected? Underfoot?"

"Just something that will sound like me."

Good grief.

Dr. Lester Coleman

Will you clarify for me the difference between diverticulitis and diverticulosis? It seems that I have both and would be just as happy if I had neither.

Mr. G.A.A., N.J.

A simple knowledge of anatomy will make the distinction for you. It has always been my belief that when a patient thoroughly understands his condition, he is much more prone to follow the suggestions of his doctor.

A diverticulum is a small sac or pouch that extends through the wall of the large intestine. Many of these are present throughout life and never cause any disturbance, distress or symptoms.

When there are a great many of these sacs, the condition is known as diverticulosis. It is only when one or more of these sacs become irritated, inflamed or infected that the condition is known as diverticulitis.

"Itis" means infection or inflammation. Tonsillitis, appendicitis and phlebitis all refer to inflammation of a particular organ. Occasionally, germs enter the sac, pouch or diverticulum and cause irritation and inflammation. This may produce intestinal symptoms or cramps, nausea and vomiting. Note that the symptoms I refer to can occur with any one of a vast number of intestinal disorders. Therefore anyone who has one or more of these symptoms should not self-diagnose his condition as being related to the diverticulae. Many people past 40 (especially those who are overweight) may have diverticulosis without any symptoms. Sometimes a routine X-ray and barium examination of the lower bowel, done for another reason, will reveal many diverticulae that have caused no symptoms.

With simple diet, diverticulosis can lie dormant and cause no symptoms for many years. A well-regulated diet, antibiotics, antispasmodic drugs and special care about laxatives may keep this condition under control.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has a special eye-care booklet available called, "What You Should Know About Glaucoma and Cataracts." For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Eye booklet), P.O. Box 5178, Grand Central Station, New York City 10017. Please mention the booklet by title.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Normally you're pretty good at zeroing-in on specific targets, but today you could spread your forces too thin.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't delegate responsibilities today to those who can't be relied upon. It could cause your needless problems.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You will have difficulty today in getting one who is indebted to you to make up, especially if you try pressure tactics.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your mate and others of your family may have to be handled with extra tact today. Bend a little to keep them pleased.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't expect co-workers today to do more than you're prepared to do yourself. Set a poor example, and they'll follow it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you purchase something today from a firm you've never dealt with before, make sure you can return it if necessary.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Make an extra effort to fulfill promises that are now due. Reneging on them could hurt your image. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't do anything today against your better judgment just to even-up an old score. It will only complicate the issue.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Sometimes you can be too generous with the wrong people. This may be such a day.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You could be spending too much time and effort on goals you may be disappointed with, once they're attained.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Others may find you hard to understand today because of your reluctance to express what's really disturbing you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be highly selective today of persons you associate with. Don't put around with one who is always stirring up trouble.

A course you'll choose this year may not be an easy one, but you'll know better than anyone else its true values. Don't let others who are unaware of its merits discourage you.

Jim: "We haven't discussed the bridge proverb as much as 'second hand low' for some time."

Oswald: "Most of these go way back to whist. The reason second hand usually plays low is that his higher cards can usually be effective later on in the play. This, he only plays high second hand when he has some really good reason to make the play."

Jim: "In today's hand South should play dummy's queen of hearts immediately. It won't have any value at all later on, but may just win that first trick."

Oswald: "This time it does and South is on easy street. If he takes a diamond finesse against East, he is sure of eleven tricks. If he tries it the other way, he will only score ten."

Jim: "If East produces the king of hearts, South can run five clubs and then go after diamonds. This time a wrong guess will cost him his contract."

The answer is that it is awarded to the side of the player who holds the honors whether he is declarer, dummy or a defender.

If you put your foot in your mouth and are sorry, there's a card for it.

If you won a tennis tournament, a diploma in sheetmetal, a divorce, or passed your eye examination, there's a card for it.

I even saw one that said, "I love living with you because I've got a case on you." When you open it up, it threatens, "Marry me or I'm taking you to court." There are marriage proposals, business proposals, vacation proposals and some proposals that are just plain indecent.

I was picking out a Valentine for my husband when a salesperson asked if she could help. "I'd like something a little sentimental." "Here's one," she said, handing me a card. My ears turned red. "You want see my I.D.?"

"That one's not so bad," she said. "We had one that was waterproof so you could read it under a cold shower. Just tell me what you want to say and how you want to say it."

"Maybe I'll just get a Mother's Day card."

"Unwed? Underage? Unwanted? Undone? Unsung? Unexpected? Underfoot?"

"Just something that will sound like me."

"Here's one that might fit you. It's a little strange. 'You bask in the sunshine of sweetness and light and make all my dreams in accord . . . pritheer, mother, you know I'm not much . . . but face it, I'm all you can afford.'"

Good grief.

Dr. Lester Coleman

Will you clarify for me the difference between diverticulitis and diverticulosis? It seems that I have both and would be just as happy if I had neither.

Mr. G.A.A., N.J.

Dear Mr. A.: A simple knowledge of anatomy will make the distinction for you. It has always been my belief that when a patient thoroughly understands his condition, he is much more prone to follow the suggestions of his doctor.

A diverticulum is a small sac or pouch that extends through the wall of the large intestine. Many of these are present throughout life and never cause any disturbance, distress or symptoms.

When there are a great many of these sacs, the condition is known as diverticulosis. It is only when one or more of these sacs become irritated, inflamed or infected that the condition is known as diverticulitis.

cramps, nausea and vomiting.

Note that the symptoms I refer to can occur with any one of a vast number of intestinal disorders. Therefore anyone who has one or more of these symptoms should not self-diagnose his condition as being related to the diverticulae. Many people past 45 (especially those who are overweight) may have diverticulosis without any symptoms. Sometimes a routine X-ray and barium examination of the lower bowel, done for another reason, will reveal many diverticulae that have caused no symptoms.

With simple diet, diverticulae can lie dormant and cause no symptoms for many years. A well-regulated diet, antibiotics, antispasmodic drugs and special care about laxatives may keep this condition under control.

Jim: "We haven't discussed the bridge proverb such as 'second hand low' for some time."

Oswald: "Most of these go way back to whist. The reason second hand usually plays low is that his higher cards can usually be effective later on in the play. Thus, he only plays high second hand when he has some really good reason to make the play."

Jim: "In today's hand South should play dummy's queen of hearts immediately. It won't have any value at all later on, but may just win that first trick."

Oswald: "This time it does and South is on easy street. If he takes a diamond finesse against East, he is sure of eleven tricks. If he tries it the other way, he will only score ten."

Popularity Of Birth Control Pills Is Slipping Slightly

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer

Recent reports of new dangers linked to birth control pills have caused concern each type of contraception. The Food and Drug Administration estimates, however, that 10 million women — a little more than 10 per cent of the country's

Two Factors Cut Pill's Use

EDITOR'S NOTE: Two factors appear to be cutting slightly into the popularity of birth control pills: the reports of possible adverse side effects and the easy availability of abortion, which makes less sure methods of birth control more acceptable. The situation is described in the accompanying article by AP Science Writer Warren E. Leary.

among women and prompted a few of them to switch to other means of contraception, doctors say. But the pill remains the most popular method by far of preventing pregnancy.

"There may be a little switching, but it is not marked," said Dr. Robert E. Rogers, a gynecologist and professor at Indiana University Medical School in Indianapolis. "The pill is still their first choice and is likely to remain so for some time."

Interviews with 20 doctors, including gynecologists and obstetricians, and other experts on contraception reveal that women are asking more questions about the pill and showing more interest in diaphragms and condoms.

Some doctors said the increased availability of abortion had made women more willing to risk pregnancy and therefore more willing to switch from the pill, which has the lowest failure rate of any contraceptive.

There are no statistics available on how many women use total female population — take birth control pills while about 3.2 million use IUDs (intrauterine devices).

In recent weeks, studies in Kentucky and California tied the pills to dramatically increased risk of liver tumors — some malignant — in long-time users. At the same time, three major drug companies, at the FDA's request, agreed to stop making sequential oral contraceptives which were linked to increased risk of cancer of the uterus lining and blood clotting. The FDA estimated that sequential pills were used by 5 to 10 per cent of the women taking oral contraceptives.

There have been complaints about internal bleeding, inflammation and infection in connection with the IUD.

Doctors and others say publicity about the pill has a small impact on its use.

"The pill has had a high use since it was invented and remains high," said Robin Elliott, director of information and education for the Planned Parenthood Federation of America. Elliott said that pills have accounted for between 75 and 80 per cent of the contraceptives dispensed by Planned Parenthood in the last five years.

"There appear to be small variations whenever a side effect gets publicity," he said, adding that women now are showing increased interest in diaphragms.

"In calling around to centers, I find there is a distinguishable, but slight trend upward for the diaphragm, particularly among younger, more educated women ... It asked why, I'd probably have to say it was due to recent disclosures about pills and IUDs."

The National Reporting System for Family Planning Services, part of the National Center for Health Statistics, also reported a slight trend among younger women toward the diaphragm. Its findings are based on statistics covering between two million and three million women, many of them under 25 and many of them poor.

The system said that in 1973, 73.1 per cent of the women who received contraceptives from clinics and other outlets checked chose the pill as their primary birth control method. Just over 15 per cent chose the IUD, 3.3 per cent picked diaphragms, 4.3 per cent used foams and 8 per cent condoms.

In 1974, 76.3 per cent chose the pill, 12 per cent the IUD, 3 per cent diaphragms, 4.7 per cent foams and 1.3 per cent condoms.

Preliminary figures for 1975 show 75.7 per cent picking the pill, 10.6 per cent the IUD, 3.4 per cent diaphragms and 1.7 per cent condoms.

Several doctors said women have become more informed about contraception.

"Most women are asking reasonably intelligent questions about birth control, mostly because there have been a lot of things in the media about the problems," said Dr. Paul Cochrane of Fitchburg, Mass.

The doctors also said they spend more time explaining birth control. "In the past, women would ask for the pill and I'd give it to them," said Dr. John Grover, a gynecologist at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. "Studies that revealed side effects have made us think very carefully now about selecting patients for the pill. I now acquaint them with the side effects and let them know if the pill is for them."

Elliott said Planned Parenthood makes "every effort to provide the latest information."

"For instance, a recent study said women over 40 had increased risk of heart attack with the pill. Because the data wasn't in, we didn't tell women this six months ago, but we sure do tell them now. If we didn't, they'd certainly ask."

Neither the American Medical Association, the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology nor the Academy of Family Physicians has guidelines on what doctors should tell patients about contraception.

The FDA has proposed new labeling for pills and IUDs, the contraceptives requiring a doctor's prescription. The labeling would require that patients get written information on the effectiveness, side effects and proper use of each contraceptive.

"The freedom to choose a contraceptive is every woman's right," says FDA Commissioner Alexander M. Schmidt. "This freedom cannot exist, however, unless the woman herself can weigh the comparative benefits and risks ... and thus be properly informed to decide with her physician the best choice for her."

Some patients considering switching from the pill to less sure methods of birth control ask about abortion.

"Availability of abortion has given women the freedom of using other methods of contraception and they ask about it," said Grover. "They may not like the choice, but at least they know they have abortion to fall back on if they don't want a child."

In Indianapolis, Rogers agreed. "Patients going to less effective methods are asking for reassurance on the availability of abortion in case of failure," he said.

Lynn Heitlerberg, director of the Feminist Women's Health Center in Los Angeles, reported increased popularity of diaphragms and added: "One aspect of deciding is the attitude toward abortion."

Contraceptive manufacturers declined to give specific production figures and had differing views on trends.

A spokesman for the Ortho Division of Johnson and Johnson, a major pill manufacturer, said: "We can't give out specific figures for business reasons. But I can say we have no statistics that would show a trend either way about uses of the pill."

Donald Hanton, corporate controller for Syntex Laboratories of Palo Alto, Calif., a major pill manufacturer, said: "Generally speaking for the oral contraceptive industry, total markets have been relatively flat (stable) in the United States."

Deborah Bing, a spokesman for Julius Schmidt Laboratories, a leading maker of diaphragms, IUDs and condoms, said: "Condoms seem to be quite popular and because of this, we've come out with three new ones in the last year and a half. Part of the reason is that many states now permit over-the-counter sales and they are more available."

Also, condoms are promoted in anti-VD campaigns because they are the only contraceptive effective for this also. There are indications that IUDs are still more popular than diaphragms, though sales of both increased in the past year. Sales of diaphragms have increased somewhat, but we can't be sure of the reasons why."

Philip Frank, marketing director for Holland-Rantos Co., Inc., a major supplier of diaphragms, said there is evidence of "method hopping" by women. "There has been an increase in diaphragm sales of perhaps 30 to 35 per cent in the last two or three years," Frank said. "This isn't a temporary increase, but a growing interest by the public in the diaphragm."

TORONTO (AP) — Canada's actors' union has refused a work permit to American actress Kathleen Wilhoite, selected to play a Canadian woman's suffrage heroine in a television special here, because she's not Canadian.

Detroit May Close 25 Fire Stations

DETROIT (AP) — Some 25 low-priority fire stations have been identified in case Detroit Fire Department layoffs force some units to be closed, officials said.

"The list of units, drawn up by a task force of fire officials, ranks the stations in order of least importance according to considerations including the number of recent fires in the area and the proximity of other fire stations."

The list has been submitted to Detroit Fire Commissioner Melvin Jefferson.

Jefferson stressed that he hopes to avoid station shutdowns. But department sources said many companies have been reduced to minimal manpower levels already and it appears inevitable that some stations will be closed.

Sources said further cutbacks at some stations might mean only two workers per shift assigned to an engine where once there were five.

Detroit Mayor Coleman Young announced last week that 82 firemen would be laid off beginning April 5. The cutbacks will bring the city's fire fighting force down to 1,371. There were 1,373 on the force in 1974.

Philip Frank, marketing director for Holland-Rantos Co., Inc., a major supplier of diaphragms, said there is evidence of "method hopping" by women. "There has been an increase in diaphragm sales of perhaps 30 to 35 per cent in the last two or three years," Frank said. "This isn't a temporary increase, but a growing interest by the public in the diaphragm."

TORONTO (AP) — Canada's actors' union has refused a work permit to American actress Kathleen Widdoes, selected to play a Canadian woman's suffrage heroine in a television special here, because she's not Canadian.

Detroit May Close 25 Fire Stations

DETROIT (AP) — Some 25 low-priority fire stations have been identified in case Detroit Fire Department layoffs force some units to be closed, officials said.

The list of units, drawn up by a task force of fire officials, ranks the stations in order of least importance according to considerations including the number of recent fires in the area and the proximity of other fire stations.

The list has been submitted to Detroit Fire Commissioner Melvin Jefferson.

Jefferson stressed that he hopes to avoid station shutdowns. But department sources said many companies have been reduced to minimal manpower levels already and it appears inevitable that some stations will be closed.

Sources said further cutbacks at some stations might mean only two workers per shift assigned to an engine where once there were five.

Detroit Mayor Coleman Young announced last week that 82 firemen would be laid off beginning April 5. The cutbacks will force the city's fire fighting force down to 1,371. There were 1,737 on the force in 1974.

NO CHANCE: Despite persistent rumors that he's ready to jump into the fight for the Democratic presidential nomination, Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., says "there's no chance I'm going to be in any of the primaries." He also said so far the Ford administration has refused to assure Congress that the only military equipment it plans to sell to Egypt is six C-130 cargo planes. That refusal is "at the heart of" current stalemate over Congressional approval of the sale, he said. (AP Wirephoto)

Israel Will Square Off Against PLO In New York

By SERGE SCHMEMANN
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Israel today squares off against the Palestine Liberation Organization for the first time in the Security Council against a backdrop of Arab unrest in the occupied West Bank.
Moslem Libya and Pakistan asked for the council meeting to press a charge that Israel is creating an increasingly explosive situation in East Jerusalem and other Arab towns by its "policy of absorbing occupied Jerusalem into Israel."
Arab and other Moslem countries were expected to seek a resolution finding Israel guilty of changing the status of Jerusalem, taking "measures of repression" against West Bank Arabs and desecrating Moslem holy places in Jerusalem.
An uneasy calm was reported throughout the West Bank after the worst Arab rioting there since Israel seized the territory from Jordan in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. The riots were sparked by an Israeli court decision six weeks ago permitting Jewish worship on Jerusalem's Temple Mount, site of two Moslem shrines and of King Solomon's Temple.
On Sunday, however, the Israeli Supreme Court overruled the decision and upheld a police ban on Jewish prayer in the area.
In other attempts to ease the situation during the council debate, the Israeli army withdrew its troops from Hebron, a West Bank town that was the scene of some of the fiercest riots, and closed for two weeks a Palestinian newspaper that called for continued demonstrations.
In their letter requesting the council meeting, Libya and Pakistan said the furor unleashed by the Temple Mount dispute must "be seen, along with recent expropriations of Arab-owned lands in Jerusalem and the establishment of Jewish settlements in Arab areas, as part of a policy of absorbing occupied Jerusalem into Israel and changing its cultural and demographic character."
Israel's decision to participate in the council debate alongside the PLO was seen as an indication of the importance Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's government puts on publicly defending its policies toward Jerusalem and other territories captured from the Arabs in 1967.
Israel refused previously to debate the PLO in any forum, although it is recognized by the United Nations as the spokesman for the Palestinian people, because it is a terrorist organization dedicated to the destruction of the Jewish state. Israel's U.N. delegate, Chaim Herzog, boycotted two previous Security Council meetings to which the PLO was invited.
Government officials in Jerusalem insisted that the decision to attend this time did not signify any change in basic policy. But several U.N. observers said it was bound to set a significant precedent.
William W. Scranton also was making his debut as chief U.S. delegate at the council meeting. His predecessor, Daniel Patrick Moynihan, was a vociferous supporter of Israel in U.N. debates, while Scranton is the author of a widely quoted 1968 call for a "more even-handed policy" in the Middle East, that is one less oriented toward Israel.

Two Ships Collide Near Soo

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — A Coast Guard cutter and the ore-carrier Phillip H. Clarke collided in eastern Lake Superior Sunday while the cutter was escorting the carrier through ice, a U.S. Coast Guard spokesman reported.
"The cutter Mackinaw struck the 787-foot Clarke broadside about 12:30 p.m. in Whitefish Bay as the two ships were making their way through heavy winds and snow, the Coast Guard said.
No injuries were reported, and both ships went to Sault Ste. Marie under their own power. The Coast Guard said the ships are being inspected to determine extent of the damage.
The Clarke, which is owned by U.S. Steel Corp., was carrying taconite pellets. The Coast Guard said the ships usually sail from Two Harbors, Minn. to South Chicago.

A POINT: Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, makes a point during a news conference Friday in Los Angeles. Church, the latest Democrat to seek presidential nomination, planned to meet with another candidate, California Gov. Edmund Brown, later in the day to discuss a series of debates in the state prior to the June 8 primary. (AP Wirephoto)

May Ask Another FEC Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Election Commission loses its most important powers at midnight because Congress has been unable to meet a deadline to cure what the Supreme Court says are the commission's unconstitutional defects.
The Supreme Court ruled Jan. 30 that the commission's makeup was unconstitutional because four of its six members were selected by Congress, rather than the president. The court then set a March 1 deadline for Congress to remedy that problem. When that deadline was not met, the court extended the deadline for an extra 20 days.
Because there is no chance that Congress can act by midnight, the commission is meeting today to certify another $1 million in matching funds to presidential candidates.

Meanwhile, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he would meet with other leaders to decide whether to ask the Supreme Court for another extension. However, Mansfield said there was no guarantee that Congress would be able to meet any further extension either.
The commission earlier this year certified $11.8 million to 14 presidential candidates. Once candidates have raised $5,000 in donations of $250 or less in each of 20 states, they are entitled to dollar-for-dollar matching money.
The Supreme Court ruling did not abolish the commission but terminated its powers to pay matching funds. Nor will the FEC be able to carry out other responsibilities for administering and enforcing the law passed in 1974 to govern the financing of federal election campaigns.
The law set limits on contributions and expenditures, in addition to providing for taxpayers' subsidies for the campaign.

Beirut Fighting At 'Record' Peak

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Moslem and Christian militias fought the heaviest artillery battle of the 11-month-old Lebanese civil war Sunday night and today across Beirut.
More than 1,200 rockets, mortar rounds and artillery shells were fired between 4 p.m. and midnight Sunday. "an all-time record for Beirut," a police spokesman said.
The heavy firing continued this morning, and explosions shook the city and resort areas in the mountains behind the capital.
Several rounds landed within 200 yards of the U.S. Embassy. Nearby, at the French Embassy, one shell damaged the French ambassador's official car. But no diplomats were reported hurt.
The escalation followed the capture Sunday of the 25-story seaside Holiday Inn by leftist Muslims of the Nasserite Amshur militia. More than 40 persons were reported killed in the fighting for the gutted hotel, which had been a stronghold for the right-wing Christian Phalangists for six months.
The Phalangists launched an early morning attack to retake the building, and the Phalangist radio claimed the Muslims had been driven out. But leftist leaders said their forces had driven the Christian attackers back to a basement across the street from the hotel.
Scores of rounds landed in the European residential district of Rouche, in westernmost Beirut, an area untouched by the previous fighting in the civil war. Many diplomats and foreign reporters shifted their offices and residences to the district late last year because it was considered a safe zone.
Rockets exploded in the air a few yards above the King's Hotel, on a Houche hillside, where The Associated Press established temporary offices after being driven from its headquarters near the Holiday Inn.
On the political front, the Phalangist Party said Christian President Suleiman Franjeh was expected to announce a plan for his resignation within hours.

paigns of presidential contenders.

Supporters of the commission say the panel's objectives would not be harmed by a brief period of suspended powers.

Legislation to restructure the FEC in compliance with the court's decision has bogged down. The Senate debated the measure last week, adopting some amendments and rejecting others, and then agreed to try again this week to break the impasse. The House starts consideration of its own version of the legislation Wednesday or Thursday.

The basic dispute is whether to amend the law merely to meet the Supreme Court requirement that all members of the commission be appointed by the president and confirmed by the Senate.

Film On Manson Coming To TV

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Come April 1 and 2, actor Steve Railsback, a slight, soft-spoken Texan, is starring in a two-hour CBS show in a role that might understandably give any actor the willies.

He plays Charles Manson, the diminutive leader of a hippie-style "family" who with three female followers was convicted in 1971 in the slayings of actress Sharon Tate and six others in Los Angeles. Railsback, 30, says he was a bit wary of taking the Manson role in the show, "Helter Skelter," considering that some members of the original Manson clan are still around and still may be loyal to him. "As a matter of fact, I turned the part down at first," said Railsback, a native of Wichita Falls, Tex., and a struggling actor in New York at the time of the Tate-LaBianca murders in August 1969.

"I'd started hearing rumors. And you know, once a rumor gets started it builds and builds. So I really started getting nervous about it. But it didn't last but a couple of days. "Because I started thinking that if I began letting other people dictate to me what I should do, by fear or whatever way they do it, then I'm not going to be able to live with myself."

The actor, who said he never was threatened before, during or after filming "Helter Skelter," was asked what sort of rumors he'd heard when it became known a dramatization of the Manson case would be made for TV.

"Well, there was a rumor that Tim Gries, the director, had been threatened, gotten guard dogs and was moving his family to Florida — which wasn't true," he said.

"One rumor that turned out to be true was that the wife of the casting director had gotten a phone call from somebody — I don't know who — who said, 'If this picture is done, you'll be killed.'"

"But it could have been from anybody because LA's filled with crackpots. It could have been anybody just getting a charge."

Railsback, who has lived in New York 10 years, resembles Manson from a distance. Indeed, yours truly, present at the Manson trial the day Manson gently said, "I've killed no one and I've ordered no one killed," had a brief, chilling flashback when the actor walked in the office.

But even though Railsback's voice is eerily reminiscent of Manson's, he's about four inches taller. And his eyes don't have the intensely bright and unnerving quality of the man he's portraying.

Railsback, who studied films of Manson in preparing for the role, agrees that the convicted murderer's eyes were his most striking physical characteristic. He says he tried to convey that in his work.

"A lot of people say Manson is a man of a thousand faces, which he is," he said. "But I think he's more than that. He's also a man of a thousand eyes. At times, when he was talking to somebody in the films, his eyes seemed to change, almost burn."

"There was a moment when I wanted to meet him. But I couldn't," Railsback paused. "When I think about it," he said softly, "I'm kind of glad I didn't."

Film On Manson Coming To TV

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Come April 1 and 2, actor Steve Railsback, a slight, soft-spoken Texan, is starring in a two-hour CBS show in a role that might understandably give any actor the willies.

He plays Charles Manson, the diminutive leader of a hippie-style "family" who with three female followers was convicted in 1971 in the slayings of actress Sharon Tate and six others in Los Angeles.

Railsback, 30, says he was a bit wary of taking the Manson role in the show, "Helter Skelter," considering that some members of the original Manson clan are still around and still may be loyal to him.

"As a matter of fact, I turned the part down at first," said Railsback, a native of Wichita Falls, Tex., and a struggling actor in New York at the time of the Tate-LaBianca murders in August 1969.

"I'd started hearing rumors. And you know, once a rumor gets started it builds and builds. So I really started getting nervous about it. But it didn't last but a couple of days.

"Because I started thinking that if I began letting other people dictate to me what I should do, by fear or whatever way they do it, then I'm not going to be able to live with myself."

The actor, who said he never was threatened before, during or after filming "Helter Skelter," was asked what sort of rumors he'd heard when it became known a dramatization of the Manson case would be made for TV.

"Well, there was a rumor that Tom Gries, the director, had been threatened, gotten guard dogs and was moving his family to Florida — which wasn't true," he said.

"One rumor that turned out to be true was that the wife of the casting director had gotten a phone call from somebody — I don't know who — who said, 'If this picture is done, you'll be killed.'"

"But it could have been from anybody because LA's filled with crackpots. It could have been anybody just getting a charge."

Railsback, who has lived in New York 10 years, resembles Manson from a distance. Indeed, yours truly, present at the Manson trial the day Manson gently said, "I've killed no one and I've ordered no one killed," had a brief, chilling flashback when the actor walked in the office.

But even though Railsback's voice is eerily reminiscent of Manson's, he's about four inches taller. And his eyes don't have the intensely bright and unnerving quality of the man he's portraying.

Railsback, who studied films of Manson in preparing for the role, agrees that the convicted murderer's eyes were his most striking physical characteristic. He says he tried to convey that in his work.

"A lot of people say Manson is a man of a thousand faces, which he is," he said. "But I think he's more than that. He's also a man of a thousand eyes. At times, when he was talking to somebody in the films, his eyes seemed to change, almost burn."

"There was a moment when I wanted to meet him. But I couldn't."

Railsback paused. "When I think about it," he said softly, "I'm kind of glad I didn't."

Allegan Sheriff Opposed To Plan

ALLEGAN — Allegan Sheriff Robert Whitcomb has issued a statement opposing a county commissioner proposal to take the secretary of state's license bureau out of the sheriff's office.

Whitcomb said the bureau is only one of two in the state open six days instead of five and sheriff's employees who work in the bureau also provide simultaneous services for the sheriff's department.

In a statement made through Deputy Mike Dubay, Whitcomb, who is on vacation in Florida, said the bureau also registers voters and provides the county with revenue from rental of quarters.

In addition, he said, closing the bureau would force Allegan county residents to travel to Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids or Holland.

Commissioner James Rolfe of rural Allegan told the county board in January his county services committee is studying whether the bureau should be taken out of the sheriff's department.

The board and the sheriff have been feuding over sheriff's department expenditures.

In another area, Whitcomb said the inability of the sheriff's department to obtain low-cost insurance coverage on sheriff's patrol cars is not peculiar to Allegan county.

He said the county's five patrol cars in 1975 traveled from 700,000 to 750,000 miles, making the insurance loss rate of one cent per mile, with the cost of driver fault accidents at six-tenths of a cent per mile.

He added that Kent county has switched to "self insurance" because of high insurance rates, and Holland city police are considering a similar move.

Whitcomb's remarks on insurance coverage comes after county board members learned earlier this month that two major insurance carriers canceled their coverage at the close of 1975 because of a high loss ratio.

An Allegan insurance agent said the department's cars were involved in 12 major accidents in 1975 with a total insured loss of $7,062.

Only Lloyd's of London, an internationally famous company that will insure almost anything if their rates are paid, appears willing to provide insurance.

Whitcomb in his statement said that of the accidents considered the fault of drivers, at least one was directly due to equipment failure, and several others occurred on high-speed pursuits or emergency runs.

BH Driver Injured In Crash

KEELER — A Benton Harbor man was injured early this morning when the car he was driving near here left the road and struck a tree, according to state police at Paw Paw.

Michael Jerome Smith, 23, 3311 US-33 North, was listed in guarded condition this morning at Waterford Community hospital, according to a hospital spokesman.

Troopers said Smith was headed south on CR-487 near CR-352 when the accident occurred.

According to the officers, a nearby resident spotted the truck about 3 a.m. when he looked out a window and found Smith inside when he investigated.

Officers said Smith told them he had been in the wreckage about an hour before they arrived.

SHIP FOLLOWED
HALIFAX, Canada (AP) — Rear Adm. Bruce Keener, American commander of the NATO naval exercise SafePass, says a Russian intelligence-gathering ship followed the fleet through its 10-day exercise in the western Atlantic but did not harass it.

Vice Presidential Candidate?

HOLYOKE, Mass. (AP) — The treasurer of the Democratic National Committee says that if Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey gets the party's presidential nomination Sen. Edward M. Kennedy might accept a vice presidential bid. Edward Bennett Williams told a news conference Saturday that Kennedy, who has refused to run for president this year, never has said he would not run for the vice presidency. Williams said that a term as vice president for the Massachusetts senator would remove the stigma of Chappaquiddick — the 1969 accident in which a woman drowned when a car Kennedy was driving went off a bridge into a tidal pool.

FINANCIAL COMPLICATIONS: Twenty-one-month-old Ericka of El Salvador is held by her mother, Juana Francisca, at Ochsner Hospital in New Orleans where she is recovering from open heart surgery. A radio station called off a fund raising attempt to pay the $5,000 hospital bill after one caller said his bank would pay the whole cost. The earlier contributions were returned and the latter call turned out to be a hoax. (AP Wirephoto)

Cancer Fund Kickoff To Hear New Judge

PAW PAW — Meyer Warshawsky, recently appointed as Van Buren circuit court judge, will be the featured speaker at a program here Tuesday in kick off the annual fund drive of the Van Buren county chapter of the American Cancer society.

Judge Warshawsky will speak on "Problems of Children in Court" at 7:30 p.m. at the United Methodist church.

A goal of $17,500 has been set for the county drive which will be conducted in April, according to Mrs. Waldo (Helen) Dick, Van Buren chapter chairman.

Mrs. Dick said the money will go toward cancer research, public education, patient services and rehabilitation, and information on cancer to doctors.

During April, she said, the American Cancer society will be distributing leaflets to some 40 million homes listing the seven danger signs of cancer. Special focus of the leaflets is breast cancer.

There are an estimated 81,000 new cases of breast cancer each year, according to the American Cancer society, resulting in over 31,000 deaths annually.

Through the National Cancer Institute and the ACS about 300,000 women are being studied at 27 centers to find factors which will help in cancer diagnosis. About 200 women from Van Buren county have participated at a detection center at Ann Arbor within the last three months, Mrs. Dick said.

Red Cross Campaign Starts In Van Buren

PAW PAW — Sunday marked the first day of a two-week fund drive aimed at raising $15,000 to continue operations of the Van Buren county Red Cross for the next year.

The majority of the money will go toward continuing the Van Buren chapter's blood program, which last year provided some 2,000 pints of blood free to county residents, according to Mrs. Vivian LeRoy, chapter executive secretary.

Mrs. LeRoy said that had this program not been available, the blood would have to have been purchased at a going rate of from $35-$50 per pint. The chapter participates in the program through a regional blood center in Lansing.

Mrs. LeRoy said volunteers are still needed to help with collecting contributions and that pledges of financial support may be made by calling the Red Cross at 657-3000.

In addition to the blood program, the local chapter aids victims of disasters, conducts water safety and first aid classes, and provides hospital volunteers to assist nurses.

Claimed 'Murderer' Stopped As Speeder

State troopers at the Benton Harbor post said a Chicagoan stopped for speeding Saturday in Benton township told them he was to be sentenced today in Chicago on a murder charge, but they added that a computer check showed he was in court on an illegal use of weapons charge.

Troopers identified the motorist as Perry Beverly, 30, who was booked at the Berrien county jail on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. A .38 caliber Derringer pistol was confiscated from the car, troopers said.

Allegan Sheriff Opposed To Plan

ALLEGAN — Allegan Sheriff Robert Whitcomb has issued a statement opposing a county commissioner proposal to take the secretary of state's license bureau out of the sheriff's office.

Whitcomb said the bureau is only one of two in the state open six days instead of five and sheriff's employees who work in the bureau also provide simultaneous services for the sheriff's department.

In a statement made through Deputy Mike Dubay, Whitcomb, who is on vacation in Florida, said the bureau also registers voters and provides the county with revenue from rental of quarters.

In addition, he said, closing the bureau would force Allegan county residents to travel to Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids or Holland.

Commissioner James Rolfe of rural Allegan told the county board in January his county services committee is studying whether the bureau should be taken out of the sheriff's department.

The board and the sheriff have been feuding over sheriff's department expenditures.

In another area, Whitcomb said the inability of the sheriff's department to obtain low-cost insurance coverage on sheriff's patrol cars is not peculiar to Allegan county.

He said the county's five patrol cars in 1975 traveled from 700,000 to 750,000 miles, making the insurance loss rate of one cent per mile, with the cost of driver fault accidents at six-tenths of a cent per mile.

He added that Kent county has switched to "self insurance" because of high insurance rates, and Holland city police are considering a similar move.

Whitcomb's remarks on insurance coverage comes after county board members learned earlier this month that two major insurance carriers canceled their coverage at the close of 1975 because of a high loss ratio.

An Allegan insurance agent said the department's cars were involved in 12 major accidents in 1975 with a total insured loss of $7,092.

Only Lloyd's of London, an internationally famous company that will insure almost anything if their rates are paid, appears willing to provide insurance.

Whitcomb in his statement said that of the accidents considered the fault of drivers, at least one was directly due to equipment failure, and several others occurred on high-speed pursuits or emergency runs.

BH Driver Injured In Crash

KEELER — A Benton Harbor man was injured early this morning when the car he was driving near here left the road and struck a tree, according to state police at Paw Paw.

Michael Jerome Smith, 23, 3311 US-33 North, was listed in guarded condition this morning at Watervliet Community hospital, according to a hospital spokesman.

Troopers said Smith was headed south on CR-687 near CR-352 when the accident occurred.

According to the officers, a nearby resident spotted the truck about 3 a.m. when he looked out a window and found Smith inside when he investigated.

Officers said Smith told them he had been in the wreckage about an hour before they arrived.

HALIFAX, Canada (AP) — Rear Adm. Bruce Keener, American commander of the NATO naval exercise Safepass, says a Russian intelligence-gathering ship followed the fleet through its 10-day exercise in the western Atlantic but did not harass it.

Vice Presidential Candidate?

HOLYOKE, Mass. (AP) — The treasurer of the Democratic National Committee says that if Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey gets the party's presidential nomination Sen. Edward M. Kennedy might accept a vice presidential bid. Edward Bennett Williams told a news conference Saturday that Kennedy, who has refused to run for president this year, never has said he would not run for the vice presidency. Williams said that a term as vice president for the Massachusetts senator would remove the stigma of Chappaquiddick — the 1969 accident in which a woman drowned when a car Kennedy was driving went off a bridge into a tidal pool.

FINANCIAL COMPLICATIONS: Twenty one-month-old Ericka of El Salvador is held by her mother, Juana Francisca, at Ochsner Hospital in New Orleans where she is recovering from open heart surgery. A radio station called off a fund raising attempt to pay the $5,000 hospital bill after one caller said his bank would pay the whole cost. The earlier contributions were returned and the latter call turned out to be a hoax. (AP Wirephoto)

Cancer Fund Kickoff To Hear New Judge

PAW PAW — Meyer Warshawsky, recently appointed as Van Buren circuit court judge, will be the featured speaker at a program here Tuesday to kick off the annual fund drive of the Van Buren-county chapter of the American Cancer society.

Judge Warshawsky will speak on "Problems of Children in Court" at 7:30 p.m. at the United Methodist church.

A goal of $17,500 has been set for the county drive which will be conducted in April, according to Mrs. Waldo (Hellen) Dick, Van Buren chapter chairman.

Mrs. Dick said the money will go toward cancer research, public education, patient services and rehabilitation, and information on cancer to doctors.

During April, she said, the American Cancer society will be distributing leaflets to some 40 million homes listing the seven danger signs of cancer. Special focus of the leaflets is breast cancer.

There are an estimated 89,000 new cases of breast cancer each year, according to the American Cancer society, resulting in over 33,000 deaths annually.

Through the National Cancer Institute and the ACS about 300,000 women are being studied at 27 centers to find factors which will help in cancer diagnosis. About 200 women from Van Buren county have participated at a detection center at Ann Arbor within the last three months, Mrs. Dick said.

Red Cross Campaign Starts In Van Buren

PAW PAW — Sunday marked the first day of a two-week fund drive aimed at raising $15,000 to continue operations of the Van Buren county Red Cross for the next year.

The majority of the money will go toward continuing the Van Buren chapter's blood program, which last year provided some 2,000 pints of blood free to county residents, according to Mrs. Vivian LeRoy, chapter executive secretary.

Mrs. LeRoy said that had this program not been available, the blood would have to have been purchased at a going rate of from $35-$50 per pint. The chapter participates in the program through a regional blood center in Lansing.

Mrs. LeRoy said volunteers are still needed to help with collecting contributions and that pledges of financial support may be made by calling the Red Cross at 657-3000.

In addition to the blood program, the local chapter aids victims of disasters, conducts water safety and first aid classes, and provides hospital volunteers to assist nurses.

No injuries were reported.

Presidential Dreams Of 2 Could End In N. Carolina

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's voters are preparing to pass judgment in a primary election that could be crucial to two conservative presidential candidates, Democrat George C. Wallace and Republican Ronald Reagan.

Both candidates have suffered a string of early primary losses. Both would like victory in Tuesday's voting to demonstrate that they still have a political base from which to continue their campaigns. Democrats will choose 81 delegates and Republicans 54.

North Carolina voters in recent years have favored conservatives. The state gave 70 per cent of its vote to Richard Nixon in 1972. Democrats gave Wallace 50.2 per cent of the vote in the 1972 primary. In 1968, Hubert H. Humphrey ran a poor third behind Nixon and Wallace, when the Alabama governor was a third party candidate.

The state has a pronounced streak of fundamentalist social conservatism as well. The voters in 1973 turned down by a margin of 2-1 a proposal to allow the sale of cocktails in restaurants. North Carolina drinkers have to carry their liquor in "brown bags" if they want to consume it in public.

The primary schedule will not soon offer either Wallace or Reagan as hospitable an arena. New York and Wisconsin vote next on April 6 and Pennsylvania follows on April 27.

The North Carolina race gives Wallace another crack at a fellow Southerner, Jimmy Carter, who this year has laid claim to the Southern constituency that Wallace has held in Democratic politics since 1968.

Carter has presented himself as a politician of the New South, a man who says that the best thing that ever happened to the region was the passage of the civil rights acts Wallace bitterly opposed in the 1960s.

Carter's advertising shows him doing manual labor on his Georgia peanut farm. Wallace, meanwhile, has had to openly fight the doubts about his physical capacities that he thinks hurt him in Florida.

The Wallace of 1972 disclaimed mention of his opponents. "Let them draw their own crowds," he used to say. This week, however, he has lashed out at Carter, calling him a "warmonger over McGovern" and accusing him of lying about his past support of Wallace.

The Wallace of 1972 harped on the busing issue; busing was an emotional issue in the state's major cities after the U.S. Supreme Court ordered it for Charlotte in 1971.

But this year Wallace says he has found that "there's no use to talk about integration and segregation anymore" in the South. People have reluctantly accepted busing and turned their sights to other problems, he said last week.

So Wallace has told his audiences that he, too, is "a part of the New South." He has boasted of the black support he got in Alabama when he last ran for governor.

Wallace has also changed the format of his campaigns. He abruptly canceled several of the airport rallies that once were the staple of his tours. He replaced them with television interviews. Wallace's advisers said they were trying to overcome a lack of media exposure they feel hurt them in Florida.

But Wallace also was failing to draw the crowds he once commanded. In 1972, 2,500 supporters waited in the rain for Wallace to touch down briefly at one rural airport in one of the few campaign stops he made prior to the primary. This year, Wallace's audiences have numbered in the hundreds rather than the thousands.

Wallace's backers once confidently predicted that they would improve on their 1972 percentage. By last week, they were hedging and saying that a loss to Carter would not severely damage the campaign.

Reagan and his backers were saying much the same thing about the possibility of another loss to President Ford. But they also acknowledged that North Carolina was crucial because it is typical of the Southern states that, along with the West, they claim as their base.

U.S. Starts Dismantling Listening Post In Thailand

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The United States began dismantling its big radio-listening post in northeast Thailand today following the Thai government's weekend decision that all but 270 of the 4,000 American military personnel in Thailand must leave the country within four months.

Thousands of leftist students marched on the U.S. Embassy Sunday for an anti-American demonstration. A bomb thrown into the procession along the way killed four students and wounded more than 80.

Representatives of 18 rightist groups in favor of the U.S. military presence broke into the headquarters of the National Student Center of Thailand (NSCT), smashed furniture and broke windows. They also demanded that Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj "suppress Communists," investigate Soviet spying in Thailand and arrest a top leftist student leader.

Some NSCT leaders blamed the rightist groups for the bomb attack, but police said they had no suspects. One youth was badly beaten by students who believed he threw the bomb, but police let him go after questioning him.

A U.S. military spokesman said two C-130 transports took 118 American personnel and equipment from the Hamusan Electronics Intelligence Center out of the country.

The listening post 300 miles northeast of Bangkok ceased its monitoring of radio transmissions from Communist Indochina before midnight Saturday, the deadline set by the Thai government. About 800 U.S. employees remained at Ramusan, a spokesman said, and the withdrawal of them and other American personnel is expected to continue at a rapid pace.

Kukrit told reporters the contingent of 270 U.S. advisers to remain "could be fewer if the United States cuts its military aid to us." He added that the question of the American military presence might be reopened by the new government to be chosen by the new parliament that is to be elected April 4.

Presidential Dreams Of 2 Could End In N. Carolina

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's voters are preparing to pass judgment in a primary election that could be crucial to two conservative presidential candidates, Democrat George C. Wallace and Republican Ronald Reagan.

Both candidates have suffered a string of early primary losses. Both would like victory in Tuesday's voting to demonstrate that they still have a political base from which to continue their campaigns. Democrats will choose 61 delegates and Republicans 54.

North Carolina voters in recent years have favored conservatives. The state gave 70 per cent of its vote to Richard Nixon in 1972. Democrats gave Wallace 50.2 per cent of the vote in the 1972 primary. In 1968, Hubert Humphrey ran a poor third behind Nixon and Wallace, when the Alabama governor was a third party candidate.

The state has a pronounced streak of fundamentalist social conservatism as well. The voters in 1973 turned down by a margin of 2-1 a proposal to allow the sale of cocktails in restaurants. North Carolina drinkers have to carry their liquor in "brown bags" if they want to consume it in public.

The primary schedule will not soon offer either Wallace or Reagan as hospitable an arena. New York and Wisconsin vote next on April 6 and Pennsylvania follows on April 27.

The North Carolina race gives Wallace another crack at a fellow Southerner, Jimmy Carter, who this year has laid claim to the Southern constituency that Wallace has held in Democratic politics since 1968.

Carter has presented himself as a politician of the New South, a man who says that the best thing that ever happened to the region was the passage of the civil rights acts Wallace bitterly opposed in the 1960s.

Carter's advertising shows him doing manual labor on his Georgia peanut farm. Wallace, meanwhile, has had to openly fight the doubts about his physical capacities that he thinks hurt him in Florida.

The Wallace of 1972 disdained mention of his opponents. "Let them draw their own crowds," he used to say. This week, however, he has lashed out at Carter, calling him a "warmed over McGovern" and accusing him of lying about his past support of Wallace.

The Wallace of 1972 harped on the busing issue; busing was an emotional issue in the state's major cities after the U.S. Supreme Court ordered it for Charlotte in 1971.

But this year Wallace says he has found that "there's no use to talk about integration and segregation anymore" in the South. People have reluctantly accepted busing and turned their sights to other problems, he said last week.

So Wallace has told his audiences that he, too, is "a part of the New South." He has boasted of the black support he got in Alabama when he last ran for governor.

Wallace has also changed the format of his campaigns. He abruptly canceled several of the airport rallies that once were the staple of his tours. He replaced them with television interviews. Wallace's advisers said they were trying to overcome a lack of media exposure they feel hurt them in Florida. But Wallace also was failing to draw the crowds he once commanded. In 1972, 2,500 supporters waited in the rain for Wallace to touch down briefly at one rural airport in one of the few campaign stops he made prior to the primary. This year, Wallace's audiences have numbered in the hundreds rather than the thousands.

Wallace's backers once confidently predicted that they would improve on their 1972 percentage. By last week, they were hedging and saying that a loss to Carter would not severely damage the campaign.

Reagan and his backers were saying much the same thing about the possibility of another loss to President Ford. But they also acknowledged that North Carolina was crucial because it is typical of the Southern states that, along with the West, they claim as their base.

U.S. Starts Dismantling Listening Post In Thailand

Associated Press Writer

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The United States began dismantling its big radio listening post in northeast Thailand today following the Thai government's weekend decision that all but 270 of the 4,000 American military personnel in Thailand must leave the country within four months.

Thousands of leftist students marched on the U.S. Embassy Sunday for an anti-American demonstration. A bomb thrown into the procession along the way killed four students and wounded more than 80.

Representatives of 18 rightist groups in favor of the U.S. military presence broke into the headquarters of the National Student Center of Thailand (NSCT), smashed furniture and broke windows. They also demanded that Prime Minister Kukrit Pramoj "suppress Communists," investigate Soviet spying in Thailand and arrest a top leftist student leader.

Some NSCT leaders blamed the rightist groups for the bomb attack, but police said they had no suspects. One youth was badly beaten by students who believed he threw the bomb, but police let him go after questioning him.

A U.S. military spokesman said two C-130 transports took 118 American personnel and equipment from the Ramussen Electronics Intelligence Center out of the country.

The listening post 300 miles northeast of Bangkok ceased its monitoring of radio transmissions from Communist Indochina before midnight Saturday, the deadline set by the Thai government. About 900 U.S. employees remained at Ramussen, a spokesman said, and the withdrawal of them and other American personnel is expected to continue at a rapid pace.

Kukrit told reporters the contingent of 270 U.S. advisers to remain "could be fewer if the United States cuts its military aid to us." He added that the question of the American military presence might be reopened by the new government to be chosen by the new parliament that is to be elected April 4.

Money Pinch Felt By Russian Allies

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The Kremlin's allies in Eastern Europe are caught in an economic squeeze brought on by a 130 per cent increase in Soviet oil prices and the worldwide recession-inflation.

Workers are already feeling the pinch. Pay raises and the contents of grocery baskets are getting smaller while government appeals for increased labor efficiency, energy conservation and improved production quality are growing louder.

Although Russia gained more than $2 billion from its allies by drastically jacking up oil and other prices last year, the windfall was offset by Soviet harvest failures that forced the Kremlin to buy grain in the West.

Consequently, the Russians have adopted a Spartan economic plan for the next five years that lowers growth rates in almost every area of industrial and agricultural production.

A United Nations economic survey, released in Geneva last week, said prices in East Bloc trade "expanded at an unprecedented rate in 1975." One example cited was the hike in the price of Soviet oil from $3 to $7.50 a barrel as of Jan. 1, 1975.

The price jumped another 8 per cent to $8.10 at the start of this year. By 1978, Western analysts predict, Soviet oil will reach the world market level, now is $11.51 a barrel.

The initial reaction to the hike in oil prices of the bloc was shock, Western diplomats reported. East Germany, Poland, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and Hungary expected their unswerving loyalty to the Kremlin to be repaid with continued preferential treatment.

The shock was especially great in Hungary, where a $200-million trade surplus melted in a $600-million deficit just before the Russians raised oil prices. Hungary gets 70 per cent of its oil and energy needs from the Soviet Union.

Western trade accounted for $400 million of the 1974 deficit. Terms of trade with the West, worsened by more than 20 per cent in 1975 due to steep hikes in import prices, Trade with the East deteriorated by 7 to 8 per cent, largely due to increased costs of Russian raw materials.

State-owned Hungarian companies, which enjoyed relative independence by virtue of a national experiment with a modified market economy, now must turn over a larger share of their profits to the government. Unprofitable plants are to be shut down and their workers relocated.

For a time, Janos Kadar's Hungarian regime was able to protect the consumer from the shock of inflation through subsidies that last year totaled the equivalent of $1.25 billion. But this burden gradually became intolerable for the state coffers.

Last Dec. 1, a series of price increases took effect that raised the cost of sugar more than 60 per cent, from the equivalent of 23 cents a pound to 40 cents. This July, meat prices will go up by more than 30 per cent to a range of $1.69 to $3 a pound.

Real wages, by contrast, are to increase by only 1.5 per cent in 1976, compared with 4.5 per cent last year.

Hungary's predicament is reflected in other bloc states, as the U.N. survey showed. Subsidies to keep retail prices low have strained budgets.

The over-all Eastern trade deficit with the West nearly doubled to $6.5 billion last year. Chiefly because of harvest failures in the Soviet Union, economic growth in the bloc slowed to an average of 5.1 per cent.

According to private estimates, the U.N. survey said, the net indebtedness of the East Bloc to the West, the Soviet Union included, may have reached $27 billion by the end of 1975. Some of the Kremlin's allies are approaching the upper limit for foreign credits, Western analysts maintain.

Two Defectors Gave Differing Views On Oswald

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet KGB agent who defected to the United States in the months immediately after the November 1963 slaying of President John F. Kennedy sought to assure U.S. investigators that Lee Harvey Oswald was not a KGB agent, newly released CIA documents show.

The Russian, Yuri Nosenko, was one of two defectors from hostile intelligence agencies who played a key role in the U.S. investigation into whether Kennedy's assassination was the work of a foreign conspiracy, according to CIA documents.

The other defector, a Cuban linked to Fidel Castro's intelligence service, also arrived in the United States in the months immediately after the assassination. The Cuban told his interrogators that Oswald may have been in contact with Cuban intelligence agents just seven weeks before he killed Kennedy, according to the documents.

Because both defections came so soon after Kennedy was killed, former U.S. intelligence officials say they doubted the authenticity of the information provided by the two men, particularly Nosenko, since his testimony seemed to eliminate any possibility of Soviet involvement.

The Warren Commission concluded there was no evidence of a conspiracy, but a CIA memo written in May 1975 said that the Warren report "should have left a wider 'window' for this contingency. That, indeed, was the opinion at the working level... in 1964."

That memo is among some 1,500 pages of documents just released by the CIA in response to a Freedom of Information request.

A March 1964 CIA memo to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says Nosenko "reported that his own department was involved directly with Oswald because Oswald came to the USSR in 1958" but "there had not ever been thought given to recruiting either of them (Oswald or his Russian-born wife, Marina) as agents."

The memo warned, however, "this agency has no information which would specifically corroborate or disprove Nosenko's statement."

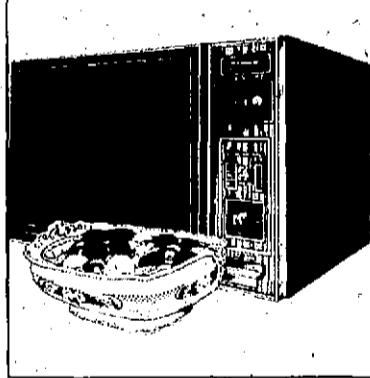

Nosenko, who according to the documents was questioned about Oswald as recently as 1967, insisted that "Oswald was of no interest to the KGB" because of his emotional instability as evidenced by an unsuccessful 1959 suicide attempt in Moscow.

Shoulder, Elbow & Knee Pain Noted in Bursitis Increase

Dr. Vince Ackerman of the Ackerman Chiropractic Center has noted that the number of bursitis cases in the Twin City area has markedly increased over the past months. "The problem has been with us for centuries," the Doctor of Chiropractic states, "but people are just starting to recognize it by its right name."

According to Dr. Ackerman, bursitis is best known by its symptoms. Bursitis is a sickness or inflammation of the joint capsule, and a swelling of tissue from irritation. The irritation may be chemical from disease, simple over-fatigue, or from external bruising. In the case of the shoulder, bursitis starts as a soreness and gradually worsens until it is sometimes impossible to move one's arm without extreme pain.

In many cases the early, mild condition will clear up after a rest period. But in each recurrence the condition lingers for a longer period of time and the joint gets stiffer and more sore. When bursitis persists, calcium deposits show up on the surfaces of the bones in the joint, causing arthritis. Adhesions even form in the joint capsule, causing a frozen joint.

"The problems of bursitis and the conditions it may cause are understandable when we remember that it is living tissue, a part of the living body, reacting to the causative factor," states Dr. Ackerman. He also states that the most common of the three irritating factors found in bursitis relates to injuries.

"For example," Dr. Ackerman says, "a fall injures the bursa of the shoulder joint. If this happens, healing forces cannot get to the injured part and bursitis can develop. As I've noted," he continues, "this condition can lead to all sorts of serious difficulties including arthritis."

Dr. Ackerman strongly urges persons who suffer from bursitis to undergo Chiropractic examination and treatment. "After all," he states, "the modern Doctor of Chiropractic is scientifically trained to detect misalignments and damage to the bursa."

Dr. Ackerman maintains offices at 3018 Red Arrow Hwy., St. Joseph (Telephone 429-1700).

King Kong Recalls His Famous Scene

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — King Kong is alive, well and happy as a security guard for a Chicago insurance company.

"It was me in my gorilla suit up on top of the Empire State Building, clutching Fay Wray in one hand or putting her gently on a ledge and knocking down attacking planes until the bullets got me," says Carmen Nigro, recalling the memorable, final scene of the 1933 movie classic, King Kong.

"Of course, what I was on was an eight-foot model on the RKO stage with a backdrop of New York City," said the man who was known for 25 years as the Hollywood Apeman.

"Fay Wray was an animated doll. Planes were projected on the backdrop. There were a few little gasoline-powered planes hooked on wires that were aimed around me. I wore fur-covered ballet slippers with rubber suction pads on the bottom. I looked 30 feet tall."

Nigro, whose professional name was Ken Roudy, is a lively 71-year-old who still can mimic the shuffle of an ape. He appeared as a stuntman in about 100 movies and played a gorilla in 33 others.

A barrel-chested 5-foot-6, Nigro was the hairy feast in Mighty Joe Young, The Unholy Three, Tarzan and His Mate, Night of Horror and Ape Man Nubinga. His last gorilla movie was Gorilla At Large in 1954.

Nigro said he studied the way an ape moves when he accompanied the late Frank Buck, the animal collector, on two jungle trips.

"I was ready when I heard RKO was looking for a gorilla man in 1931 to play the title role of King Kong," said Nigro. "I had to beat out a couple of other guys. I was the most realistic and besides I paid $3,500 to have a gorilla suit made out of six bear skins. I still have it at home but it's in pretty bad shape now."

"The hardest part of the job was withstanding the heat build-up inside the suit. I'd have to take the head off every 10 minutes to get my breath. Over the years I wore out eight Kong heads and 10 sets of arms and extension hands."

For his part as King Kong, one of the most famous roles in movie history, Nigro said he was paid $7,500. "and when you deduct the cost of the costume, I netted only $4,000."

Nigro now lives in a small apartment in Cicero, a Chicago suburb. He says producers would not let him use the name King Kong in the girl-and-gorilla acts he took across the country. He also worked as a dining car cook on the Santa Fe Railroad, finally became a chef and retired in 1970 after 32 years of service. He said he gets no money when King Kong or some of the other old movies he appeared in are on television.

They are remaking King Kong now in Hollywood, but Nigro says he is through with gorillas. "I'm just happy being a security guard and having my memories," he said.

KING KONG LIVES: Carmen Nigro, 71, is framed by King Kong posters as he admires his costume-of-old in his Chicago suburban Cicero home. Nigro, who can still mimic the shuffle of an ape, is alive, well, and happy as a security guard for a Chicago insurance company. (AP Wirephoto)

Family Affair Likely In November Election

HOUGHTON, Mich. (AP) — "Well, if you like a Mr. Nice Guy, then vote for him."

The "Mr. Nice Guy" Jeanette Otto was referring to is her husband, Howard, a Houghton

Otto filed for the Democratic nomination two weeks ago, hoping to be his party's candidate for the seat now held by Democrat Russell Hellman of Dollar Bay, who has not announced whether he is running for reelection.

But even if he wins the primary, Otto may still have formidable opposition in November.

Mrs. Otto has announced plans to file for the Republican nomination for the same legislative seat.

KING KONG LIVES: Carmen Nigro, 71, is framed by King Kong posters as he admires his costume-of-old in his Chicago suburban Cicero home. Nigro, who can still mimic the shuffle of an ape, is alive, well, and happy as a security guard for a Chicago insurance company. (AP Wirephoto)

HUSBAND VS. WIFE

Family Affair Likely In November Election

HOUGHTON, Mich. (AP) — "Well, if you like a Mr. Nice Guy, then vote for him."

The "Mr. Nice Guy" Jeanette Otto was referring to is her husband, Howard, a Houghton

pathologist seeking the Democratic nomination for 110th District state representative.

Otto filed for the Democratic nomination two weeks ago, hoping to be his party's candidate for the seat now held by Democrat Russell Hellman of Dollar Bay, who has not announced whether he is running for reelection.

But even if he wins the primary, Otto may still have formidable opposition in November.

Mrs. Otto has announced plans to file for the Republican nomination for the same legislative seat.

King, Queen Visit

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The King and Queen of Belgium arrive here today for a visit marked by little or no pageantry. King Baudouin and Queen Fabiola will be here for four days as the guests of Yale professor Robert Triffin, recipient of a high award from his native Belgium for work in international economics.

King Kong Recalls His Famous Scene

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — King Kong is alive, well and happy as a security guard for a Chicago insurance company.

"It was me in my gorilla suit up on top of the Empire State Building, clutching Fay Wray in one hand or putting her gently on a ledge and knocking down attacking planes until the bullets got me," says Carmen Nigro, recalling the memorable, final scene of the 1933 movie classic, King Kong.

"Of course, what I was on was an eight-foot model on the RKO stage with a backdrop of New York City," said the man who was known for 25 years as the Hollywood Ape man.

"Fay Wray was an animated doll. Planes were projected on the backdrop. There were a few little gasoline-powered planes hooked on wires that were aimed around me. I wore fur-covered ballet slippers with rubber suction pads on the bottom. I looked 50 feet tall."

Nigro, whose professional name was Ken Roady, is a lively 71-year-old who still can mimic the shuffle of an ape. He appeared as a stuntman in about 100 movies and played a gorilla in 33 others.

A barrel-chested 5-foot-6, Nigro was the hairy beast in Mighty Joe Young, The Unholy Three, Tarzan and His Mate, Night of Horror and Ape Man Nabonga. His last gorilla movie was Gorilla At Large in 1954.

Nigro said he studied the way an ape moves when he accompanied the late Frank Buck, the animal collector, on two jungle trips.

"I was ready when I heard RKO was looking for a gorilla man in 1931 to play the title role of King Kong," said Nigro. "I had to beat out a couple of other guys. I was the most realistic and besides I paid $3,500 to have a gorilla suit made out of six bear skins. I still have it at home but it's in pretty bad shape now."

"The hardest part of the job was withstanding the heat buildup inside the suit. I'd have to take the head off every 10 minutes to get my breath. Over the years I wore out eight Kong heads and 10 sets of arms and extension hands."

For his part as King Kong, one of the most famous roles in movie history, Nigro said he was paid $7,500, "and when you deduct the cost of the costume, I netted only $4,000."

Nigro now lives in a small apartment in Cicero, a Chicago suburb. He says producers would not let him use the name King Kong in the girl-and-gorilla acts he took across the country. He also worked as a dining car cook on the Santa Fe Railroad, finally became a chef and retired in 1970 after 32 years of service. He said he gets no money when King Kong or some of the other old movies he appeared in are on television.

They are remaking King Kong now in Hollywood, but Nigro says he is through with gorillas. "I'm just happy being a security guard and having my memories," he said.

INDIVIDUAL FREEDOMS IN DANGER

Population Growth Key To Woes

REJECTS NOMINATION: U.S. Rep. Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., late Saturday night, rejected a nomination to run as independent for president for the National Black Political Assembly meeting at Cincinnati, Ohio. He was the second candidate to turn down the offer. Georgia legislator Julian Bond declined earlier. Dellums, 40, said he turned down the spot because of the conflict of running as an independent for president and also serving as a Democratic Congressman. (AP Wirephoto)

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation and unemployment may become permanent problems even for highly developed nations unless world population growth is reduced, says a new United Nations-financed study.

In reviewing 22 issues affected by population, the study concluded that "nearly all have one thing in common: they can be expected to get much worse before they get better."

Rapid population growth, it said, is already straining the world's capacity to grow crops, catch fish, fight illness, provide housing and jobs, and fight off inflation and pollution.

The study was prepared by the Worldwatch Institute, a private nonprofit research organization, with funding from the United Nations Fund for Population Activities.

Population growth is leading to increased urbanization, overgrazing of forage lands, destruction of forests, crowding and political conflict, and demands on energy, minerals and resources, the study said.

If unchecked, the report added, the problems brought on by high population could become so severe that they could be solved only at the cost of severe restraints on individual freedom.

Underdeveloped countries generally face the worst problems, with high rates of population growth and limited resources. But the report said rich industrialized countries like the United States are not immune.

Population growth, it said, was an important factor in what it described as a new kind of monetary inflation caused by an actual scarcity of resources that could not expand as fast as the population and its demands can and do.

"With four billion consumers already on the scene and 200,000 more being added each day, scarcity-induced inflationary pressures may grow chronic," it said.

"Indeed, inflation poses one of the most difficult challenges that political leaders will face in the years ahead. What they must now realize is that, without a marked slowdown in population growth, inflation simply may not be manageable."

U.S. population growth has already slowed down to the range of around 1 per cent a year, but the demand for resources per person has continued to increase rapidly, at around 3 per cent or more per year.

The situation is far worse in underdeveloped countries with higher population rates and a need for rapid increase of per capita incomes.

The report indicated unemployment, too, was a more difficult problem for underdeveloped nations but may continue to plague the developed countries as well.

It said that economists estimate that for every 1 per cent growth in the labor force, a 3 per cent rate of economic growth is required to generate jobs.

Second Black Declines Nomination

CINCINNATI (AP) — The National Black Political Assembly is determined to run an independent political campaign for president, but it is having trouble finding a willing candidate.

Within a week, Georgia state Sen. Julian Bond and Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., declined the nomination while praising what the assembly is trying to accomplish.

Bond, even before he turned down the bid last Monday, expressed doubts about the effectiveness of the third party effort this late in the campaign. He did, however, address the convention at the urging of chairman Ron Daniels.

Dellums was thrust into the forefront of consideration after Bond's refusal and said he spent an agonizing 72 hours before declining the nomination in an emotional speech to the convention Saturday night.

"This is not my role and this is not my moment," Dellums told the convention, "but if I ever do decide to run, it will be with you."

Dellums said personal reasons — and the contradiction that would develop from running an independent presidential campaign while a Democratic congressman — forced him to decline the nomination.

The convention contemplated organizing a draft to pressure Dellums to accept. But it adjourned Sunday to continue its search for a candidate — without pressuring Dellums.

Mungulizi Sanyika, the assembly's director of political strategy, emphasized that the assembly is running a campaign of ideals, not one which centers on a candidate. But he admitted that delegates were disappointed by Dellums' decision.

"Politics is a risky business," Sanyika said.

The assembly hopes to have a candidate by the time it meets again on the weekend of May 22 at a yet-to-be determined location, he said. It also hopes to present its platform in its final format at that time.

"There will definitely be a candidate," Sanyika said. "The only question now is whether he will be a national figure or will come from inside the assembly itself."

The list of candidates remains long, Sanyika said, and includes comedian and civil rights activist Dick Gregory; Washington, D.C., educator Barbara Sizemore; Massachusetts state

Sen. William Owens; and Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich.

Each of them addressed the assembly during its five-day convention. But Gregory said he was not interested in the nomination, and another potential candidate, Mayor Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind., also said he would not accept it.

The assembly approved for mation of a political organization to carry forth the campaign, and Sanyika said plans will continue to place the party, labeled the Independent Freedom party, on the ballot in 25-30 states.

The assembly plans to conduct a massive voter registration drive which would increase the number of black voters by 15 per cent. It also hopes to influence political decisions from the left as Alabama Gov. George Wallace has done from the right.

Anti-Crime Conference

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken will hold a crime prevention conference here May 5-6 to discuss community crime prevention programs. Milliken's office announced that he has invited 600 people from throughout the state representing the 57 cities and 21 counties with the highest crime rates. Those invited include local government officials, private citizens, and representatives of state agencies.

Here's What YOU Can Do About Inflation

The first secret of surviving inflation is to recognize that, at least for the time being, more of your income is going for such necessities as food, fuel and utilities. This means less for other things. It also means questioning every purchase and expenditure — separating the essential from the non-essential.

While adjusting your spending pattern, try to save more. The added income earned on your savings will help you meet rising prices, and increased savings will provide capital to finance housing and the increased production of essential goods now in short supply.

You must insist on frugality in government at all levels — federal, state and local.

Tunisian Chief Claims Libyan Made Death Plot

PARIS, (AP) — President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia charged in a radio interview broadcast today that Col. Moammar Khadafy of Libya planned to have him killed.

Bourguiba said four men charged with the assassination plot had been arrested and that the Tunisian ambassador to Libya is being recalled.

He did not indicate when the alleged attack was to have taken place.

Relations between Tunisia and Libya have been strained since a 1974 agreement between the two presidents to unite the adjoining countries fell through.

Population growth, it said, was an important factor in what it described as a new kind of monetary inflation caused by an actual scarcity of resources that could not expand as fast as the population and its demands can and do.

"With four billion consumers already on the scene and 200,000 more being added each day, scarcity-induced inflationary pressures may grow chronic," it said.

Indeed, inflation poses one of the most difficult challenges that political leaders will face in the years ahead. What they must now realize is that, without a marked slowdown in population growth, inflation simply may not be manageable.

U.S. population growth has already slowed down to the range of around 1 per cent a year, but the demand for resources per person has continued to increase rapidly, at around 3 per cent or more per year.

The situation is far worse in underdeveloped countries with higher population rates and a need for rapid increase of per capita incomes.

The report indicated unemployment, too, was a more difficult problem for underdeveloped nations but may continue to plague the developed countries as well.

It said that economists estimate that for every 1 per cent growth in the labor force, a 3 per cent rate of economic growth is required to generate jobs.

Second Black Declines Nomination

CINCINNATI (AP) — The National Black Political Assembly is determined to run an independent political campaign for president, but it is having trouble finding a willing candidate.

Within a week, Georgia state Sen. Julian Bond and Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., declined the nomination while praising what the assembly is trying to accomplish.

Bond, even before he turned down the bid last Monday, expressed doubts about the effectiveness of the third party effort this late in the campaign. He did, however, address the convention at the urging of chairman Ron Daniels.

Dellums was thrust into the forefront of consideration after Bond's refusal and said he spent an agonizing 72 hours before declining the nomination in an emotional speech to the convention Saturday night.

"This is not my role and this is not my moment," Dellums told the convention, "but if I ever do decide to run, it will be with you."

Dellums said personal reasons — and the contradiction that would develop from running an independent presidential campaign while a Democratic congressman — forced him to decline the nomination.

The convention contemplated organizing a draft to pressure Dellums to accept. But it adjourned Sunday to continue its search for a candidate — without pressuring Dellums.

Mtanguizi Sanyika, the assembly's director of political strategy, emphasized that the assembly is running a campaign of ideals, not one which centers on a candidate. But he admitted that delegates were disappointed by Dellums' decision.

"Politics is a risky business," Sanyika said.

The assembly hopes to have a candidate by the time it meets again on the weekend of May 22 at a yet-to-be determined location, he said. It also hopes to present its platform in its final format at that time.

"There will definitely be a candidate," Sanyika said. "The only question now is whether he will be a national figure or will come from inside the assembly itself."

The list of candidates remains long, Sanyika said, and includes comedian and civil rights activist Dick Gregory; Washington, D.C., educator Barbara Sizemore; Massachusetts state

Sen. William Owens; and Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich.

Each of them addressed the assembly during its five-day convention. But Gregory said he was not interested in the nomination, and another potential candidate, Mayor Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind., also said he would not accept it.

The assembly approved formation of a political organization to carry forth the campaign, and Sanyika said plans will continue to place the party, labeled the Independent Freedom party, on the ballot in 25-30 states.

The assembly plans to conduct a massive voter registration drive which would increase the number of black voters by 15 per cent. It also hopes to influence political decisions from the left as Alabama Gov. George Wallace has done from the right.

Anti-Crime Conference

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken will hold a crime prevention conference here May 5-6 to discuss community crime prevention programs. Milliken's office announced that he has invited 600 people from throughout the state representing the 57 cities and 21 counties with the highest crime rates. Those invited include local government officials, private citizens, and representatives of state agencies.

Here's What YOU Can Do About Inflation

The first secret of surviving inflation is to recognize that, at least for the time being, more of your income is going for such necessities as food, fuel and utilities. This means less for other things. It also means questioning every purchase and expenditure — separating the essential from the non-essential.

While adjusting your spending pattern, try to save more. The added income earned on your savings will help you meet rising prices, and increased savings will provide capital to finance housing and the increased production of essential goods now in short supply.

You must insist on frugality in government at all levels — federal, state and local.

Tunisian Chief Claims Libyan Made Death Plot

PARIS (AP) — President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia charged in a radio interview broadcast today that Col. Moammar Khadafy of Libya planned to have him killed.

Bourguiba said four men charged with the assassination plot had been arrested and that the Tunisian ambassador to Libya is being recalled.

He did not indicate when the alleged attack was to have taken place.

Cancer Society Seeking Drivers

The Berrien county unit of the American Cancer society, 1501 Niles avenue, St. Joseph, has a need for volunteer drivers to provide transportation for patients in the Sawyer and Union Pier areas to treatment centers. Charles Loud, executive director of the Berrien Cancer unit, stated that these drivers should be from the southwestern portion of the county. The drivers would provide transportation one day a week for approximately five weeks, and will be reimbursed for their gasoline. Persons interested in volunteering are asked to telephone 983-7305 between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. After 5 p.m. they can call Mrs. Barbara Pozizwilo, transportation chairman, at 429-4845, Loud reported.

Thin Slice Of Global Population Lives In Richest Lands

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sixty-nine per cent of the world's population in 1973 lived in countries where per capita income was below $500 and 30 per cent lived where it was less than $200, the World Bank says.

By contrast, about 8 per cent of the population lived in the richest nations, where per capita annual income was $5,000 and above; 17 per cent lived in countries with incomes from $2,000-$5,000; and 14 per cent in countries with incomes from $500-$2,000, according to the World Bank's 1975 Atlas.

The atlas also showed that while income has increased in industrial and oil-exporting nations it has remained virtually unchanged in the poorest countries.

It listed six major nations where per capita income was above $5,000 in 1973, compared with just one, the United States, in 1971. On the other hand, there were 38 countries with populations of more than one million that had per capita income below $200, the same as in 1971.

The atlas contains the latest available world-wide information on population and income growth, as reflected in individual nations' gross national products. The atlas was released last week, though some of the data was made available in preliminary form in late 1975.

The bank cautioned that there is "an element of error" in its figures because of rapid price changes. Incomplete and unreliable data in some cases and the need to convert all currencies into one, the U.S. dollar, for purposes of comparison.

No attempt was made to offset the impact of inflation on income.

But the bank said its statistics provide "very rough guides to the absolute state of poverty in the developing world" and approximate measures of average economic conditions and trends.

The very rich in 1973, those with per capita income exceeding $5,000 and with populations in excess of one million, were the United States, $6,200; Switzerland, $6,100; Sweden, $5,910; Canada, $5,450; West Germany, $5,330; and Denmark, $5,210.

Some smaller countries also were counted among the very rich, including three oil-exporting nations, Kuwait, $12,000; the United Arab Emirates, $11,030; and Qatar, $6,040. Also in the wealthy group was Iceland, $5,030.

The poorest nations on the list, all with incomes of $200 or below, were Mauritania, Togo, Kenya, Sierra Leone, Central African Republic, South Vietnam, Malagasy Republic, Uganda, Zaire, Sudan, Tanzania, Indonesia and Haiti.

Also, India, Sri Lanka, Pakistan, Benin, Malawi, the two Yemens, Guinea, Niger, North Vietnam, Lesotho, Nepal, Ethiopia, Afghanistan, Somalia, Chad, Bangladesh, Burma, Burundi, Cambodia, Rwanda, Upper Volta, Mali and the two poorest, both with per capita income of $90, Bhutan and Laos.

Three of the world's five most populous nations had per capita income below $500 — the largest; Communist China, $270; India, $120; and Indonesia, $130. The other largest countries are the Soviet Union, $2,030, and the United States.

Besides being the two wealthiest of the most populous, the United States and the Soviet Union also had the lowest population growth rates during the eight-year period ending in 1973, at 1 per cent a year. China's growth rate was 1.7 per cent, India's 2.3 per cent and Indonesia's 2 per cent.

The fastest growing economies during the eight-year period were Saudi Arabia, 10.1 per cent a year; Japan, 9.1 per cent; Singapore, 9.4 per cent; South Korea, 8.7 per cent; Nigeria, 8.3 per cent; and Portugal, 8 per cent.

CHOSEN ONE: First Lady Betty Ford speaks at a luncheon of the Women's National Republican club in New York over the weekend when she was honored as the "Republican Woman of the Year." Mrs. Ford said Ronald Reagan's candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination had helped her husband's campaigning. She declined to say whether the challenger should drop out but she did add his campaign is a "very healthy situation because really competition is one of the best things as far as politics is concerned." Young Wants 'Truce'

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Mayor Coleman Young said Sunday he wants to call a truce between the city and its suburban neighbors.

Young said a "family squabble" attitude has blocked progress for years on regional projects such as mass transportation.

"A sort of parent-child, love-hate element illustrates the relationship between the city and suburbs," Young told more than 200 parishioners at the Birmingham Unitarian Church.

"That's natural, and part of the reaction of those in the suburbs in the feeling of guilt similar to that felt by children in their relationship with a rejected parent."

"And those in the city, like the rejected parent, have reacted with a certain self-righteousness that says, 'You owe me something,'" Young said.

The Detroit mayor said that while he does not favor regional government, he believes that the city and suburbs should cooperate on various projects which would benefit them both.

He gave no sign that he is willing to give up any of the power the city has in regional bodies such as the transit agency or the Detroit Metropolitan Water Board.

Young repeated his views Sunday that nonresidents who work in the city should pay at least twice as much in income taxes as they do now. Several people in the church audience said after Young's speech that they agree with him.

"I take my kids to the Art Institute, the zoo and Cobo Hall all the time," said Abe Amir, who lives in Rochester and works in Birmingham.

"I'm quite aware that somebody else is paying for what I'm enjoying — and the people who are paying need money," Amir said.

Young's speech Sunday contrasted sharply with a speech he delivered a year ago before Detroit's Central Business District Association. In that address, he blasted suburban developers for conducting "raiding parties" on downtown office buildings and demanded that the suburbs "get the hell out of the way" and let Detroit begin a rapid transit system.

Young said a "family squabble" attitude has blocked progress for years on regional projects such as mass transportation.

"A sort of parent-child, love-hate element illustrates the relationship between the city and suburbs," Young told more than 200 parishioners at the Birmingham Unitarian Church.

"That's natural, and part of the reaction of those in the suburbs in the feeling of guilt similar to that felt by children in their relationship with a rejected parent."

"And those in the city, like the rejected parent, have reacted with a certain self-righteousness that says, 'You owe me something,'" Young said.

The Detroit mayor said that while he does not favor regional government, he believes that the city and suburbs should cooperate on various projects which would benefit them both.

He gave no sign that he is willing to give up any of the power the city has in regional bodies such as the transit agency or the Detroit Metropolitan Water Board.

Young repeated his views Sunday that nonresidents who work in the city should pay at least twice as much in income taxes as they do now. Several people in the church audience said after Young's speech that they agree with him.

"I take my kids to the Art Institute, the zoo and Cobo Hall all the time," said Abe Amir, who lives in Rochester and works in Birmingham.

"I'm quite aware that somebody else is paying for what I'm enjoying — and the people who are paying need money," Amir said.

Young's speech Sunday contrasted sharply with a speech he delivered a year ago before Detroit's Central Business District Association. In that address, he blasted suburban developers for conducting "raiding parties" on downtown office buildings and demanded that the suburbs "get the hell out of the way" and let Detroit begin a rapid transit system.

REDFORD: No expletives deleted.

RAQUEL: Great singing and dancing.

FORD: No response on Angola.

Raquel Danced, Sang Well, Made Lots Of Money

Q: How did Raquel Welch make out on her world tour? — H.C., Vancouver, Wash.
A: In spite of some critical coolness, Raquel did just great as she sang and danced her way across the U.S., Europe and South America. Her cabaret act is reported to have made a profit of some $750,000 during the swing.

Q: Has President Ford admitted that the CIA financed the recent recruiting of British mercenaries to fight in Angola? — Z.E., Mobile, Ala.

A: That the CIA was the ultimate source of the money paid to the mercenaries has been openly charged by many. But as far as we know the President has never responded to this accusation. The mercenary involvement in the Angola fighting was a fiasco although many fought bravely. At the press conference announcing his restructuring of the U.S. intelligence establishment, Ford was, for some reason, not even asked about this controversy.

Q: If the Watergate film "All the President's Men" is supposed to teach us a lesson in political morality, why did it get an "R" rating? — D.V., Denver, Colo.

A: Producer-star Robert Redford appealed the "R" rating and got it reduced to "PG." Yet it is strange that, with a picture of such historical importance, they weren't able to avoid this hassle. Apparently, Redford didn't want the film, like the Nixon tapes, to come out with "expletives deleted." The trouble wasn't sex and violence but dirty language.

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: Is it true that James Caan's wife Sheila is expecting? We hear everyone in Hollywood thinks so and can't wait to start counting backwards. Let's hope the rumor is true as that will be one beautiful baby.

Q: Why are so few recent movies shown on TV these days? The films seem to be getting older and older. — Y.O., Richmond, Va.

A: The problem is that Hollywood is making fewer features than usual and that many of today's films have too much X-rated material to make it in the tube. When you get tired of the golden oldie flicks you'll just have to go out to see a new film in a movie theater... and that makes some people very happy.

Q: Elton John seems to have dropped out. Where is he these days? — A.E., Houston, Tex.

A: Elton, who suffered a second serious depression, is down in Barbados with his entourage getting his act together before he starts his next tour in Great Britain this spring.

ON SEPT. 29, 1779, John Paul Jones, in the refitted French vessel renamed the Bonhomme Richard (in honor of Benjamin Franklin's "Poor Richard"), engaged the British 44-gun Serapis off the east coast of England. He captured and boarded the ship as his own vessel sank. The World Almanac recalls Jones' famous words in the British captain of the Serapis when asked "Do you ask for quarters?" "I have not yet begun to fight."

ICE VETERAN: Lewis E. Lloyd, 68, passes on 50 years of figure-skating experience to 15-year-old Debbie Jozwiak of Midland, Mich. She's one of nearly 300 young people who are being taught by Lloyd. (AP Wirephoto)

He's Really Expert On 'Figures'

By EDWARD C. HUTCHISON
MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — North Dakota farmboy Lewis E. Lloyd has banked on figures to keep body and soul together.

His work at the Dow Chemical Co. earned him recognition as an expert in economics. His enthusiasm for figure skating lured and nurtured what is now considered one of the largest and more active figure skating clubs in Michigan.

Now 68, Lloyd is the granddaddy of Saginaw Valley figure skating.

This is a man whose next pair of skates will cost $230. That kind of money buys a custom-built boot and fine steel blade, the likes of which grace neither the shelves of sporting goods shops nor pages of the Sears, Roebuck & Co. catalog.

He wears his expertise in skating and economics proudly. Skating came first.

"I was the only boy in a family of six," he recalled. "We were reared on a farm in the country and except for school, I never saw other boys. I never played baseball or football. I never had any interest in team sports. I guess I am a loner in that sense."

He and his skates became good buddies while he studied for his Ph.D. at the University of Michigan.

The woman he was to marry won state honors for her skating. Her interest became his. He coupled her help with instruction from the physician assigned to the football team.

He studied physical chemistry only because an assistantship limited him to that field. Such a tradeoff was a familiar gamble. Back in North Dakota, he drove a school bus to pay room and board expenses at the school.

Dow hired him in 1937 as a chemist.

His goal then was to learn German. After a few months of intensive study, he became quite proud of his new tongue. That ended when he learned others at Dow could translate German chemistry papers better than he.

"I found there was no one then who knew both economics and chemistry," he changed right then and turned his attention exclusively to business economics.

Dr. Lloyd retired four years ago as an economist and business counselor. Since then, he has been called to testify as an expert witness before congressional committees 24 times.

"I don't need to take a second fiddle to anyone in the field," he said. "There is only a handful of people who have any real knowledge of this field."

Lloyd has published two books, is working on three more and has contributed chapters to several others.

His work at Dow was in Midland, but Lloyd skated in Saginaw because Midland lacked a good rink. He recalled fondly the fellow worker who got up at 4 a.m., if needed, to water the tennis court at a private club and create a layer of ice.

He and his wife, Lavon, taught men, women and children how to figure skate. But taking money for lessons made him a professional and banned him from being an officer in figure skating clubs.

Thus when the Midland Figure Skating Club was formed in 1955, the founding members met in the Lloyd home and listened to their advice but passed over the Loyds when officers were elected.

"The figure skating group is nuts about amateurism. A person couldn't even work in a rink without being considered a professional, even though he couldn't even skate."

"It's silly, but that's the way it is."

The club now has about 500 members. It differs from most in its strong emphasis on teaching. Nearly 300 of those members are children who each Saturday morning get instructions at Midland's newly enclosed double rink.

Lloyd is one of the four club professionals, teaching four different groups. At Northwood Institute, Lloyd also teaches a class in bank management and two in international merchandising.

When there's extra time, he plays his Spanish guitar, works with his hand tools and studies the fine points of race sailing.

"I don't have any trouble keeping busy," Lloyd said. "I learned quite early in life that work is something to be sought, not something to shy away from. A lot of people try to see how little work they can do. But they don't understand what living's all about."

'Human' Bucks Beat Stockbridge, 54-42

Buchanan Makes 'C' State Finals

By JACK WALKIDEN
Staff Sports Writer

LANSING — Alas, Buchanan's Bucks are human after all.

But then every team is allowed one bad game in the state tournament, especially if it still means a victory.

And winning was about the only thing that pleased

Buchanan coach Bill Wilson in the Bucks' 54-42 Class C semifinal win over Stockbridge before more than 3,500 fans Saturday at the Lansing Civic Center.

"It wasn't artistic, but we'll take a win anytime," Wilson said. "It's the type of game you like to get out of your system. We know we can play better than that."

Artistic or not, the win still left the Bucks just one game away from the coveted Class C state championship. Buchanan, now 27-0, faces Negaunee (25-1) for the title at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at Crisler Arena in Ann Arbor. Negaunee gained a berth in the championship game by nipping previously-unbeaten Unionville-Sebewaing 55-51 Saturday.

The Bucks finished with their worst shooting (45 percent) and most turnovers (31) of the tourney, while being held to their lowest point total. But it still was enough to win.

In the end it was Buchanan's defense and marksmanship at the free throw line which made the difference. The closely-called game saw 49 fouls and 57 turnovers and the Bucks took advantage at the free throw line. Buchanan had one less field goal than the Panthers (18-17) but made up the deficit by cashing in on 20 of 31 opportunities at the charity stripe. Stockbridge converted just six of 17 free throw attempts and more importantly missed seven vital one-and-ones.

It was the Buck defense which Wilson wanted to talk about.

"All the talk was about the Stockbridge defense," he said. "But they only got 42 points, so we didn't play all that badly on defense, either. We got help from the inside people and we had to have it."

(Phil) Young penetrated well for Stockbridge but he still always had people to shoot over. He was never able to get a clear shot.

Stockbridge coach Phil Hora was proud of his team, which held Buchanan 24 points under its tournament average and finished 20-7.

"We have nothing to be ashamed of," Hora said. "We played about as well as we're capable of playing. We could have shot better, but it's tough shooting over 6-6 players. We came a lot farther than anyone expected us to, I know that. I couldn't ask for anymore from the kids."

"They (Buchanan) certainly deserve to be No. 1," he added. "I haven't seen very many Class C teams any better. They've got everything — strong guards and big men inside."

Buchanan again featured a balanced scoring attack led by the Busby brothers. Mike tossed in 15 points and Gerald added 14. Center Ken Garrett was held to 10 points, his lowest total of the season, but still cracked double figures for the 28th straight game.

Young was the only Stockbridge player to finish in double digits, hitting seven of 14 from the floor and scoring 15 points.

It was the Panther full-court press which kept Stockbridge in the game during the first half. Buchanan raced out to a 17-5 lead in the first six minutes before Stockbridge used the press to all but stop the Buck attack. Buchanan went almost six minutes without scoring as Stockbridge came back to twice tie the game, the last time at 22-22 with less than two minutes left in the half.

"I thought we could bother them a little with the press," Hora said. "But I didn't expect it to bother them that much. But, then, defense is what got us this far. When you can hold a player like Garrett to 10 points, that's defense."

"We went to the press earlier than I had wanted to. But when you fall behind as fast as we did, you have to do something. I thought the press would rattle Buchanan. But I expected it to hurt a little, but not enough like what happened in the second half."

Wilson felt the Bucks just weren't adjusting to the Panther press in the first half.

"We were being denied the ball because they were pinching in close and we couldn't get through," Wilson said. "We adjusted in the second half by using our pick to create a defensive switch. It was easier to get the ball in and we were more successful in the second half."

"We could've cracked in the second quarter," Wilson said. "But we held our composure. Some of the other teams that played Saturday didn't."

Buchanan outscored Stockbridge 9-2 in the first five minutes of the second half to grab a commanding 35-24 lead. The Panthers never got closer than seven after that.

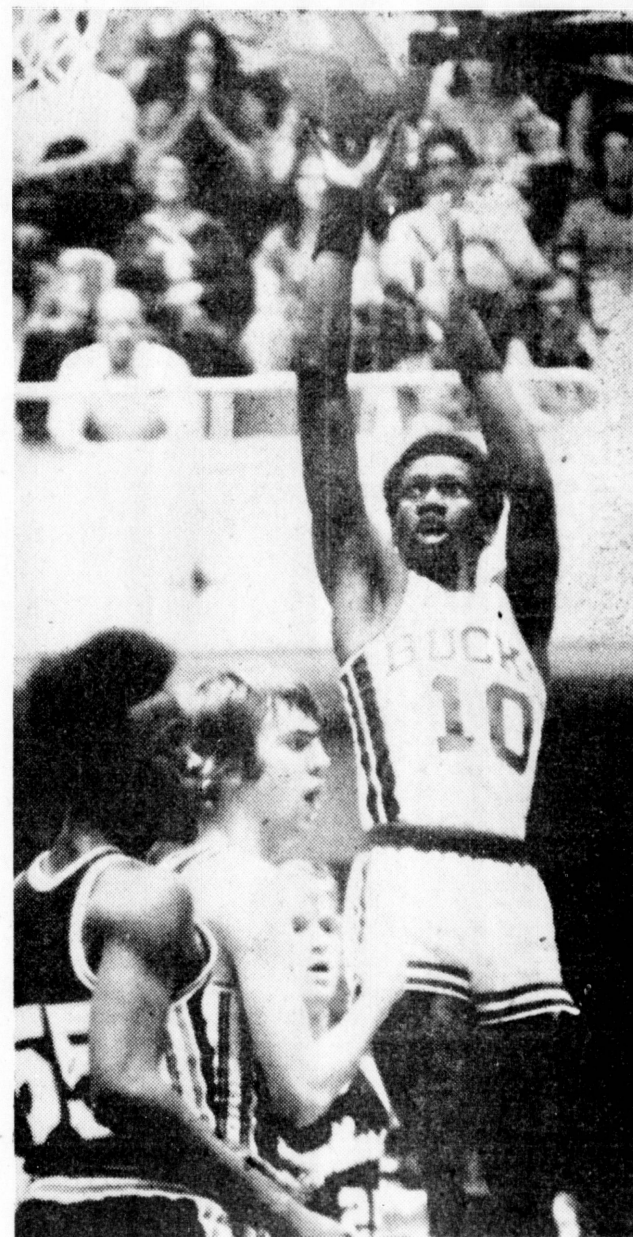

Foul trouble forced the Bucks into their four-corner offense for most of the second half. Gerald Busby took advantage of the situation by scoring two baskets and getting fouled on four other occasions.

"Gerald really picked up the slack, but then he's been doing it all year," Wilson said. "We were forced into the four-corner earlier than we wanted to because we had to protect the kids in foul trouble."

"Our guards were not able to penetrate as much as they had in earlier games, but Gerald was able to."

Due to fouls and turnovers, Buchanan incredibly got off just 38 shots from the floor, hitting 17. Stockbridge canned just 18 of 50 for 36 percent.

Buchanan held a 41-31 board edge with Mike Busby hauling down 13, Garrett 11 and Gerald Busby six. Milt Campbell had 13 for the Panthers.

GREAT FAKE? Buchanan's Gerald Busby (10) appears to have put such a great fake on three Stockbridge players that the trio is looking into the stands for the Buck center during Saturday's Class C semifinal game at the Lansing Civic Center. Actually, the look of surprise is directed at an official, who had just whistled Jerry King (middle) for one of 49 fouls called during the game. Milt Campbell (55) and Larry Conley (25) also look puzzled for the Panthers. Buchanan got past Stockbridge 54-42 to gain a berth in the state finals. (Staff photo by Harry Smith)

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Michigan could get a third shot at No. 1-ranked Indiana, but first there's a little matter of getting by a team that has yet to lose a game this college basketball season: Rutgers.

The ninth-ranked Wolverines tangled with fourth-ranked Rutgers in one semifinal of the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament Saturday in Philadelphia, while unbeaten Indiana meets defending champion UCLA in the other. The winners meet next Monday night for the title.

Michigan, runner-up to Indiana in the Big Ten, lost twice to the Hoosiers but can't afford to look ahead to a rematch.

"Any team that wins 31 games without a loss — well, if you look by 'em, you've gotta be nuts," said Michigan coach Johnny Orr of Rutgers, after his team beat Missouri, 95-88, Saturday in the quarterfinals.

"But maybe they'll look by us."

Big Eight champion Missouri overcame an 18-point deficit in the first half and took a five-point lead 12 minutes into the second to turn the Midwest Regional title game at Louisville's Freedom Hall into a close battle.

However, the great outside shooting of Willie Smith wasn't enough to offset the balance of Michigan. Smith, who scored 29 of his 43 points in the second half, cooled off the last 7½ minutes, and the spirited young Wolverines kept their cool in the stretch.

"They've got a five-man team," said Missouri coach Norm Stewart, referring to the Wolverines' balance.

"They've only got one player on the team, and that can't beat you," said Michigan's Ricky Green in describing the Tigers.

And teammate Dave Baxter added, "When he (Smith) can't do the things he wants to, it hurts the team. You can't be a good team with one man trying to do it." Baxter added 18 points for Michigan.

The triumph raised Michigan's record to 24-6, matching its previous highest victory total.

Asked if his players let up with the big lead, he said, "I didn't see anybody relaxing. The natural thing when you have a lead like that, though, is that you don't call on that extra something. You don't push yourself. I think that was our case."

Robinson wound up with 21 points and grabbed 16 rebounds, while teammate Phil Hubbard had 20 points and 18 rebounds. Hubbard was joined on the all-tournament team by Green, who had 23 points, plus Smith, Adrian Dantley of Notre Dame and Rick Bullock of Texas Tech. Smith was named most valuable player.

Michigan Survives Missouri's Physical, Verbal Intimidation

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Push, shove, slam, grab, knock, bump, bruise, batter.

It was a pretty rough quarterfinal game for the Michigan Wolverines, but they dished out as much as they took Saturday against Missouri and survived plenty of verbal and physical intimidation as well.

Just ask Steve Grote. The gritty junior guard, noted for his bull-like defensive style, refused to back down against riled-up Willie Smith.

Grote wound up fouling out of the 95-88 Michigan victory, which sends the Wolverines to the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball tourney semifinals against Rutgers Saturday at Philadelphia.

Smith — who scored a career-high 43 points — put both his hands in Grote's face and shoved him in the opening minutes of the game when Grote was preparing to inbound the ball. "He started talking to me," Grote said, "and I stuck my face right in his. He called me, 'White boy.' I guess he thought that would scare me. It didn't. I knew I was a white boy."

There was no foul called. "That ...," Smith said of Grote. "They're going out, trying to trip and hold. If I was a coach, I wouldn't tell my players to do that."

That incident was the most obvious, but there were others less noticeable because of the flow of the game.

There were 50 personal fouls called (29 by Missouri) and two technicals — one on Smith for slamming the ball to the court in anger over a call. Four players fouled out: Grote, plus Tigers Jim Kennedy, Kim Anderson and Jeff Currie.

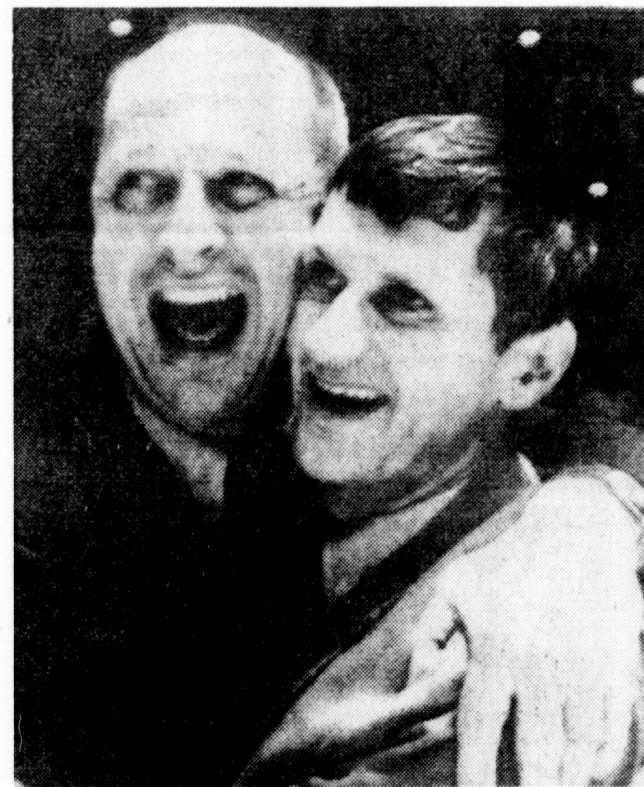

Dave Baxter, who played 30 minutes as Grote's replacement, had a few words with Smith during his efforts to stop the super outside shooter.

"He thought I was holding him on a cut to the basket," Baxter said. "I said I wasn't. He said, 'Let's play ball,' and that was it. Words are going to be said when everyone's playing hard."

Smith, in a put-on, said the words exchanged were "all complimentary" and that the Wolverines "are sportsmen. I am, too. I'm just not used to losing."

Kennedy had a number of jostling encounters, and Coach Norm Stewart pulled him after one of them, apparently to prevent a further flareup. "It was rough as heck under the boards," Kennedy said. "There was a lot of pushing and shoving. We both got away with a lot of stuff and they (officials) Henry Nichols and Robert Workman) could have blown the whistle every five seconds if they had wanted."

Saturday Win Sets Up Indiana Rematch

UCLA, Bartow Get Second Chance

From Associated Press

Gene Bartow remembers the first time UCLA played Indiana this season. It's not a very pleasant memory, but it's one he's getting a chance to erase.

"It was my first game at UCLA," said the man who stepped into the shoes of the legendary John Wooden as coach of the Bruins. "It meant so much to me, the pressure that was on me was extended to our players. I think we were over-prepared."

Indiana overran UCLA 84-64

In that season opener in St. Louis Nov. 29, the Hoosiers' first triumph in a perfect string of 30 so far this year. The Bruins, meanwhile, stumbled through the early part of their schedule but then put the pieces together to win the Pacific-8 title and a berth in the NCAA tournament, where they are defending the title they won 10 of the past 12 years under Wooden.

Bartow will get a chance to wipe out the memory of that initial defeat Saturday when Indiana and UCLA square off again in the NCAA semifinals at the Spectrum in Philadelphia. It's the second game of a doubleheader that will be nationally televised (NBC, 2 p.m. EST), with Rutgers, 31-0, and Michigan, 24-6, meeting in the first semifinal. The winners meet in the final Monday night, March 28.

If top-ranked Indiana's 65-58 triumph over No. 2 Marquette in the Midwest Regional Saturday was the Game of the Year, the UCLA-Indiana matchup must rate as the Rematch of the Year.

The last time, All-American center Kent Benson of Indiana was the dominant factor, controlling play at both ends of the court. But since then, 6-foot-10 freshman David Greenwood has replaced 7-2 senior Ralph Drollinger as UCLA's starting pivotman, and Bartow hopes the two of them will be enough to contain Benson.

Also on display in the big rematch will be two of the game's premier forwards, Scott May of Indiana and Richard Washington of UCLA. The 6-foot-seven May is a first-team

All-American and college basketball's Player of the Year, while the 6-10 Washington was a second-team All-American.

Both played prominent roles in Saturday's regional finals. Washington scored 22 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to lead fifth-ranked UCLA, 26-4, past 15th-ranked Arizona 82-66 in the West Regional on UCLA's home floor, Pauley Pavilion. The game was tied 58-58 with eight minutes left before UCLA broke it open with 12 consecutive points, Washington getting two baskets and an assist in the burst.

May picked up three personal fouls in the first 1½ minutes of Indiana's game against Marquette at Baton Rouge, La., and sat out the rest of the first half. But he came back in the second half to help his team to its 64th victory in the last 65 games.

The red-hot Hoosiers hit 15 of their first 21 shots from the field and raced to an early 30-19 lead before Marquette closed to 36-35 at halftime. The Hoosiers built a 10-point lead midway through the second half, but again the Warriors rallied.

With 2:18 to play it was 57-54, and Marquette had the ball. But Bo Ellis missed a turnaround jumper, Indiana collapsed the rebound and Tom Abernethy was fouled. What's more, Marquette Coach Al McGuire, complaining that Ellis had been fouled, was slapped with a technical. Abernethy sank two free throws, the Hoosiers retained possession of the ball and free throws by Abernethy and Bob Wilkerson moments later plus a layup by Quinn Buckner clinched the victory.

Benson led Indiana's balanced attack with 18 points, May had 13 and Abernethy 12. Earl Tatum was high scorer for Marquette with 22.

The Rutgers-Michigan semifinal matches two teams whose forte is quickness. Both could carve their mark in the record book by going all the way.

The Scarlet Knights, should they win the semifinal and final, would finish with a 35-0 record, the most victories ever by a major college team in one season. The Wolverines, who finished second in Indiana in the Big Ten, are trying to be the first conference runner-up to win the national crown.

Fourth-ranked Rutgers got its running game going in the East Regional at Greensboro, N.C., against VMI, leading by as many as 21 points and then turning back a mild challenge by the Keydets to win easily 91-75.

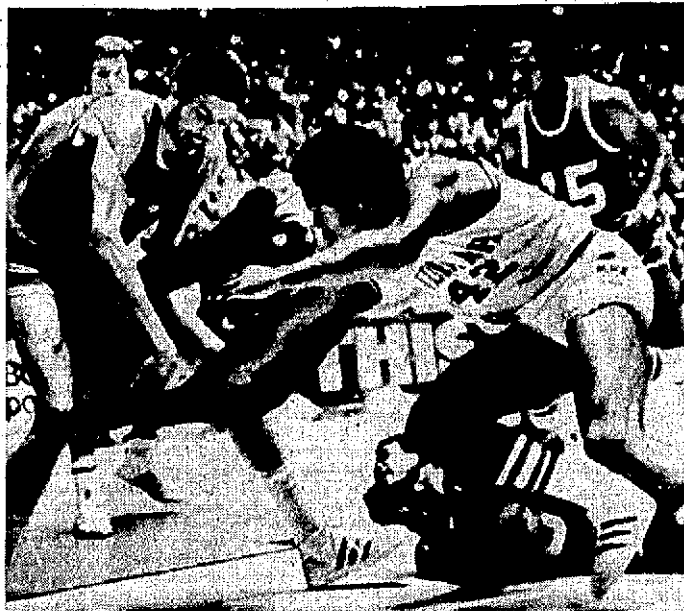

Guard Ed Jordan and Mike Dabney scored 21 points apiece for Rutgers, while Will Bynum led VMI with 34.

Ninth-ranked Michigan, meanwhile, is hoping for its third shot of the season at mighty Indiana. The Hoosiers won 80-74 at Ann Arbor, Mich., and 72-67 in overtime at Bloomington, Ind., in the regular season.

Michigan got 23 points from Rickey Green, 21 from John Robinson and 20 from Phil Hubbard to offset a spectacular 34-point game by Missouri guard Willie Smith and beat the Tigers 95-88.

Michigan led 41-21 late in the first half before Smith shot Missouri back into the game with his long-range jumpers. The Tigers took a 76-71 lead 12 minutes into the second half, but were then outscored 16-4 as Michigan took control again.

"We're not afraid of anybody," said Michigan Coach Johnny Orr. "We respect Indiana and Rutgers because any team that goes unbeaten is a great team. But we're not afraid of anyone."

Cinderella 'Chokes'

In Finals Of NIT

NEW YORK (AP) — The North Carolina-Charlotte 49ers took three bites of the "Big Apple" — but couldn't get the fourth down.

After delicious victories over the University of San Francisco, Oregon and North Carolina State, time finally ran out Sunday for the Cinderella team of the 1976 National Invitation Tournament.

"I think we did a tremendous job and I'm really proud of my team," said North Carolina-Charlotte Coach Lee Rose after losing the NIT finals 71-67 to the red-hot Kentucky Wildcats. "I think you must keep in mind that Kentucky's got three high school All-Americans on their team — and we have none."

The unheralded 49ers had a seven-point lead with ten minutes left in the game and the opportunity to knock off one of college basketball's traditional powers. But strangely, they went into a slowdown while Kentucky's entire starting front line was sitting on the bench in foul trouble.

Eventually Mike Phillips, Jack Givens and James Lee — all of them saddled with four fouls — came back into the game to help Kentucky win the 38th NIT title.

The Wildcats, who landed in the finals at Madison Square Garden with close victories over Niagara, Kansas State and Providence, didn't do things the easy way in the championship game, either. Phillips scored five points in the last minute, including a crucial tap-in on a missed foul shot, and the 49ers contributed two key turnovers at the end.

"Phillips' big play at the end was a super effort," said Hall, whose team was given up for dead in midseason but finished with 10 straight victories. "The big thing about this team is that for the last 10 games, they have simply refused to be beaten. I had all the confidence in the world that we were going to win this one."

Hall, whose Wildcats lost the NCAA championship game last year to UCLA, put the whip cream on his 1976 season by beating the 49ers.

The Wildcats' dramatic victory overshadowed a splendid performance by UNC-Charlotte's Cedric Maxwell, who scored 24 of his tournament-leading 109 points to win the NIT's Most Valuable Player prize.

"Cornbread" just came in here and captured the imagination of the New York press," said Rose. "That's really a heck of a thing."

Second Straight Win

For 'Lucky' Green

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Hubert Green counts himself a lucky man.

"I'm lucky I can play golf for a living," he said.

"I'm lucky that playing golf enables me to go all over the world, places my mother and father never even thought about going. I've played in Australia and New Zealand and Morocco and Japan. I've played in England and Scotland and other places in Europe. I'm lucky I can do this. Not everybody can."

And how about the money he's piled up while playing his game, well over one-half million dollars in the last 3½ seasons?

"Money isn't everything," Green replied in his curiously quick, clipped delivery. "It's nice to have, but it isn't everything."

"I'm trying to pile up the titles, not money. If you win the titles, win the golf tournaments, the money will follow."

And Green, rapidly advancing through the ranks of the game's premier performers, piled up another one Sunday, rallying from the potential disaster of a double bogey with a gritty, two-under-par 70 that won him the $15,000 first prize in the Greater Jacksonville Open.

It was the second title in as many weeks for the man who calls himself "just a skinny kid from Birmingham," and the 11th, including a Japanese title, in his career.

Now Green, who won this one by two strokes with a 12-under-par total of 278, would like to get lucky enough to win one of the game's Big Four crowns, the only thing he really needs to gain his full stature as one of golf's leading practitioners.

The victory, called down with a magnificent shot from a fairway sand trap on the 18th hole, allowed him to join Johnny Miller, Hale Irwin and Ben Crenshaw as the only double winners of the year. The two consecutive first place checks have pushed his earnings to $89,066, fourth on the money-winning list for the season and ahead of Nicklaus and Miller.

Veteran Miller Barber was second with a 71-278. Ed Dougherty birdied his last three holes for a 67 and a tie with Mike Hill at 278. Hill shot a last round 71. U.S. Open champion Lou Graham was next with 71-280.

Toronto Wanted

By Both Leagues

NEW YORK (AP) — Toronto, which recently lost out on a franchise switch, now finds it is being wooed by both leagues.

"I'm overjoyed," said Paul Godfrey, chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto Council. "One fair mind and two suitors — that has to say something about the kind of city Toronto is."

It is an ironic twist for the Canadian city which lost the National League Giants when San Francisco found financial interests to buy the club and keep it there.

Saturday, both the American League and National League expressed interest in Toronto. The American League took the initiative by voting 11-1 to expand to Toronto in 1977. Then the National League responded by saying it would actively consider expansion in 1977, also to Toronto.

The American League has a head start, but the National League seems to have the advantage of having a ready-made rivalry in the Montreal Expos. Chub Feeney, president of the National League, said the NL had not committed itself to definite expansion in 1977 but it could convene a meeting "on a moment's notice."

"We'll negotiate with the presidents of both leagues," said Godfrey. "I lean to the one who's going to give us baseball quicker."

Lee MacPhail, president of the American League, said the AL's move was prompted by a desire to have an even number of teams for the 1977 season. The American League is already committed to Seattle as a 19th team.

But the American League would probably not be adverse to yielding on Toronto and maintaining 13 teams in each league in 1977, provided there was inter-league play. The AL favors inter-league play, but the NL is opposed to it.

Meanwhile, negotiations between the owners and the players on a new labor contract were expected to resume today. The owners on Saturday withdrew their "best and final offer" to which Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, said: "It's a negotiating tactic. They can do anything they want."

Saturday Win Sets Up Indiana Rematch

UCLA, Bartow Get Second Chance

From Associated Press

Gene Bartow remembers the first time UCLA played Indiana this season. It's not a very pleasant memory, but it's one he's getting a chance to erase.

"It was my first game at UCLA," said the man who stepped into the shoes of the legendary John Wooden as coach of the Bruins. "It meant so much to me, the pressure that was on me was extended to our players. I think we were over-prepared."

in that season opener in St. Louis Nov. 29, the Hoosiers' first triumph in a perfect string of 30 so far this year. The Bruins, meanwhile, stumbled through the early part of their schedule but then put the pieces together to win the Pacific-8 title and a berth in the NCAA tournament, where they are defending the title they won 10 of the past 12 years under Wooden.

Bartow will get a chance to wipe out the memory of that initial defeat Saturday when Indiana and UCLA square off again in the NCAA semifinals at the Spectrum in Philadelphia. It's the second game of a doubleheader that will be nationally televised (NBC, 2 p.m., EST), with Rutgers, 31-0, and Michigan, 24-6, meeting in the first semifinal. The winners meet in the final Monday night, March 29.

If top-ranked Indiana's 65-56 triumph over No. 2 Marquette in the Midwest Regional Saturday was the Game of the Year, the UCLA-Indiana matchup must rate as the Rematch of the Year.

The last time, All-American center Kent Benson of Indiana was the dominant factor, controlling play at both ends of the court. But since then, 6-foot-10 freshman David Greenwood has replaced 7-2 senior Ralph Drollinger as UCLA's starting pivotman, and Bartow hopes the two of them will be enough to contain Benson.

Also on display in the big rematch will be two of the game's premier forwards, Scott May of Indiana and Richard Washington of UCLA. The 6-foot-seven May is a first-team

All-American and college basketball's Player of the Year, while the 6-10½ Washington was a second-team All-American.

Both played prominent roles in Saturday's regional finals.

Washington scored 22 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to lead fifth-ranked UCLA, 26-4, past 15th-ranked Arizona 82-66 in the West Regional on UCLA's home floor, Pauley Pavilion. The game was tied 58-58 with eight minutes left before UCLA broke it open with 12 consecutive points, Washington getting two baskets and an assist in the burst.

May picked up three personal fouls in the first 6½ minutes of Indiana's game against Marquette at Baton Rouge, La., and sat out the rest of the first half. But he came back in the second half to help his team to its 64th victory in the last 65 games.

The red-hot Hoosiers hit 15 of their first 21 shots from the field and raced to an early 30-19 lead before Marquette closed to 36-35 at halftime. The Hoosiers built a 10-point lead midway through the second half, but again the Warriors rallied.

With 2:18 to play it was 57-54, and Marquette had the ball. But Bo Ellis missed a turnaround jumper, Indiana collared the rebound and Tom Abernethy was fouled. What's more, Marquette Coach Al McGuire, complaining that Ellis had been fouled, was slapped with a technical. Abernethy sank two free throws, the Hoosiers retained possession of the ball and free throws by Abernethy and Bob Wilkerson moments later plus a layup by Quinn Buckner clinched the victory.

Benson led Indiana's balanced attack with 18 points, May had 15 and Abernethy 12. Earl Tatum was high scorer for Marquette with 22.

The Rutgers-Michigan semifinal matches two teams whose forte is quickness. Both could carve their mark in the record book by going all the way.

The Scarlet Knights, should they win the semifinal and final, would finish with a 33-0 record, the most victories ever by a major college team in one season. The Wolverines, who finished second to Indiana in the Big Ten, are trying to be the first conference runner-up to win the national crown.

Fourth-ranked Rutgers got its running game going in the East Regional at Greensboro, N.C., against VMI, leading by as many as 21 points and then turning back a mild challenge by the Keydets to win easily 91-75.

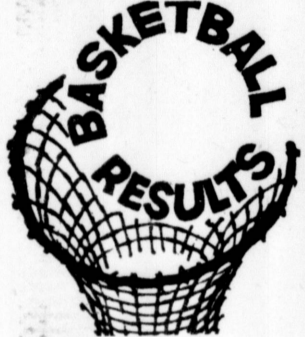

Guards Ed Jordan and Mike Dabney scored 23 points apiece for Rutgers, while Will Bynum led VMI with 34.

Ninth-ranked Michigan, meanwhile, is hoping for its third shot of the season at mighty Indiana. The Hoosiers won 80-74 at Ann Arbor, Mich., and 72-67 in overtime at Bloomington, Ind., in the regular season.

Michigan got 23 points from Rickey Green, 21 from John Robinson and 20 from Phil Hubbard to offset a spectacular 43-point game by Missouri guard Willie Smith and beat the Tigers 95-88.

Michigan led 41-23 late in the first half before Smith shot Missouri back into the game with his long-range jumpers. The Tigers took a 76-71 lead 12 minutes into the second half, but were then outscored 16-4 as Michigan took control again.

"We're not afraid of anybody," said Michigan Coach Johnny Orr. "We respect Indiana and Rutgers because any team that goes unbeaten is a great team. But we're not afraid of anyone."

Cinderella 'Chokes' In Finals Of NIT

NEW YORK (AP) — The North Carolina-Charlotte 49ers took three bites of the "Big Apple" — but couldn't get the fourth down.

After delicious victories over the University of San Francisco, Oregon and North Carolina State, time finally ran out Sunday for the cinderella team of the 1976 National Invitation Tournament.

"I think we did a tremendous job and I'm really proud of my team," said North Carolina-Charlotte Coach Lee Rose after losing the NIT finals 71-67 to the red-hot Kentucky Wildcats. "I think you must keep in mind that Kentucky's got three high school All-Americans on their team — and we have none."

The unheralded 49ers had a seven-point lead with ten minutes left in the game and the opportunity to knock off one of college basketball's traditional powers. But strangely, they went into a slowdown while Kentucky's entire starting front line was sitting on the bench in foul trouble.

Eventually Mike Phillips, Jack Givens and James Lee — all of them saddled with four fouls — came back into the game to help Kentucky win the 39th NIT title.

The Wildcats, who landed in the finals at Madison Square Garden with close victories over Niagara, Kansas State and Providence, didn't do things the easy way in the championship game, either. Phillips scored five points in the last minute, including a crucial tap-in on a missed foul shot, and the 49ers contributed two key turnovers at the end.

"Phillips' big play at the end was a super effort," said Hall, whose team was given up for dead in midseason but finished with 10 straight victories. "The big thing about this team is that for the last 10 games, they have simply refused to be beaten. I had all the confidence in the world that we were going to win this one."

Hall, whose Wildcats lost the NCAA championship game last year to UCLA, put the whip cream on his 1975-76 season by beating the 49ers.

The Wildcats' dramatic victory overshadowed a splendid performance by UNC-Charlotte's Cedric Maxwell, who scored 24 of his tournament-leading 109 points to win the NIT's Most Valuable Player prize.

"'Cornbread' just came in here and captured the imagination of the New York press," said Rose. "That's really a heck of a thing."

'Magic' Aids Saginaw, River Rouge

Everett Upset; Negaunee Tops Unionville-Sebewaing.

From Associated Press

There is a sort of "magic" about the Michigan prep basketball tournaments, and if you don't believe it just ask River Rouge Coach Lufkin Greene or Saginaw Coach Charlie Cole.

But don't ask Detroit Catholic Central Coach Bernie Holowiecki. He doesn't believe in magic — he just hard work and determination.

The results, however, were the same for all three men Saturday as they guided their clubs to semifinal victories and look forward now to a trek to Ann Arbor for title games next Saturday.

Catholic Central pulled the biggest shocker of the day, upsetting No. 1 Lansing Everett, 68-60, in a Class A tilt behind a 26-point performance by senior guard Mike Prince and solid team defense.

"This is a hard-working and dedicated group of young men," Holowiecki said after the great upset. "They felt they had something to prove, and they really went out and did it."

Fabulous Everett junior Earvin Johnson poured in 30 points, but was guilty of 10 turnovers which contributed to the Vikings' downfall.

"We knew they were a good shooting team, and we knew we'd have trouble stopping Johnson," Holowiecki said. "So we collapsed on him and tried to shut off their other people. It was all hard work."

It was hard work for Saginaw and Rouge, too, mixed with some magic.

Saginaw (20-7) nipped Pontiac Central, 53-52, in the other Class A game on Robert Kelly's last-second desperation shot that hit the rim as the buzzer sounded. It was Kelly's only shot of the day.

The ball bounced up crazily, hit near the top of the glass, bounced back onto the rim, rolled maddeningly around the rim, then finally fell through as the crowd went wild.

"Some of our fans got on me for putting Kelly in the game," Cole said. "I guess he proved me right."

A dejected Pontiac Coach Ralph Grubb called it a "once-in-a-lifetime shot."

Paul Roby, a 6-foot-5 senior, led Saginaw with 16 points and Mike Peterson added 11.

Rouge (24-3) also resorted to "magic" to snitch a 58-56 victory from a hustling Saginaw Buena Vista in one of the Class B semifinals. But, in the case of the perennial Class B favorites, such magic has almost become a habit under the watchful eye of Greene.

Lionel Reeves took an inbound pass from Gerald Campbell, with two seconds showing on the clock and slammed the ball into the hoop at the buzzer to provide Rouge the margin of victory.

The second-ranked Panthers now go against No. 1 Flint Beecher (26-0) in the title game. Beecher blasted Coldwater, 78-41, in the semis.

"You have to be impressed with Rouge," said Beecher Coach Mike Bedore. "They are not big by Rouge standards, but they are very quick. And you have to be impressed with the man (Greene)."

The Class C title game will feature the No. 1 and No. 4 state powers in Buchanan (27-0) and Negaunee (23-1).

Buchanan dumped Stockbridge, 54-42, in the semifinals while Negaunee — the Upper Peninsula's lone tournament survivor — pulled a mild upset in ousting No. 2 Unionville-Sebewaing, 55-51. Negaunee had to overcome a six-point halftime deficit to pull out the victory.

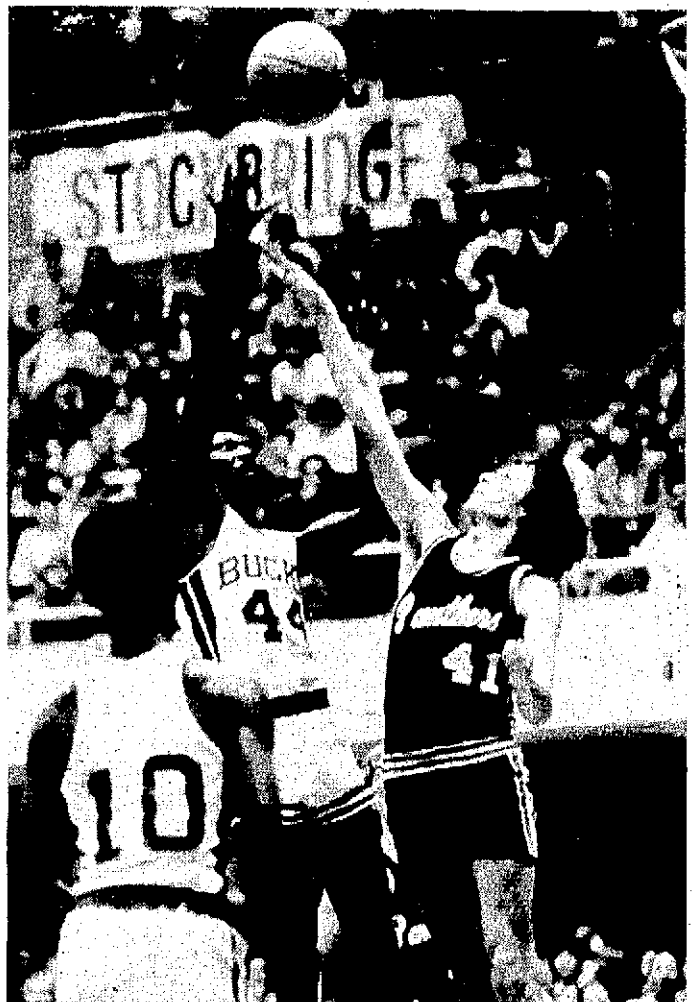

Detroit St. Martin DePorres (24-1), the state's No. 1 Class D victory over Detroit East Catholic before a meager crowd of only 250 fans in the Lansing Civic Center (which seats 4,300).

"They're both small schools in a big city, and they just don't have the following a Class D school might have in a community like, say, Harbor Springs," said one tournament official. "But I've got to say I thought they'd have more fans than that!"

But you can bet there'll be plenty of fans for Saturday's title tilt when DePorres' opponent is none other than Harbor Springs. The third-ranked Rams landed Maple City Glen Lake, 80-70, in the semis to earn their second title shot in the past four years.

Harbor Springs (27-0) has one of the most loyal and fanatical followings in the annals of the Michigan schooling tournament, and officials in that northwestern Lower Michigan community wish they could get more tickets.

All title games are slated for the University of Michigan's Crisler Arena. The Class B championship contest is scheduled to begin at 11 a.m., Class A at 2:30 p.m., Class D at 7 p.m. and Class C at 8:30 p.m.

BUSBY JUMPER: Buchanan's Mike Busby (44) goes up for a jump shot over Stockbridge's Rod Kennedy (41) during Saturday's Class C semifinal game at the Lansing Civic Center. Looking on is Mike's brother Gerald (10). Mike tossed in 15 points and pulled down 13 rebounds to help Buchanan top Stockbridge 54-42 in advance to the Class C championship game next Saturday at Crisler Arena in Ann Arbor. All the girls events were run exhibition but that didn't deter the Lakers' four-lap relay team of Rhonda Edwards, Cathy Friske, Sue Farrow and Peggy Root of shattering the old fieldhouse record of 1:31.3 with a time of 1:29.8. Tom Jager turned in the best boys finish for Lakeshore by winning the 80-yard-high hurdles in 7.9. Keith Arend came in fourth in the same race in 8.2.

Niles' shuttle hurdle relay team of Mike Larrabee, Greg Dungey, Leonard Fowler and Chris O'Toole turned in a 30.8 clocking, good for a second place finish. Larrabee also came through with a third in the 80-yard high hurdles in 8.1. The Vikings got fourth place finishes from their sprint medley and two-mile relay teams.

East Kentwood won the A meet with 48 points while Niles was fifth with 23 points and Benton Harbor was 12th with three points.

'Magic' Aids Saginaw, River Rouge

From Associated Press

There is a sort of "magic" about the Michigan prep basketball tournaments, and if you don't believe it just ask River Rouge Coach Lofton Greene or Saginaw Coach Charlie Cole.

But don't ask Detroit Catholic Central Coach Bernie Holowicki. He doesn't believe in magic — just hard work and determination.

The results, however, were the same for all three men Saturday as they guided their clubs to semifinal victories and look forward now to a trek to Ann Arbor for title games next Saturday.

Catholic Central pulled the biggest shocker of the day, upsetting No. 1 Lansing Everett, 68-60, in a Class A tilt behind a 26-point performance by senior guard Mike Prince and solid team defense.

"This is a hard-working and dedicated group of young men," Holowicki said after the great upset. "They felt they had something to prove, and they really went out and did it."

Fabulous Everett junior Earvin Johnson poured in 30 points, but was guilty of 10 turnovers which contributed to the Vikings' downfall.

"We knew they were a good shooting team, and we knew we'd have trouble stopping Johnson," Holowicki said. "So we collapsed on him and tried to shut off their other people. It was all hard work."

It was hard work for Saginaw and Rouge, too, mixed with some magic.

Saginaw (20-7) nipped Pontiac Central, 53-52, in the other Class A game on Robert Kelly's last-second desperation shot that hit the rim as the buzzer sounded. It was Kelly's only shot of the day.

The ball bounced up crazily, hit near the top of the glass, bounced back onto the rim, rolled maddeningly around the rim, then finally fell through as the crowd went wild.

"Some of our fans got on me for putting Kelly in the game," Cole said. "I guess he proved me right."

A dejected Pontiac Coach Ralph Grubb called it a "once-in-a-lifetime shot."

Paul Roby, a 6-foot-5 senior, led Saginaw with 16 points and Mike Peterson added 11.

Rouge (24-3) also resorted to "magic" to snatch a 58-56 victory from a hustling Saginaw Buena Vista in one of the Class B semifinals. But, in the case of the perennial Class B favorites, such magic has almost become a habit under the watchful eye of Greene.

Lionel Reeves took an in-bounds pass from Gerald Campbell with two second showing on the clock and slammed the ball into the hoop at the buzzer to provide Rouge the margin of victory.

The second-ranked Panthers now go against No. 1 Flint Beecher (26-0) in the title game. Beecher blasted Coldwater, 75-41, in the semis.

"You have to be impressed with Rouge," said Beecher Coach Mike Bedore. "They are not big by Rouge standards, but they are very quick. And you have to be impressed with the man (Greene)."

The Class C title game will feature the No. 1 and No. 4 state powers in Buchanan (27-0) and Negaunee (25-1).

Buchanan dumped Stockbridge, 54-42, in the semifinals while Negaunee — the Upper Peninsula's lone tournament survivor — pulled a mild upset in ousting No. 2 Unionville-Sebewaing, 55-51. Negaunee had to overcome a six-point halftime deficit to pull out the victory.

Detroit St. Martin DePorres (24-1), the state's No. 1 Class D power, romped to an easy 61-46 victory over Detroit East Catholic before a meager crowd of only 230 fans in the Lansing Civic Center (which seats 4,300).

"They're both small schools in a big city, and they just don't have the following a Class D school might have in a community like, say, Harbor Springs," said one tournament official. "But I've got to say I thought they'd have more fans than that!"

But you can bet there'll be plenty of fans for Saturday's title tilt when DePorres' opponent is none other than Harbor Springs. The third-ranked Rams bombed Maple City Glen Lake, 86-70, in the semis to earn their second title shot in the past four years.

Harbor Springs (27-0) has one of the most loyal and fanatical followings in the annals of the Michigan schoolboy tournament, and officials in that northwestern Lower Michigan community wish they could get more tickets.

All title games are slated for the University of Michigan's Crisler Arena. The Class B championship contest is scheduled to begin at 11 a.m., Class A at 2:30 p.m., Class D at 7 p.m. and Class C at 8:30 p.m.

Motta Berates Refs After Loss To Kings

Lanier, Rowe Spark Piston Win

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Couch Dick Motta says his Chicago Bulls have enough trouble competing in the National Basketball Association without the referees getting on them as well.

Motta berated game officials Jim Capers and Lee Jones following his team's 112-101 loss to the Kansas City Kings Sunday in a game which included a chair-throwing incident and a 10-minute brawl which saw Motta lead his Bulls on a charge into the Kansas City crowd.

"When you get two guys who can't control a game, it's not much of a rivalry," Motta said of the spirited series between the Bulls and Kings, Midwest Division rivals.

"You've got the two worst teams in the league — make that two out of three because we're the worst, Detroit's the second worst and Kansas City's the third worst," Motta said. "Even though you're the worst team in basketball, you have the right to play. These guys take that right away from you."

"Tom Boerwinkle (Chicago's center) has played the high post for eight years, and he gets three traveling calls today — on the road."

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Boston 108, Philadelphia 100; Seattle 117, Houston 107; Cleveland 95, Washington 92; Detroit 118, Buffalo 112, and Milwaukee 130, Los Angeles 111.

In the game, Kansas City broke it open with a run of 11 points midway through the final period. Guards Nate Archibald and Jimmy Walker led Kansas City with 25 and 20 points, respectively, while reserve forward Otis Johnson added 19, 10 of them in the fourth quarter.

The victory kept Kansas City one-half game ahead of Detroit in their battle for second place in the Midwest Division and a playoff spot.

Pivotman Dave Cowens had 18 points and 10 rebounds in the fourth quarter as the Celtics pulled away from Philadelphia, which was playing without George McGinnis, out indefinitely with torn cartilage in his left knee.

"There's a place in this game for the little man," said Seattle guard Slick Watts, who tied an NBA record of 228 steals in one season in the victory over Houston. Tim Burtleson and Fred Brown scored 24 points apiece for the Sonics.

Cleveland, playing before a home crowd of 20,784, second largest in Coliseum history, moved to within 1½ games of first-place Washington by jumping out to a 14-point lead in the first half, then turning aside a Bulls rally in the final period.

Bobby Smith led the Cavs with 27 points, 20 of them in the first half.

Bob Lanier's 34 points and 18 rebounds and Curtis Rowe's 22 points and 16 rebounds led the Pistons past Buffalo.

Milwaukee raced to a 23-point lead in the third period and romped past Los Angeles, which dropped to third place in the Pacific Division, one game behind Seattle and only 1½ games ahead of Phoenix. Bob Dandridge scored 27 points and Brian Winters 28 for the Bucks.

SLIDE TO DISASTER: New York Rangers' defenseman Dave Maloney slides toward an empty Ranger net (top) in a vain attempt to block a Pittsburgh Penguin shot on goal, which slipped past him (center) to give the Penguins their third goal Sunday night at Madison Square Garden. Sprawled in the net (bottom) Maloney grimaces in pain. He was carried from the ice with a broken left leg. That third period goal helped Pittsburgh win the NHL contest 4-2. (AP Wirephoto)

Trenton Gets Hockey Title

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Trenton upset defending champion St. Clair Shores Lakeview, 4-2, Saturday to capture the Tier I state high school hockey championship.

In Tier II competition, Lansing Catholic Central successfully defended its crown, dumping Flushing High School, 4-1.

The games were played at Michigan State University's Munn Arena.

Trenton's Mike Dunn scored the decisive goal at 7:29 of the third period. Other Trenton goals were scored by Matt Dubois, Steve Duman and Jeff Tascioff.

Trenton finished out its season 28-1-1 under coach Mike Turner.

In Tier II action, Wally Rhedisaie scored two goals as Lansing Catholic Central won its second championship with a victory over Flushing.

Tim Campbell and Jeff Bradley each scored one goal for the victors, Brian Erickson scored the lone goal for Flushing.

Lansing's goalie Nick Dudley made 22 saves. In five tournament contests, he never gave up more than one goal per game.

Lansing Catholic is 28-0-2 for the season.

Spartan '9' Triumphs

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Second baseman Terry Hop tripled in the eighth inning to score Rodger Bastien with the winning run as Michigan State defeated Mercer (Ga.) 9-8 in college baseball Sunday.

When I looked at the replay, I saw it wasn't in, but this makes up for assists and goals I had in the past that weren't counted," missed Spencer. "I'm going to take it and count it. When you only have 11, you count them all."

"Things have got to get better in the days ahead," muttered Bush, whose Scouts have won only once in the last 35 games.

Buffalo Ups Scout String

Kansas City Gets Just Eight Shots In 3-1 Loss

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The frustrations of a long, losing season marred by sagging fanfare and fan support may have reached a peak for the Kansas City Scouts.

They had two shots on goal disallowed in Buffalo during a 3-1 loss to the Sabres Sunday night, extending their National Hockey League winless string to 20 games.

It hardly mattered in the long run, since they finished with a rousing eight shots on net for the entire game while Buffalo took 37. But Kansas City Coach Eddie Bush was anything but pleased.

"That's what happens when you're an expansion team," he fumed after game officials had put on the scoreboard, then removed, their only two shots of the third period.

"What are they trying to do? Humiliate us?" he asked. "They took the shots off to make it look like we didn't have any in the third period. Isn't that great for a big league town?"

That wasn't the only thing that had the Scouts on the war-path. In the second period, Buffalo's Brian Spencer was credited with a goal they say never went into the net.

In more routine NHL, Philadelphia topped Toronto 4-2; Detroit blanked Chicago 6-0; Los Angeles tied Minnesota 4-4; St. Louis bested Vancouver 5-2, and Pittsburgh tripped the New York Rangers 4-2.

When I looked at the replay, I saw it wasn't in, but this makes up for assists and goals I had in the past that weren't counted," missed Spencer. "I'm going to take it and count it. When you only have 11, you count them all."

"Things have got to get better in the days ahead," muttered Bush, whose Scouts have won only once in the last 35 games.

Terry Crisp scored twice as the Flyers clinched the Patrick Division title in a game marred by a first-period brawl which resulted in four ejections and 130 minutes in penalties.

It was a $7,000 triumph for each Flyer: $2,500 for the division crown, $2,500 for the most points in the Campbell Conference, and $2,500 for reaching the playoff quarter-finals.

Tim Young scored with 1:28 remaining to bring Minnesota even with Los Angeles. Butch Goring scored twice to put the Kings in front.

Jerry Butler's second goal of the game snapped a 2-2 tie and sent St. Louis on to victory. Chuck Leffley added his 39th of the year in the third period, when the Blues also got a goal from defenseman Rick Smith.

Joan Pronovost scored his 49th goal of the year and Pierre Larouche raised his point total to 99 as the Penguins skated past the Rangers.

New York defenseman Dave Maloney broke his left leg in the third period when he crashed into the goalpost.

Cage Hall Of Fame Adds Four

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A former coach and three former players will be added to the Basketball Hall of Fame April 28, Executive Director Lee Williams says.

The latest additions to the nine-year-old Hall of Fame are former Temple University coach Harry Litwak, whose teams won 373 games in 21 seasons, former Philadelphia Warrior Turn Gola, Boston Celtics veteran Bill Shurman and Edward "Moose" Krause, of Notre Dame, a three-time All-American.

Columbus Tops No. 1 Saginaw

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Columbus Owls, in the cellar of the International Hockey League South Division, upset the North Division-leading Saginaw Gears 6-4 Sunday night in an NHL game at Saginaw.

Steve Lyon had three goals to pace the Owls, now 24-5-7. The loss dropped the Gears to 41-24-8.

In other IHL games Sunday, Muskegon and Flint fought to a 2-2 tie; Port Wayne tied Toledo 3-3; and the Port Huron Flags downed Kalamazoo 6-4.

In IHL action at Flint, a tight goal by Mike Clarke with four minutes left in the game allowed the Generals to tie the Muskegon Blackhawks 2-2. Ted Bulley was Flint's other scorer.

Pat DeMarchi and Carlo Ugolini had goals for Muskegon, now in third place in the IHL North with a record of 32-29-13. Flint, in fourth place in the North, stands at 31-29-14.

At Port Wayne, Komel John Sheridan fired the final goal as Port Wayne tied Toledo 3-3.

The Komets scored the first two goals, followed by three Toledo tallies before Sheridan tied it up.

At Port Huron, goalie Bill Oleschuk recorded his 22nd victory of the year as the Flags dumped Kalamazoo 6-4.

Dan Newman had two goals for Port Huron, now in second place in the IHL North with a record of 35-28-11.

Kalamazoo, in fifth place in the division, stands at 25-33-10.

'Didn't Think Car Could Last'

Pearson Wins Atlanta 500

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — Benny Parsons, Cale Yarborough, Buddy Baker and Richard Petty all thought at one point they were headed for victory. David Pearson was convinced until the very end that he wasn't.

"I just didn't think the car could last," said Pearson, who took a 1.8-second victory over Parsons in Sunday's Atlanta 500 stock car race. "We lost a lap early — that I thought we'd never make up — and the car was vibrating so bad I could hardly steer it."

"I don't think I've ever worked harder to win. If you don't believe me, just look at the blisters on my hands."

Parsons, who is still thirsting after his first victory this season while Pearson has won three of the four he's entered, was especially frustrated.

Parsons had what appeared to be a comfortable lead when both leaders pitted for fuel and new tires during a caution period with only 50 miles to go. But Parsons' Chevrolet took on only two tires, while Pearson's crew changed all four.

"Four new tires always work better than two," Pearson said. "I think Benny should have taken on all four. I don't know if I could have beaten him otherwise."

Pearson said his main concern through the first half of the race — besides making up the lap his Mercury had lost — was Yarborough.

Asked if he thought Yarborough could have won if not for a lengthy pit stop, Pearson said: "What do you think? He lost almost five laps in the pits and made up all but one before the race was over."

Yarborough built big leads at will until a broken distributor rotor cost him dearly. He led the most laps — 117 — and won a $7,000 boat for his efforts.

"Well, thank God I won something," he quipped.

I guess I earned that name 'hard luck,' didn't I?" Baker said disgustedly after being sidelined by a blown engine while leading. "If I ever had a car handling any better than the one today, I can't remember it."

When Baker departed, Petty inherited a sizable lead, only to suffer a similar mechanical failure in his Dodge.

That left Parsons and Pearson to battle it out the rest of the way for victory and the $18,750 winner's check from the $151,900 purse.

Just how do you expect my Rodney to show you how he can bowl the ball if the pitchers keep throwing pitches he can't hit?

Wings Blank Hawks

CHICAGO (AP) — "Even though there is no way we can make a playoff spot, these guys are skating like there's no tomorrow," said Detroit Coach Bill Dene after the Red Wings shutout the Chicago Black Hawks 6-0 in National Hockey League play.

Red Wings goalie Ed Giacomin, 37, marked the 50th shutout of his career, becoming the 15th goalie in NHL history to reach that mark, and rookie Michel Bergeron scored two goals Sunday night as Detroit outclassed Chicago.

The Red Wings had beat Philadelphia 4-2 Saturday night to snap the Flyers' 23-game unbeaten streak.

Dene said, "I can't say enough

Hawks Coach Bill Reay said he thinks his team is tired.

"Detroit had nothing to lose with no pressure on them because the games means nothing. But we have now played six games in nine days and I think we are worn out. We didn't have any zip tonight..." Reay said.

The loss kept Chicago from picking up points on Vancouver in the Conn Smythe Division race. Vancouver, which also lost Sunday 2-1 to St. Louis, trails the Hawks by three points in the race to get a first-round bye in the playoffs.

Wall McKechnie opened the scoring for Detroit late in the first period and Dan Maloney made it 2-0 early in the second period.

Six minutes into the third period, Bergeron took a pass from Dennis Hextall and fired a 35-foot shot for his 29th goal and a 3-0 Detroit lead.

Gilles Villeneuve came in for Hawks goalie Tony Esposito, but had no more luck stopping up the holes. Dennis Polonich scored from 40 feet out to make it 4-0, then Bergeron blasted a 30-footer and Dan Maloney netted the final goal with four minutes left to play.

don't believe me, just look at the blisters on my hands."

Parsons, who is still thirsting after his first victory this season while Pearson has won three of the four he's entered, was especially frustrated.

Parsons had what appeared to be a comfortable lead when both leaders pitted for fuel and new tires during a caution period with only 50 miles to go. But Parsons' Chevrolet took on only two tires, while Pearson's crew changed all four.

"Four new tires always work better than two," Pearson said. "I think Benny should have taken on all four. I don't know if I could have beaten him otherwise."

Pearson said his main concern through the first half of the race — besides making up the lap his Mercury had lost — was Yarborough.

Asked if he thought Yarborough could have won if not for a lengthy pit stop, Pearson said: "What do you think? He lost almost five laps in the pits and made up all but one before the race was over."

Yarborough built big leads at will until a broken distributor rotor cost him dearly. He led the most laps — 117 — and won a $7,000 boat for his efforts.

"Well, thank God I won something," he quipped.

I guess I earned that name 'hard luck,' didn't I?" Baker said disgustedly after being sidelined by a blown engine while leading. "If I ever had a car handling any better than the one today, I can't remember it."

When Baker departed, Petty inherited a sizable lead, only to suffer a similar mechanical failure in his Dodge.

TIME OUT!

Wings Blank Hawks

CHICAGO (AP) — "Even though there is no way we can make a playoff spot, these guys are skating like there's no tomorrow," said Detroit Coach Bill Dea after the Red Wings shutout the Chicago Black Hawks 6-0 in National Hockey League play.

Red Wings goalie Ed Giacomin, 37, marked the 50th shutout of his career, becoming the 15th goalie in NHL history to reach that mark, and rookie Michel Bergeron scored two goals Sunday night as Detroit outclassed Chicago.

The Red Wings had beat Philadelphia 4-2 Saturday night to snap the Flyers' 23-game unbeaten streak.

Dea said, "I can't say enough

Hawks Coach Bill Reay said he thinks his team is tired.

"Detroit had nothing to lose with no pressure on them because the games means nothing. But we have now played six games in nine days and I think we are worn out. We didn't have any zip tonight..." Reay said.

The loss kept Chicago from picking up points on Vancouver in the Conn Smythe Division race. Vancouver, which also lost Sunday 5-2 to St. Louis, trails the Hawks by three points in the race to get a first-round bye in the playoffs.

Walt McKechnie opened the scoring for Detroit late in the first period and Dan Maloney made it 2-0 early in the second period.

Six minutes into the third period, Bergeron took a pass from Dennis Hextall and fired a 35-foot shot for his 29th goal and a 3-0 Detroit lead.

Gilles Villemure came in for Hawks goalie Tony Esposito, but had no more luck stopping up the holes. Dennis Poloniche scored from 40 feet out to make it 4-0, then Bergeron blasted a 30-footer and Dan Maloney netted the final goal with four minutes left to play.

DOES IT HIMSELF: Aaron Gates, 43, of Muskegon Heights, Mich., is blind but shovels snow, cuts his own grass in the summer and canes chairs to supplement his income. (AP Wirephoto)

JOHN P. ROCHE
A Word Edwards

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's Boston speech, accusing various unnamed irresponsibles of playing politics with crucial issues of foreign policy, reminded me of the girl who slapped her boy friend in the face for whistling a dirty song. For almost eight years Kissinger, first in his White House role, then wearing two hats, and now as Chairman over at Foggy Bottom, has ruthlessly tailored American policy to meet the political needs of first Richard Nixon and then Gerald Ford. He accused his critics of giving psychological aid and comfort to the enemy (or are the Soviets still "potential adversaries?"), when the fact is that one of our problems has been discovering precisely what our policy is and much of the criticism has focused on the point that following Kissinger's trail would break a blacksnake's back.

Of course politics has never "stopped at the water's edge," though incumbent Presidents — whether Democratic or Republican — like to peddle that slogan. Indeed, I would argue that foreign policy deserves top priority in an election year. As President Kennedy once observed, you can lose 10 battles on domestic issues and live to fight another day — in foreign relations you can only lose one big one. This such matters as medical insurance, situs picketing and election reform are essentially trivial in comparison with our posture and determination in the conflict with Moscow.

In other words I don't blame Kissinger for trying to engender bipartisan unity (behind him). I have written precisely the same speech for top Democratic officeholders and recognize that American politics is a body-contact sport. However, I refuse to take his message seriously and feel that under the circumstances I have earned the right to reply. Readers with good memories will recall that at a time when the Chairman was virtually beatified by the press, I was noting here that I had never seen him walking on the Charles River.

My indictment of Kissinger falls under two headings. The first is that he has played bad politics with our foreign policy. Let us look at several examples. The opening to China was doubtless a useful enterprise, but the cost was appalling: The Japanese, the only great power in Asia, went into a state of "shock," Nixon got a great view of the Great Wall, and then, in the Shanghai communiqué, we accepted in principle Peking's sovereignty over Taiwan.

In overall terms, we appeared as penitents going to the "Hall of the Barbarians" in search of absolution or something. In fact, the Chinese needed (and still need) us much more than we do them, but the TV shots of the Nixons (and later the Fords) being cheered by Chinese masses were a political ploy for the benefit of the American electorate. Similarly the Moscow agreement of 1972, in which Brezhnev and Nixon seemed to sign a world-wide nonaggression pact, was a total fake designed for the American voter in an election year.

Again, let me repeat that I expect foreign policy to be injected into politics, but not badly, stupidly. In 1968, for example, I urged President Johnson to make a speech from the Manila Conference just before the congressional elections. He gave me a kindly, sad look, observed that the Democrats were going to lose all seats in the House and that he didn't want this to appear as a repudiation of his Asian policy. He refused to get himself up, whereas Kissinger has almost developed the self-gambit into an art form.

Second, not only has he played bad politics with our foreign policy, then, but he has done it crudely. Maybe a diplomat is an honest man sent abroad to lie for his country, but he should do it — if he must — in such a fashion as not to be caught. Does anybody at this time know precisely what Kissinger promised to whom in the Middle Eastern holding pattern? Just as we are told there are absolutely no secret treaties, half a dozen more turn up. These are dismissed, like Nixon's promise to Saigon, as "informal." Let's debate foreign policy but, for openness, let's find out what it is — except "Elect Ford."

STILL SHOVELS SNOW, CUTS OWN GRASS Loses Sight...But Not His Independence

By KENRIE REEVES
MUSKEGON HEIGHTS, Mich. (AP) — Aaron Gates shovels snow, cuts his own grass and canes chairs to supplement his income. He also is blind.

Gates, 43, lives alone in Muskegon Heights on Social Security. But his real lifestyle is independence. A native of Mississippi, he moved to Muskegon in 1951, because his sister lived here. He later moved to Lansing.

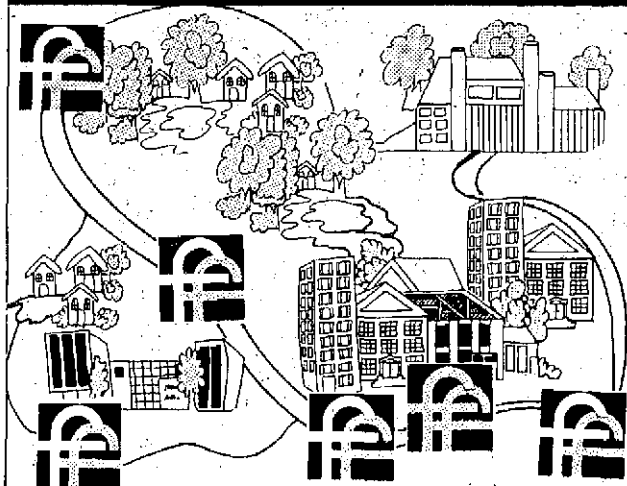

He was a maintenance worker at Michigan State University when he lost his sight to glaucoma in 1961, right on the heels of his wife's death. "The double tragedy was 'quite a disaster' for him, he said, but his religious belief helped him through, he said.

"I was under a lot of pressure, but what helped was going to Saginaw for training. I found out I wasn't the worst-off person in the world," Gates explained. "I felt if they (other blind people) could make it, so could I."

After finishing the training, he decided to return to Muskegon, where he owned a house. He refused to live with his brothers or sisters, because he didn't want to be a "burden."

However, one brother and his wife did live with him for two years, before buying a house of their own. He said his brother and sister were helpful, but over-protective at times. Over the years, he's learned to accept help from others and still maintain his independence.

A Word Edgewise

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's Boston speech, accusing various unnamed irresponsibles of playing politics with crucial issues of foreign policy, reminded me of the girl who slapped her boy friend in the face for whistling a dirty song. For almost eight years Kissinger, first in his White House role, then wearing two hats, and now as Chairman over at Foggy Bottom, has ruthlessly tailored American policy to meet the political needs of first Richard Nixon and then Gerald Ford. He accused his critics of giving psychological aid and comfort to the enemy (or are the Soviets still "potential adversaries?"), when the fact is that one of our problems has been discovering precisely what our policy is and much of the criticism has focused on the point that following Kissinger's trail would break a blacksnake's back.

Of course politics has never "stopped at the water's edge," though incumbent Presidents — whether Democratic or Republican — like to peddle that slogan. Indeed, I would argue that foreign policy deserves top priority in an election year. As President Kennedy once observed, you can lose 10 battles on domestic issues and live to fight another day — in foreign relations you can only lose one big one. Thus such matters as medical insurance, situs picketing and election reform are essentially trivial in comparison with our posture and determination in the conflict with Moscow.

In other words I don't blame Kissinger for trying to engender bipartisan unity (behind him). I have written precisely the same speech for top Democratic officeholders and recognize that American politics is a body-contact sport. However, I refuse to take his message seriously and feel that under the circumstances I have earned the right to reply. Readers with good memories will recall that at a time when the Chairman was virtually beatified by the press, I was noting here that I had never seen him walking on the Charles River.

My indictment of Kissinger falls under two headings. The first is that he has played bad politics with our foreign policy. Let us look at several examples. The opening to China was doubtless a useful enterprise, but the cost was appalling: The Japanese, the only great power in Asia, went into a state of "shokku." Nixon got a great view of the Great Wall, and then, in the Shanghai communique, we accepted in principle Peking's sovereignty over Taiwan.

In overall terms, we appeared as penitents going to the "Hall of the Barbarians" in search of absolution or something. In fact, the Chinese needed (and still need) us much more than we do them, but the TV shots of the Nixons (and later the Fords) being cheered by Chinese masses were a political ploy for the benefit of the American electorate. Similarly the Moscow agreement of 1972, in which Brezhnev and Nixon seemed to sign a world-wide nonaggression pact, was a total fake designed for the American voter in an election year.

Again, let me repeat that I expect foreign policy to be injected into politics, but not badly, stupidly. In 1966, for example, I urged President Johnson to make a speech from the Manila Conference just before the congressional elections. He gave me a kindly, sad look, observed that the Democrats were going to lose 40 seats in the House and that he didn't want this to appear as a repudiation of his Asian policy. He refused to set himself up, whereas Kissinger has almost developed the self-gambit into an art form.

Second, not only has he played bad politics with our foreign policy, then, but he has done it crudely. Maybe a diplomat is an honest man sent abroad to lie for his country, but he should do it — if he must — in such a fashion as not to be caught. Does anybody at this time know precisely what Kissinger promised to whom in the Middle Eastern holding pattern? Just as we are told there are absolutely no secret codicils, half a dozen more turn up. These are dismissed, like Nixon's promise to Saigon, as "informal." Let's debate foreign policy but, for openers, let's find out what it is — except "Elect Ford."

He was a maintenance worker at Michigan State University when he lost his sight to glaucoma in 1961, right on the heels of his wife's death.

"I was under a lot of pressure, but what helped was going to Saginaw for training. I found out I wasn't the worst-off person in the world," Gates explained. "I felt if they (other blind people) could make it, so could I."

After finishing the training, he decided to return to Muskegon, where he owned a house. He refused to live with his brothers or sisters, because he didn't want to be a "burden."

However, one brother and his wife did live with him for two years, before buying a house of their own. He said his brother and sister were helpful but over-protective at times.

Over the years, he's learned to accept help from others and still maintain his independence.

He rides to church with a fellow church member on Sundays and asks the mailman or neighbors to read him his mail.

He taught himself how to shovel walks and cut grass.

He said learning to shovel snow wasn't too hard. Learning to cut grass was the hardest of all, he said.

"I have to have a guideline, and I use the hose. I place it along the yard and go back and forth until I get to the end of it. I then move it down and do the same thing again."

He's had neighborhood kids offer to shovel his walks and cut his grass, but he declined the offers.

A spirited, lively person, Gates doesn't feel frustrated about his blindness.

"I can't see, but I can hear."

Stricken Guatemala Fears Another Disaster--Flooding

By ALFONSO ANZUETO
GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP) — Foreign and local volunteers are battling to provide shelter for the homeless and to clear blocked rivers and streams before the rains arrive sometime in May.

The rivers are dammed by massive landslides and the collapse of mountainsides during the devastating earthquake of Feb. 4 that killed some 23,000 persons, injured 76,000 and left more than a million — one sixth of Guatemala's population — homeless.

Government officials fear Guatemala could suffer another major disaster — this time flooding — if the rivers are not unplugged before the rains come.

One of the most dangerous areas is on the Pensativo River, northwest of Guatemala City. It threatens to flood the one-time capital of Antigua, some 30 miles from here. Antigua is now an important tourist site.

Government engineers have also located several dams on the Rio Madre Vieja, including one at a spot known as "Los Chocoyos," between Patzún and Godínez, where they estimate a million cubic meters of earth must be removed to free the river. There is another bad spot on the Rio Pixcaya near Chimaltenango.

U.S. Army engineers and Mexican construction crews are helping Guatemalans clear blocked highways. They estimate it will take three to six months to clear more than 100 massive landslides in a 35-mile stretch of the main highway leading east from Guatemala City to the key ports on the Caribbean Sea.

The government has estimated it would cost $35 million to reconstruct damaged highways and more than $1 billion for reconstruction throughout the country.

The National Geographic Institute has estimated the quake affected 15,544 square miles out of the national territory of 42,042 square miles. There is severe damage in 17 of the country's 22 states.

One of the most expensive projects is President Kjell Eugenio Laugerud's "Operation Rooftop," a pledge to provide shelter for every homeless family before the rains arrive.

It is estimated 500,000 sheets of corrugated metal roofing are needed. The idea is to replace the traditional heavy roof tiles which killed so many people when adobe houses collapsed.

The government has pledged to construct 44,000 provisional shelters in the capital and another 107,000 in the countryside.

The government is seeking loans from the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID), the International Development Bank, the International Reconstruction Bank and the World Bank. In addition, the government intends to issue $55 million in bonds through national banks.

International aid continues to flow into the country and is being distributed according to need as determined by army officials, the Guatemalan Red Cross, and private relief agencies.

There is no official estimate on the dollar value of the aid nor a breakdown by nation. Every Western hemisphere nation has sent aid, with the United States and Mexico leading the donors.

European nations such as Belgium and West Germany have sent supplies and material has arrived from as far away as Japan, Pakistan and Israel.

U.S. AID officials in Washington reported the United States spent $3.5 million in Guatemala in the first month after the disaster, mainly for food, clothing, medical supplies, transportation and personnel.

The Ford administration has asked Congress to approve another $25 million in aid to the survivors, including $7.5 million for shelter.

Italians are helping reconstruct the town of San Juan Comalapa, the Spanish are in Zaragoza, the Norwegian Red Cross in Patzún and Mexican prefabricated houses are being erected in Tecpan.

Mexican machines and men are rebuilding the highway between Godínez and Patzún, while a U.S. Army engineer battalion is working on the route to the Atlantic.

The Guatemalan army and the municipal government of Guatemala City received $5.5 million in a grant from the National Housing Bank to clean the capital's streets and restore services.

The job consists of removing 200 million cubic meters of debris and topping 38,000 buildings damaged beyond repair.

The government estimated 20 per cent of the underground, 1,000-mile-long grid of sewers and waterlines was damaged in the quake and succeeding tremors. There have been more than 1,300 of the tremors since the quake.

Most of the tremors, and the Feb. 4 earthquake, had epicenters about 50 miles northeast of Guatemala City.

People continue to live in the streets in Guatemala City in makeshift tents and cars, afraid to spend the night in their quake-weakened homes.

Some people have gone back to work, others are trying to rebuild their homes. Many work all day retrieving buried possessions before bulldozers knock down the walls and trucks cart away the debris.

Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, March 22, the 82nd day of 1978. There are 284 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1763, the British Stamp Act became law in the American colonies, requiring revenue stamps on such things as newspapers, playing cards and legal documents. Public opposition prevented effective enforcement.

On this date: In 1822, some 350 Virginians were killed in the first Indian massacre of European colonists in America.

In 1794, the U.S. Congress passed a law prohibiting U.S. vessels from supplying slaves to another country.

In 1820, an American naval hero, Stephen Decatur, was mortally wounded in a duel with Commodore James Barron near Washington.

In 1917, the United States became the first nation to recognize a new provisional government in Russia.

In 1945, the Arab League was founded in Cairo.

In 1941, the Grand Coulee Dam on the Columbia River began producing electrical power.

Ten years ago: The head of Anglican Church, British Archbishop of Canterbury Arthur Michael Ramsey, arrived in Rome for a precedent-breaking meeting with Pope Paul VI.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon declared that a South Vietnamese invasion of Laos had helped disrupt enemy supply lines and aided progress of U.S. withdrawal from the Vietnam War.

One year ago: Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said he was suspending his efforts to get an agreement between Israel and Egypt over the Sinai because the rift between the two countries was too great.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, an American force under General William Heath had arrived in Norwich, Conn., to embark for New York after a march from Cambridge, Mass.

Stricken Guatemala Fears Another Disaster--Flooding

By ALFONSO ANZUETO
GUATEMALA CITY.
Guatemala (AP) — Foreign and local volunteers are battling to provide shelter for the homeless and to clear blocked rivers and streams before the rains arrive sometime in May.

The rivers are dammed by massive landslides and the collapse of mountainsides during the devastating earthquake of Feb. 4 that killed some 23,000 persons, injured 76,000 and left more than a million — one sixth of Guatemala's population — homeless.

Government officials fear Guatemala could suffer another major disaster — this time flooding — if the rivers are not unplugged before the rains come.

One of the most dangerous areas is on the Pensativo River, northwest of Guatemala City. It threatens to flood the one-time capital of Antigua, some 30 miles from here. Antigua is now an important tourist site.

Government engineers have also located several dams on the Rio Madre Vieja, including one at a spot known as "Los Chocoyos," between Patzun and Godinez, where they estimate a million cubic meters of earth must be removed to free the river. There is another bad spot on the Rio Pixcaya near Chimaltenango.

U.S. Army engineers and Mexican construction crews are helping Guatemalans clear blocked highways. They estimate it will take three to six months to clear more than 100 massive landslides in a 35-mile stretch of the main highway leading east from Guatemala City to the key ports on the Caribbean Sea.

The government has estimated it would cost $35 million to reconstruct damaged highways and more than $1 billion for reconstruction throughout the country.

The National Geographic Institute has estimated the quake affected 15,544 square miles out of the national territory of 42,042 square miles. There is severe damage in 17 of the country's 22 states.

One of the most expensive projects is President Kjell Eugenio Laugerud's "Operation Rooftop," a pledge to provide shelter for every homeless family before the rains arrive.

It is estimated 500,000 sheets of corrugated metal roofing are needed. The idea is to replace the traditional heavy roof tiles which killed so many people when adobe houses collapsed.

The government has pledged to construct 44,000 provisional shelters in the capital and another 107,000 in the countryside.

The government is seeking loans from the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID), the International Reconstruction Bank, the International Development Bank, the Inter-national Reconstruction Bank and the World Bank. In addition, the government intends to issue $65 million in bonds through national banks.

International aid continues to flow into the country and is being distributed according to need as determined by army officials, the Guatemalan Red Cross, and private relief agencies.

There is no official estimate on the dollar value of the aid nor a breakdown by nation.

Every Western hemisphere

nation has sent aid, with the United States and Mexico leading the donors.

European nations such as Belgium and West Germany have sent supplies and material has arrived from as far away as Japan, Pakistan and Israel.

U.S. AID officials in Washington reported the United States spent $3.5 million in Guatemala in the first month after the disaster, mainly for food, clothing, medical supplies, transportation and personnel.

The Ford administration has asked Congress to approve another $25 million in aid to the survivors, including $7.5 million for shelter.

Italians are helping reconstruct the town of San Juan Comalapa, the Spanish are in Zaragoza, the Norwegian Red Cross in Patzun and Mexican prefabricated houses are being erected in Tecpan.

Mexican machines and men are rebuilding the highway between Godinez and Patzun, while a U.S. Army engineer battalion is working on the route to the Atlantic.

The Guatemalan army and the municipal government of Guatemala City received $5.5 million in a grant from the National housing bank to clean the capital's streets and restore services.

The job consists of removing 200 million cubic meters of debris and toppling 38,000 buildings damaged beyond repair.

The government estimated 20 per cent of the underground, 1,000-mile-long grid of sewers and waterlines was damaged in the quake and succeeding tremors. There have been more than 1,300 of the tremors since the quake.

Most of the tremors, and the Feb. 4 earthquake, had epicenters about 50 miles northeast of Guatemala City.

People continue to live in the streets in Guatemala City in makeshift tents and cars, afraid to spend the night in their quake-weakened homes.

Some people have gone back to work, others are trying to rebuild their homes. Many work all day retrieving buried possessions before bulldozers knock down the walls and trucks cart away the debris.

House Debate Slated On No-Jail 'Pot' Bill

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — First offenders convicted of possessing small amounts of marijuana would not go to jail under legislation the House may debate Tuesday.

The bill is a much stricter version of a measure originally introduced by Rep. William Bryant, R-Crosse Pointe. The House sent that measure to the Judiciary Committee, for rewriting, and the substitute bill the committee agreed on last week is now before the House. The substitute affects people charged with possession or nonprofit distribution of 18 grams or less of marijuana. Fifteen grams is about seven-tenths of an ounce. Nonprofit distribution covers things like passing a marijuana cigarette around a room.

People charged with those offenses who had no previous conviction on other drug violations or serious crimes would get probation rather than jail sentences. If the probation were not violated, the person's record would be wiped clean.

The bill also lets police officers issue appearance tickets instead of arrest warrants for people charged with those offenses.

The original bill went to the committee for rewriting after the House threw up its hands over unending debates and amendments.

The original, which some said was too lenient, provided a maximum 90-day jail penalty and $100 fine for possession or use of any amount of marijuana. It provided the same penalty for nonprofit transfer of 18 grams of marijuana.

Current penalties for possession or nonprofit transfer of marijuana are a maximum one year in jail and $1,000 fine; for use, 90 days in jail and a $100 fine.

The House also could decide this week the fate of a bill requiring that meat containing PBB be labeled that way.

Rep. Donald Albosta, D-St. Charles, sponsor of the bill, claims it will not cost the state much additional money. The Department of Agriculture estimates it would cost the state about $2 million.

But some House members contend the bill will cost the state $200 million and have asked that the measure be sent to the House Appropriations Committee so that a study can be made. Often times when a bill is sent to a committee from the floor of the House, the bill is never seen again.

PBB, a polybrominated biphenyl, a toxic fire retardant compound, accidentally was mixed with Michigan cattle feed in 1973. Since then, more than 20,000 cattle who ate the contaminated feed have been destroyed, along with 1.5 million chickens, hundreds of hogs, and large quantities of milk and butter.

Federal guidelines make it legal to sell products containing less than three-tenths parts per million PBB.

The Senate, meanwhile, is scheduled to discuss a bill which would establish a land acquisition fund from any gas and oil drilling royalties from the Pigeon River Country State Forest. It is also scheduled to take up a bill to permit sale of liquor by the glass earlier on Sundays.

Good Winter For Moles Means Bad Spring Lawns

By MARY STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer
EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Turf farmers, golf course managers and home owners may find themselves with unsightly, damaged lawns due to a busy winter ground mole season.

"Due to the lack of frost in most areas, this was the first winter in many years that moles have been active all season long," said Glenn Duddarar, Michigan State University Extension wildlife specialist.

Duddarar said both the star-nosed and eastern ground mole caused serious damage this winter. They each have different burrowing habits and both search for grubs and earthworms living close to grass or the roots of small plants.

The eastern mole forages about an inch beneath ground surface, raising a bump that runs the entire length of the tunnel system.

The star-nosed mole leaves a trail of periodic hills along its path.

The main damage the moles cause, Duddarar said, is in the way the grass looks.

"It's more of an aesthetic appearance type of thing — dead spots, dead streaks. The repairs are easily. It means some reworking and rolling and sodding and fertilizing."

"The primary damage is to turf farming where they're raising grass turf, and golf courses — you can imagine on a green what a mole means to that."

Duddarar says places like cemeteries, hospitals, and schools, which have large lawns to maintain also find moles a problem.

"An occasional problem occurs in home gardens where a mole can come up out of the grass area," he added.

He said mounds of earth moles push up interfere with mowing and maintenance.

The mole tunnels beneath the grass separating the root zone from the soil underneath. "This doesn't hurt the grass except in the summertime when it's dry. The grass and soil are dry, and the grass dies. If you have lots of rain you probably wouldn't notice it unless you were walking on the grass," Duddarar said.

Measures for controlling the moles include using a heavy roller over the burrowed area, trapping, fumigating, using soil insecticides or insecticides.

Rolling should be done before sunrise or after sunset because the moles probably will be burrowing then, he said. The rolling not only pushes the grass close to the soil again, but compacts the soil, making it harder for the mole to burrow. If the rolling is done when the mole is burrowing there is a chance the mole will be killed.

The noise from small wind-mills or bottles sunk into the main burrow tends to discourage mole activity and is non-lethal, Duddarar said. "But this may get to be pretty unsightly, especially if the property owner has a serious mole problem," he added.

The moles are not a problem for crop farmers, he said.

Services For Golightly

DETROIT (AP) — Funeral services for Dr. Cornelius L. Golightly, president of the Detroit Board of Education since 1973, will be held this evening at the All Saints Episcopal Church in Detroit. Golightly, 58, died Saturday after suffering a stroke Thursday. He was an associate dean of Wayne State University and a professor of philosophy there. A scholarship fund in his name will be established at the school. Golightly, known as a conciliator between divergent school board factions, was elected to an unprecedented fourth term as president in January. His efforts were credited in the peaceful start of the recently instituted court-ordered school desegregation program in Detroit. His vacant chair will be filled in school board elections May 18.

first weekend of spring ranged from rain, hail and snow to an unconfirmed tornado sighting.

A tornado watch for the area was turned into a tornado warning Saturday afternoon when an unidentified caller told Benton Harbor state police of sighting a tornado between St. Joseph and Stevensville. Police said later no touchdown of a tornado could be confirmed, however. The report came during an intense rainstorm that also produced a round of large hail in the same vicinity. The brief storm developed as a cold air front moving into the area rubbed shoulders with balmy 64 degree weather.

A house and a garage were damaged in Coloma township, when strong gusty winds accompanying the weather change toppled two large trees. Damaged were the home of Mrs. Joseph Krisan on Paw Paw avenue, and a garage at the residence of William Bexson, 4711 Woodland court.

Two automobile sales agencies on M-89 at Plainwell in Allegan county suffered wind damage when a strong wind struck there about 4 p.m. Saturday. A portion of the roof was torn off the Twin Ford Sales building, while the building front and showroom were blown out at the Farnsworth Chevrolet Sales nearby. Two unoccupied house trailers near the Farnsworth Sales were blown over. Four unoccupied house trailers at Curtis Trailer center, nearby, were damaged by the wind.

The Allegan sheriff's department said damage at the Farnsworth agency, which included damage to several new cars in the showroom, was estimated at $20,000 to $30,000. Scattered minor damage was reported in other localities by road commissions, utility firms and law enforcement agencies. The colder air led to a light snowfall over most of the area Sunday afternoon, and the mercury slipped to a low of 21 degrees early this morning on The Herald-Palladium's recording thermometer in downtown Benton Harbor. Some warming is predicted for Tuesday, following an expected low of 20 degrees tonight.

ANTI-BUSING RALLY SUPPORTED

Editor,
Anti-busing organizations nationwide will meet in Washington, D.C., at the Capitol grounds on April 24, 1976, to bring pressure on Congress to enact a Constitutional Amendment to prohibit forced busing. Approximately 2,000 anti-busing leaders have been notified of this coming event. Seventy-five thousand people are expected to attend the rally. This massive rally is being organized by Mr. Jack Shore, chairman of Union Labor Against Busing of 2902 South 7th Street Road, Louisville, Kentucky. These men are members of the union in Jefferson county. Their zip code is 40216.

The Constitution provides that any amendment to the United States Constitution has to be launched in Congress by two-thirds vote of each House, subject to ratification by the legislature of three-fourths of the states. We, of the Waterford National Action Group, an affiliated chapter of the National Action Group led by Mrs. Irene McCabe, have worked approximately six years to bring about an amendment that in essence would say, "no public school student shall because of race, creed, or color be assigned to or be required to attend a particular school."

We need your help state wide, pressuring your state and federal elected officials to accomplish our goal. There is nothing in the Constitution of the United States or any amendment to the Constitution of the United States that mandates a child has to be taken away from the neighborhood school. Under the 1964 Civil Rights Act, Title IV, Section 401, it stated, "desegregation" means without regard to their race, color, religion, or national origin, but "desegregation" shall not mean the assignment of students to public schools in order to overcome racial imbalance.

Also Section 407 under Title IV states, "provided that nothing herein shall empower any official or court of the United States to issue any order seeking to achieve a racial balance in any school by requiring the transportation of pupils or students from one school to another or one school district to another in order to achieve such racial balance, or otherwise enlarge the existing power of the court to insure compliance with constitutional standards."

In 1896 the United States Supreme Court ruled that states could provide separate facilities for white and black students as long as facilities were equal, which was wrong. In 1954 the United States Supreme Court overturned the 1896 decision, declaring that separate educational facilities are inherently unequal. A year later in the Brown vs. Board of Education decision, the court ordered desegregation to proceed with all deliberate speed. This decision was made because black students were being bused past all-white schools.

Cities that have fallen to the concept of forced busing are rapidly becoming re-segregated, resulting from the white flight to avoid forced busing. Violence has erupted nationwide because of the forced busing. Briefs were filed by the NAACP on or about April of last year to include the suburbs of Detroit, calling for metropolitan busing. To equate anti-busing with racism is in itself an act of bigotry devoid of logic. We are tired of this dictatorship. We say to our emirs, our laws, and our President, "Give us back our rights, 'Majority Rule'. Give us back our freedom, choice of schools. Give us back our beliefs in mankind, and give us back our democracy."

We, of the Waterford National Action Group will attend the rally on April 24 in Washington, D.C., to represent our community and voice our objections to forced busing along with anti forced busing organizations of Michigan. Please support the anti-busing forces by pressuring your elected officials from your local government up to the President of the United States.

WRITER BLAMES 'CAPITALISM'

Editor,
Despite quite regular involvement of the United States in war, Americans have been touted as being a peace-loving people. One would expect, then, to hear a chorus of approval at the closing of military establishments the operation of which tends to increase the public debt and to extend inflation.

But no! There has been a chorus of complaints because life sustaining employment is an increasingly rare commodity under capitalism. If it were not that industry and military institutions are operated and maintained primarily to assure profits to capitalists, there would be more than enough life sustaining and enriching employment for everyone in order to purify the air, to green the earth and to make more efficient use of solar energy, the fossilized equivalent of which has been fast disappearing.

To advocate a better way of doing things than the wasteful capitalist system and the political state which the Industrial Revolution made obsolete is heresy because we have been instructed by press, radio, television and popular misconceptions from the monument of our births that capitalism has provided Americans with a standard of living not previously known and not yet realized in some parts of the world.

Only now are we beginning to realize that that standard of living is but a shadow of what it might have been if society had owned the tools and others means of production, and if production had been carried on to enrich the lives of each person rather than, primarily, to pile up fabulous wealth for a few capitalists. Isn't this Bicentennial Year an appropriate time to consider that there is a better way than that which keeps most people in fear of loss of employment and of livelihoods?

KILLING SEALS CALLED 'INHUMAN'

Editor,
Of all the inhuman things going on in this world, and there are too many, the killing of the seal pups I've read about and seen pictures of, has to be the most cruel thing I've ever seen. How these men (if that's what they are to be called, but I don't think they belong to the human race) can live with themselves after performing these vicious acts, is beyond my comprehension. And how anyone can wear anything made of a seal skin is beyond me. As far as the seals fat being used in cosmetics and for food oils, if I ever dreamed I was using something with any seal product in it at all, I would cease using it immediately.

Now I know some people would come back with a statement like, "there is an overpopulation of seals, anyway". Well, even so, dear God, there has to be another, more humane way to eliminate them than to take these babies from their mothers so ruthlessly. At least let them grow up first, and before they become mothers — so you don't have to contend with both baby and mother. I wrote a letter protesting this somewhere once before. If someone could give me an address where to write again I'd appreciate it. I'd like to help. We have to stop this. We are God's creatures and so are they.

I know there are a lot of things to cause concern today and to those who would say my cause is a small one compared to others in this world, like starving people, I'm truly sorry for this also. But we have people working for these causes. You have your causes, I have mine. You work on yours; I'll work on my causes and maybe someday they will all be solved. I pray they will be. But this vicious slaughter touches my heart deeply because it does not have to be. As an adamant animal lover I beseege people to look into this. There has to be a way of stopping this and if enough folks banded together and banned seal coats and seal products there would be no need to murder the baby seals, now would there?

I pray, God have mercy on these killers. God have mercy on those people who would buy a seal coat. But most of all, God have mercy on the seal mama's and their babies.

CRASH INJURES FOUR: Four people were injured in collision of these two cars on Napier avenue near Thayer drive in St. Joseph at 8:15 p.m. Saturday. Film Tour Of Yugoslavia Displays Progress, Change

By ALICE KOCH
Stevensville Correspondent
Thayer Soule, who Sunday led the Travel and Adventure series audience of the Twin City Camera club on a filmed journey through Yugoslavia, said, "If you visited the country in 1970, you wouldn't recognize it today because of its progress and changes."

"Yugoslavia" will be presented again today and Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the St. Joseph high school auditorium.

The country, although under Communist dictatorship, is not thought of by the people as being Communist, Soule said. Instead they consider themselves Socialists in that the leaders have decentralized the government and most controls over the economy, a plan which was started in the 1950's.

Yugoslavia is filled with old world architecture, modern skyscrapers, beautiful mountainous regions, quiet farms and roaring waterfalls. Soule gives his audience a glimpse of all aspects of life in the little country which is not much larger than the state of Wyoming.

A visit to Belgrade, the country's capital, gives viewers an insight to the modernistic approach to life the people have taken. An added attraction is seeing the celebration of the birthday of President Tito, considered by the people, Soule said, as "the father of their country."

Perhaps one of the largest problems in the capital city is parking. Soule remarks, "To prove his statement, he shows a street crowded with parked cars and on the sidewalks are more parked cars. Until the problem is solved, people are permitted to park almost anywhere a car will fit."

A tour through a clothing factory in Jordan is of interest not because of its production lines or the way it is operated, but because of the workers and the pride they have taken in their place of employment. The grounds are beautifully landscaped and maintained by the employees.

The greatest portion of the country is occupied by farm land and small farming communities.

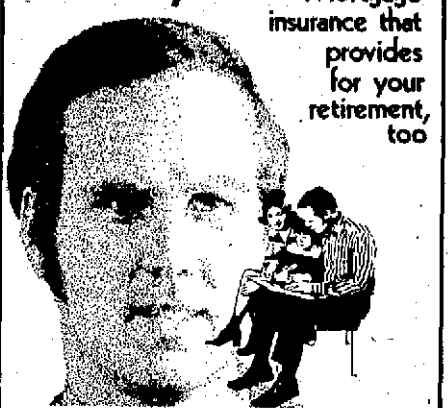

tion coast on the Adriatic Sea. A favorite resort city is Dubrovnik, known for its mild climate and medieval architecture. Once an independent state, the wall around the city still stands today and is an added attraction to tourists.

A most uncommon sight is found by Soule on the island of Hvar. There, on the back side of a church, are the carvings in stone of people who refused to contribute to the building of the church.

Visits are also made to the birthplace of Marco Polo on the island of Korcula and Lipica, first home of the Lipizzan horses, world famous for their graceful jumping and dancing feats.

Miss Hearst Might Swap Knowledge For Leniency

Writing in The Chicago Tribune today, Ronald Kozlowski of the newspaper's press service speculates that Miss Hearst's intimate knowledge of the terrorist movement in Northern California could lead to a lenient sentence on her weekend conviction and favorable resolution of other charges pending against her. Kozlowski wrote that sources close to both the U.S.

Attorney's office in San Francisco and the Hearst defense team said Miss Hearst may be considering aiding the government in exchange for a reduced sentence. Her weekend jury conviction on a charge of armed bank robbery could result in up to 25 years of imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

LOSER AND WINNER: Defense Atty. F. Lee Bailey, left, says he was "not too thrilled" about jury conviction of his client, Patricia Hearst, on bank robbery charges over the weekend. He said he would appeal. The prosecutor who won the case, James L. Browning Jr., right, said government will surrender Miss Hearst to Los Angeles authorities for arraignment on kidnapping, assault and robbery charges within the week. (AP Wirephotos)

Northrop To Make Financial Report

CASSOPOLIS — Cass county Sheriff James Northrop said this morning he would cooperate in making a report to the Cass county board of commissioners concerning financial operations of his department.

Tuesday, the commission in a quickly called meeting, ordered Sheriff Northrop to answer, under oath, questions in seven specific areas regarding his department. The order was issued via a letter from John Rodebush, board chairman, approved by the commission.

Northrop said that despite "...the fact an illegal board meeting was held to send an illegal letter..." he would cooperate with the commission "...since I have nothing to hide."

Northrop said that Rodebush on Sunday, March 14, sent the letter to him "on his (Rodebush) own."

"He (Rodebush) holds no little regard for county officials, he does what he pleases," Northrop said.

"I've told the county board many times, they can do anything they want, check, audit, I don't object," the sheriff said.

Northrop questioned, did the people of Cass county "elect me sheriff or the board of commissioners? Right now, I say they elected me."

He said he'd "be happy to work with them (county commission), but not for them."

The letter is the latest encounter between the board and the sheriff who in November filed a suit against the board, asking that it be prevented from interfering with his department's daily operations.

In February, visiting Berrien Circuit Court Judge William S. White granted a temporary injunction granting the sheriff's request. A trial on Northrop's suit is scheduled for April 27-28.

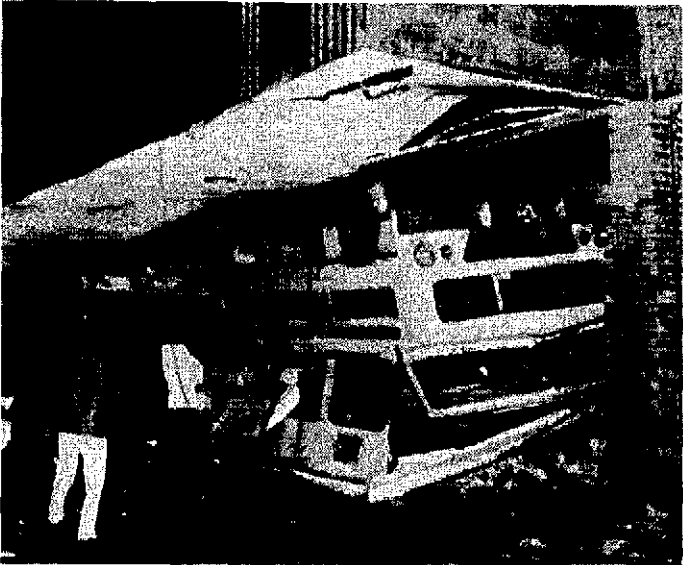

Northrop said the letter "...goes to show what I'm trying to do."

Heater Blamed For Fire

FEROCIOUS WINDS: High-velocity winds heavily damaged showroom and front of Farnsworth Chevrolet dealership in Plainwell, Mich., late Saturday afternoon. No injuries were reported. Another area dealership, Twin Ford Sales, had its roof torn off by wind. Customers and employees dove under trucks and into cars when the wind hit. Cars were damaged and trailers in a nearby trailer park were tipped and damaged. (AP Wirephoto) unhurt. Her husband, who was downstairs when the twister hit, suffered a broken wrist.

At the Bloomfield Canopy Restaurant near Maple and Orchard Lake roads, a newly-wed couple had just cut the wedding cake in the banquet room when restaurant manager Frank Stratton ran in and told everyone to hit the floor.

Stratton, who had spotted the tornado from a doorway, was just in time. A wooden plank smashed through the banquet room ceiling and landed a few feet from some of the wedding guests.

Turnovers also were sighted near White Cloud and one touched down near Mason, damaging several buildings Saturday.

Wounded Man Is 'Serious'

THREE OAKS — A Three Oaks man who suffered a gunshot wound to the stomach here Friday remained hospitalized today.

David Lee Stafford, 37, of 7 Orange street, was reported in serious condition in St. Anthony's hospital, Michigan City, Ind.

Ralph Briesse, Three Oaks police chief, said he had been unable to question Stafford. Briesse said Stafford was alone in the basement of his home when the shooting occurred about 6:30 p.m.

According to Briesse, Stafford was able to make it to his front yard before he collapsed. He was found by a neighbor, Briesse said.

Hearst Jury Members Say Panel Considered Evidence Exhaustively

Sentencing by U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter is scheduled for April 19. He said Sunday that the maximum penalty he would consider would be 25 years in prison and a $10,000 fine for armed bank robbery.

Miss Hearst also was convicted of using a weapon in a felony,

DISAGREES: Alternate juror Mory Nieman of Pleasant Hill, Calif., said Sunday that Patricia Hearst would not have been convicted if she had been on the 12-member panel. "If I had been on the jury, I would have been a hung jury or acquittal. I disagree with the verdict," she said. (AP Wirephoto) which carries a maximum 10-year sentence. But Carter said, "I don't consider that I could impose the second penalty on top of the bank robbery, since that really is included in the first offense."

The minimum sentence would be probation.

The heiress to a vast publishing fortune showed no emotion Saturday afternoon when the guilty verdict returned by the seven women and five men was read in the hushed courtroom.

Miss Hearst had testified tearfully that she had joined the April 15, 1974, holdup at a Hibernia Bank branch here after being raped, tortured and threatened with death by the Symbionese Liberation Army band that kidnapped her two months earlier.

Carter said the federal government would turn her over to authorities in Los Angeles for arraignment on state kidnapping, assault and robbery charges within the week. If convicted on those charges, which stem from a crime spree a month after the bank robbery here, she could be sentenced to life in prison.

Carter said he and Browning had agreed to allow her transfer to Los Angeles — probably by mid-week — upon completion of interviews with probation officers on the condition that she be returned here for sentencing "without any legal squabble."

But defense lawyer Albert Johnson said, "I'm certainly going to ask the court not to allow that to happen." He said he would fight the transfer in court if informal overtures to Carter failed.

SLA members William and Emily Harris, whose arrest last Sept. 18 led to the capture of Miss Hearst on the same day, face trial in the same case.

Miss Hearst denounced her two underground companions during her trial. Browning said Sunday that Miss Hearst "quite probably" would be a star witness if the Harrises are prosecuted in the Hibernia Bank robbery or for the heiress' Feb. 4, 1974, kidnapping.

Bailey said Miss Hearst had already asserted her willingness to testify against the Harrises. "She certainly will do so if anyone asks her to," he said.

The attorney, who visited his client in jail Sunday night, said, "She is holding up well. She was able to respond to my brand of humor."

Randolph A. Hearst, somber and reticent, visited his daughter for two hours and 15 minutes Sunday afternoon at the San Mateo County Jail 25 miles south of here and said later, "She's all right."

But his wife, Catherine, remained in seclusion at their Nob Hill apartment. "She doesn't feel very well today," Hearst said.

He said the family was "shocked and surprised" by the verdict. "It was a disappointment to all of us."

Hearst was accompanied by Miss Hearst's eldest sister,

Virginia, and her husband, Jay Bosworth.

Dr. L.J. West, a UCLA psychiatrist who testified for the defense, also visited Miss Hearst and described her mood as "sad."

Bailey, who said he planned to appeal the conviction, explained his client's impossible reaction to the verdict by saying, "She was kind of convinced that she didn't have much of a chance. She continued to believe that."

Bailey had come from Boston to head an elaborate, expensive defense effort that portrayed Miss Hearst as a kidnapping victim coerced by her captors into committing crimes. But jurors didn't believe it.

One of the panelists, Norman Grim, 43, of San Mateo, said Miss Hearst's failure to take advantage of opportunities to return home and the Los Angeles incident in which she sprayed a sporting goods store with gunfire to help the Harrises escape after a bungled shoplifting effort were very damaging to her.

"It is possible, I imagine, for a person to be coerced, but I don't believe it is possible for someone to be coerced all the time," Grim said.

A juror who asked not to be identified told the San Francisco Chronicle that it was clear to the panel from the beginning of deliberations that an innocent verdict would not be returned.

But each panelist would rather have been able to acquit the heiress than convict her because of the fact that she was kidnapped, the juror said.

Miss Hearst Might Swap Knowledge For Leniency

Writing in The Chicago Tribune today, Ronald Koziol of the newspaper's press service speculates that Miss Hearst's intimate knowledge of the terrorist movement in Northern California could lead to a lenient sentence on her weekend conviction and favorable resolution of other charges pending against her. Koziol wrote that sources close to both the U.S.

Attorney's office in San Francisco and the Hearst defense team said Miss Hearst may be considering aiding the government in exchange for a reduced sentence. Her weekend jury conviction on a charge of armed bank robbery could result in up to 25 years of imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

LOSER AND WINNER: Defense Atty. F. Lee Bailey, left, says he was "not too thrilled" about jury conviction of his client, Patricia Hearst, on bank robbery charges over the weekend. He said he would appeal. The prosecutor who won the case, James L. Browning Jr., right, said government will surrender Miss Hearst to Los Angeles authorities for arraignment on kidnaping, assault and robbery charges within the week. (AP Wirephotos)

Hearst waited behind bars for the unfolding of a fate now in the hands of her judge, attorneys and prosecutors.

Sentencing by U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter is scheduled for April 19. He said Sunday that the maximum penalty he would consider would be 25 years in prison and a $10,000 fine for armed bank robbery.

Miss Hearst also was convicted of using a weapon in a felony,

DISAGREES: Alternate juror Mary Nieman of Pleasant Hill, Calif., said Sunday that Patricia Hearst would not have been convicted if she had been on the 12-member panel. "If I had been on the jury, it would have been a hung jury or acquittal. I disagree with the verdict," she said. (AP Wirephoto)

which carries a maximum 10-year sentence. But Carter said, "I don't consider that I could impose the second penalty on top of the bank robbery, since that really is included in the first offense."

The minimum sentence would be probation.

The heiress to a vast publishing fortune showed no emotion Saturday afternoon when the guilty verdict returned by the seven women and five men was read in the hushed courtroom.

Miss Hearst had testified tearfully that she had joined the April 15, 1974, holdup at a Hibernia Bank branch here after being raped, tortured and threatened with death by the Symbionese Liberation Army band that kidnaped her two months earlier.

Carter said the federal government would turn her over to authorities in Los Angeles for arraignment on state kidnaping, assault and robbery charges within the week. If convicted on those charges, which stem from a crime spree a month after the bank robbery here, she could be sentenced to life in prison.

Carter said he and Browning had agreed to allow her transfer to Los Angeles — probably by mid-week — upon completion of interviews with probation officers on the condition that she be returned here for sentencing "without any legal squabble."

But defense lawyer Albert Johnson said, "I'm certainly going to ask the court not to allow that to happen." He said he would fight the transfer in court if informal overtures to Carter failed.

SLA members William and Emily Harris, whose arrest last Sept. 18 led to the capture of Miss Hearst on the same day, face trial in the same case.

Miss Hearst denounced her two underground companions during her trial. Browning said Sunday that Miss Hearst "quite probably" would be a star witness if the HARRISES are prosecuted in the Hibernia Bank robbery or for the heiress' Feb. 4, 1974, kidnaping.

Northrop To Make Financial Report

CASSOPOLIS — Cass county Sheriff James Northrop said this morning he would cooperate in making a report to the Cass county board of commissioners concerning financial operations of his department.

Tuesday, the commission in a quickly called meeting, ordered Sheriff Northrop to answer, under oath, questions in seven specific areas regarding his department. The order was issued via a letter from Johnnie Rodebush, board chairman, approved by the commission.

Northrop said that despite "...the fact an illegal board meeting was held to send an illegal letter..." he would cooperate with the commission "...since I have nothing to hide."

Northrop said that Rodebush on Sunday, March 14, sent the letter to him "on his (Rodebush) own."

"He (Rodebush) holds so little regard for county officials, he does what he pleases," Northrop said.

"I've told the county board many times, they can do anything they want, check, audit, I don't object," the sheriff said.

He said he'd "be happy to work with them (county commission), but not for them."

The letter is the latest encounter between the board and the sheriff who in November filed a suit against the board, asking that it be prevented from interfering with his department's daily operations.

In February, visiting Berrien Circuit Court Judge William S. White granted a temporary injunction granting the sheriff's request. A trial on Northrop's suit is scheduled for April 27-28.

Northrop said the letter "...goes to show what I'm trying to do."

Heater Blamed For Fire

Benton Harbor firemen at 5:49 p.m. Saturday, were called to the residence of Lillie Mae Richardson, 414 Paw Paw avenue, where a defective hot water heater resulted in the escape of steam. Firemen shut off water to the heater and reported that no damage occurred.

FEROCIOUS WINDS: High-velocity winds heavily damaged showroom and front of Farnsworth Chevrolet dealership in Plainwell, Mich., late Saturday afternoon. No injuries were reported. Another area dealership, Twin Ford Sales, had its roof torn off unhurt. Her husband, who was downstairs when the twister hit, suffered a broken wrist.

At the Bloomfield Canopy Restaurant near Maple and Orchard Lake roads, a newlywed couple had just cut the wedding cake in the banquet room when restaurant manager Frank Stratton ran in and told everyone to hit the floor.

Stratton, who had spotted the tornado from a doorway, was just in time. A wooden plank smashed through the banquet room ceiling and landed a few feet from some of the wedding guests.

Tornadoes also were sighted near White Cloud and one touched down near Mason, damaging several buildings Saturday.

Wounded Man Is 'Serious'

THREE OAKS — A Three Oaks man who suffered a gunshot wound to the stomach here Friday remained hospitalized today.

David Lee Stafford, 37, of 7 Orange street, was reported in serious condition in St. Anthony's hospital, Michigan City, Ind.

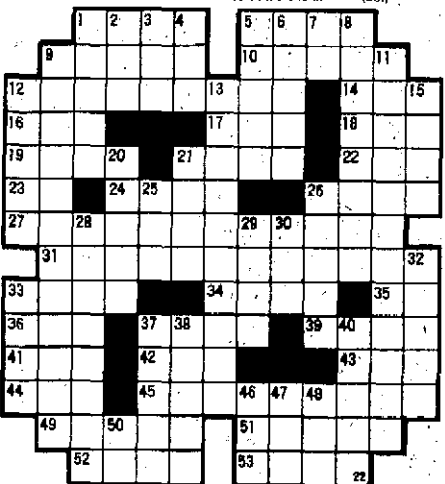

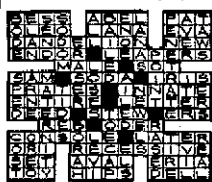

Ralph Briese, Three Oaks police chief, said he had been unable to question Stafford. Briese said Stafford was alone in the basement of his home when the shooting occurred about 6:30 p.m.

According to Briese, Stafford was able to make it to his front yard before he collapsed. He was found by a neighbor, Briese said.

Seven On May 18 Primary

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Two Republicans and seven Democrats will be on Michigan's May 18 presidential primary ballot, Secretary of State Richard Austin reports. The deadline for submitting letters of intent to run came Friday at 4 p.m. Five other people listed by the secretary of state as potential candidates failed to submit the proper papers and will not be on the ballot. President Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan will slug it out on the Republican side. On the Democratic side, the candidates are former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter; U.S. Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington; Ellen McCormack, the anti-abortion candidate from New York; R. Sargent Shriver, brother-in-law of the late President Kennedy; U.S. Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona; Alabama Gov. George Wallace, and Fred Harris of Oklahoma. Not on the ballot for lack of letters of intent were U.S. Sens. Birch Bayh of Indiana; Lloyd Bentsen Jr. of Texas; Frank Church of Idaho, who announced his candidacy this week; Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp, and Terry Sanford of North Carolina.

Seven On May 18 Primary

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Two Republicans and seven Democrats will be on Michigan's May 18 presidential primary ballot, Secretary of State Richard Austin reports. The deadline for submitting letters of intent to run came Friday at 4 p.m. Five other people listed by the secretary of state as potential candidates failed to submit the proper papers and will not be on the ballot. President Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan will slug it out on the Republican side. On the Democratic side, the candidates are former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter; U.S. Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington; Ellen McCormack, the anti-abortion candidate from New York; R. Sargent Shriver, brother-in law of the late President Kennedy; U.S. Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona; Alabama Gov. George Wallace, and Fred Harris of Oklahoma. Not on the ballot for lack of letters of intent were U.S. Sens. Birch Bayh of Indiana, Lloyd Bentsen Jr. of Texas; Frank Church of Idaho, who announced his candidacy this week; Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp, and Terry Sanford of North Carolina.

Market Bounces Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices bounced up in early trading today, reflecting enthusiasm over several bright economic reports.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was ahead more than two points and more New York Stock Exchange-listed issues were advancing in price than declining.

Trading was brisk at the opening. The government reported Friday that consumer prices registered their smallest increase in more than four years in February and that orders for durable goods continued to rise.

Short-term interest rates also held steady despite the announcement late Thursday of a jump in the money supply.

Early prices today included Alcan Aluminum, up 1/2 to 27 1/2; Merck Co., up 1/4 to 72 1/2; and U.S. Steel, up 1/4 to 82 1/2.

On Friday, the Dow Jones industrial average closed at 979.85, unchanged from Thursday, after fluctuating in a narrow range during the session.

NYSE issues declining in price held a slim lead on those advancing.

Volume on the Big Board dropped to 18.69 million shares from Thursday's 20.33 million.

The exchange's composite index of all its listed common stocks edged up .06 to 53.76.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .05 to 103.97.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Bounces Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices bounced up in early trading today, reflecting enthusiasm over several bright economic reports.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was ahead more than two points and more New York Stock Exchange-listed issues were advancing in price than declining.

Trading was brisk at the opening.

The government reported Friday that consumer prices registered their smallest increase in more than four years in February and that orders for durable goods continued to rise.

Short-term interest rates also held steady despite the announcement late Thursday of a jump in the money supply.

Early prices today included Alcan Aluminum, up 3/8 to 27 3/8; Merck Co., up 1/8 to 72 1/2; and U.S. Steel, up 3/4 to 82 1/2.

On Friday, the Dow Jones industrial average closed at 979.85, unchanged from Thursday, after fluctuating in a narrow range during the session.

NYSE issues declining in price held a slim lead on those advancing.

Volume on the Big Board dropped to 18.09 million shares from Thursday's 20.33 million.

The exchange's composite index of all its listed common stocks edged up .06 to 53.76.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .05 to 103.37.

Restoration Is More Costly

COLUMBIA, Calif. (AP) — Gold Rush prices may have been pretty high, but some of them weren't as high as today's. In this Mother Lode town in 1860 miners spent $4,898 to build their first school house. But when it was restored recently the cost was $60,000.

BATTLING THE 'BUMP'

As we move toward the peak air travel months of a year in which airlines everywhere are fighting to improve their financial positions, you must be more on guard than ever against the "bump" — trade slang describing what happens to passengers left on the ground when the airline that had sold and confirmed their tickets gives their seats to someone else.

The general trend of bumping is up. In 1974, latest figures available, an amazing (and amazed) 101,000 passengers were bumped from domestic flights alone, a 25 per cent rise over the previous year. The airlines retort the total is negligible measured against 174 million passengers flown in 1974 — and even plead that over-selling is an economic necessity because some passengers double-book and others never show for take-off.

But you who have lost precious vacation time or missed an important business meeting will find these explanations meager consolation indeed. "Bumped" home-bound vacationers from Puerto Rico after the 1975 Christmas holidays, for instance, were reported unable to get space on flights for as long as three days. The resulting confusion promoted an investigation by Puerto Rico's officials "to make sure this never happens again."

You, an air traveler, do have "fly rights," insists the Civil Aeronautics Board, and it requires U.S. airlines to establish criteria for deciding which passengers will be bumped when there are not enough seats. Says the CAB: "Simply stated, it is the customer receiving what he pays for, no more, no less."

"It is the holder of a transportation ticket expecting and receiving certain minimum standards of service enroute to his destination and an uneventful reunion with his baggage once he arrives there. The oversold passenger has the right to be fully apprised of the carrier's obligation to him. And he has the right to expect his complaints to be handled "with speed."

There are exclusions. If you are traveling abroad, except on flights directly to and from the U.S., a foreign carrier can bump you at will. And it is not required to compensate you for it.

On flights originating or stopping in the U.S., however, airlines must pay "denied boarding compensation." This means the air carrier must offer you a specified amount of compensation if you hold a confirmed reservation for a particular flight and have been denied boarding because that flight has been oversold. Moreover, the CAB is considering proposals to extend the boarding compensation rule to foreign and now exempt Alaskan carriers, also.

Again, there are exceptions due, say, to operational or safety factors. But if you are denied boarding "for any reason" on a flight on which you hold "confirmed reserved space," the carrier must furnish you immediately with a written explanation of the terms, conditions and limitations of the denied compensation.

You, a passenger, must meet the following conditions to be eligible for denied boarding compensation: You must have a confirmed reservation, generally meaning a properly validated ticket. Some carriers permit confirmation to be made less formally, even by phone.

You must comply with the airline's check-in requirements. Required check-in time and location of the check-in point often are printed on the inside of the ticket envelope. The airline must be unable to book you on another flight scheduled to arrive at your destination within two hours of your originally scheduled arrival for a domestic flight or within four hours of your scheduled arrival for international flights.

If you have met these conditions and the airline is unable to honor your reservation, it is required to offer you compensation equal to the price of the flight for which you are checking in — but not less than $25 nor more than $200.

Acceptance of the payment is optional. You may refuse the offer and seek other means of compensation.

INJECTIONS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is tightening control over intravenous solutions following an investigation that disclosed that 54 persons have died of blood poisoning from contaminated solutions in the past decade.

New Buffalo Easement Policy Set

NEW BUFFALO — A sewer construction easement policy and hiring of a land appraiser were approved by the New Buffalo township board in a special meeting Saturday afternoon.

The policy and the appraiser are for acquisition of land in the construction of the $20 million Galien River Sanitary Sewer district to serve New Buffalo city and New Buffalo and Chikaming townships. Township Supervisor Joseph Svehla said permanent easements will have to be obtained from about 34 property owners and a yet undetermined number of temporary easements will also have to be obtained.

Hired as the appraiser was a man township officials identified as Laddie Krametbauer of New Buffalo. He is to be paid $5 for each property appraised and reimbursed for out-of-pocket expenses.

The easement policy had been under study since it was first presented to the board March 11 by the township attorney, Tat Parish of St. Joseph.

Parish said easement compensation must be approved by the township board if the compensation is to amount to over $10.

In other areas, the board authorized preparation of a resolution that would authorize the Berrien county Board of Public Works to make a feasibility study for a proposed water supply system for the Riviera road area and areas southwest of US-12.

Svehla also disclosed that about 60 to 100 township residents received erroneous dates on 1975 tax statements mailed to them.

He said the statements were mailed on Jan. 12, 1976, but dates on some of the statements said Dec. 31, 1975.

A letter correcting the error will be sent out to property owners whose tax statements had the wrong date, Svehla said.

Two Boys Released To Parents

NEW BUFFALO — Two 15-year-old New Buffalo boys will be petitioned to probate court in connection with a March 2 break-in at a Grand Beach residence in which articles value over $1,500 were reported taken, state police stationed here said.

Police said the two boys were released to the custody of their parents after being questioned yesterday.

Assorted jewelry, tools, and a stereo were reported taken from a house and a travel trailer at the Esther Yardley residence, on March 2, troopers said. Some of the items have been recovered, and a third arrest is expected, troopers said.

Market Looked, Listened And Sat

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Some very encouraging economic news was released last week. And what did the stock averages do in the way of celebration? Almost nothing; they barely moved at all.

Apparently, as they say in the business, the news already was discounted. It had been foreseen by the stock analysts whose job it is to anticipate the future, and they had told their big institutional customers.

And so, while industrial output rose, along with corporate profits and durable goods orders, and while consumer confidence was said to be growing and inflation abating, stock market activity faded.

Does this mean the market is unresponsive to the economy? Hardly; the alleged lack of response actually was a response, and a more negative than positive one. At best it indicated indecision; at worse, fear.

Some mechanical factors probably are mixed in too. The institutions, which have been strong supporters of this latest rally, which began last December, are probably near their full commitment. They are short of cash.

But there are more important psychological and economic factors to consider, including the question of why, once the market had penetrated 1,000 points on the Dow Jones industrial average, it couldn't stay up there.

Despite the vitality of this market surge of the past three months and more, there has always been an element of doubt, uncertainty and even outright disbelief. This advance, oddly, has not had very widespread support; it has been institutional rather than individual.

If you review some of the less popular stocks you will find many that really haven't participated in this advance, many that are still far below their highs of several years ago.

You will find also that buyer participation hasn't been as broad as in some other bull markets. Institutions have been big buyers, of course, but that is what institutions eventually have to do anyway. They are made to invest.

Individuals have a greater choice. They are unlike a mutual fund whose stated, chartered purpose might be to invest in growth stocks. Individuals make no such commitments; they can go into savings accounts or bonds or a shoe box.

This market has not had the enthusiastic support of the 25 million or more individual investors. Their relative indifference and often negative attitude represents an astonishing contrast with the 1960s.

Many individuals have remained sellers. Many individuals seem to have opted instead for stability, in the form of Treasury securities or bank certificates of deposit or bonds. It's easier to plan your future that way.

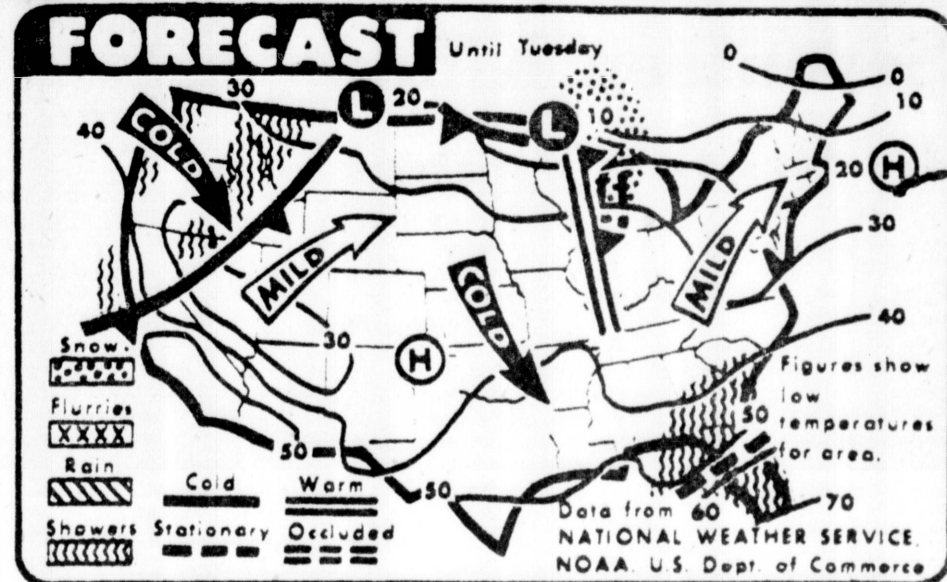

A good many individuals remain apprehensive about the recovery, and they don't care what the numbers say. One theory is that a breakdown of the recovery figures shows the personal economies of one-third of the people are booming while two-thirds of the people remain in financial difficulty.

You will find it worth noting also that a lot of people who should believe in the economy and the stock market aren't giving much evidence of it. The magazine Business Week claims corporate executives are selling out fast.

The magazine quotes one research organization as saying "executives are bailing out hand over fist — at rates as high as four sales to every buy in recent weeks." And it adds this comment:

"While brokers are overwhelmingly bullish as far as their customers are concerned, the members of the New York Stock Exchange are selling as if stocks were going out of style."

The market must declare itself soon. And while the preponderance of published advisories remain bullish, both about the economy and the stock market, it should be no surprise if the averages go the other way.

TODAY'S WEATHER MAP: Showers are forecast Tuesday for the southeast and northwest with snow in the Great Lakes area. Colder temperatures are expected in the northwest and central sections with milder temperatures in the remainder of the nation. (AP Wirephoto)

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Stock Purchases From An Estate

Q. An elderly relative has talked to me about buying some utility preferred stock, which is in his estate, after his death. Is this possible? Would I have to pay a commission? Or must the stock be sold back to the corporation?

A. It is perfectly proper for you to buy stock from an estate if the executive and beneficiaries of the estate agree. You would have to agree on a market price for the shares, most likely basing it on the market price as of the day of death.

The transfer of the shares to your name would have to be carried out through the transfer agent. You will find the transfer agent named on the front of the stock certificate. There will be a slight transfer fee but there is no need to go through a broker and pay a brokerage commission.

Shares are NOT sold back to the corporation upon the death of an investor. In fact, an investor does not have the privilege of tendering shares to the issuing corporation unless the company has announced it will buy stock on tenders. In other words, the option is the company's — not the shareholder's.

Q. What interest rate should I pay my broker on a margin loan? It seems to me I am paying far higher than the going rates — and it is an expense I can ill afford since I am living on Social Security and dividends from about $25,000 worth of stock — on which I owe $10,000 to the broker.

A. Anyone who borrows money pays the rate asked by the lender — in this case your broker. So it would be futile for me to tell you what you "should" pay. If your broker wants an annual rate of, say, 10 per cent compounded monthly, that is what you must pay — or take your business elsewhere.

The question is not how much interest you should pay on a margin loan, but whether you should have any margin loan at all. And if you want my answer, it is an absolute NO! No retired person dependent upon income from securities can afford to hold any securities on margin and hope to come out ahead on the deal — not unless he is invested in 12, 13, 14 per cent yield stocks and bonds, which means that what he is gaining in percentages he is losing in tossing around at night worrying about whether his securities will default.

Sell off enough shares (or bonds) to wipe out the margin loan and depend upon only that income which comes from your wholly-owned securities. That's all you're getting anyway — if you are lucky.

SHULSKY welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

ALL SIZES: Norm Miller displays two of the many caskets that he and partner Eugene Robbins of Ypsilanti offer for burial of pets, from goldfish to pet pigs. (AP Wirephoto)

Ypsilanti Firm Specializes In Pet Caskets, Memorials

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — The basement of Eugene Robbins home is filled with caskets, some measuring no larger than 9½ inches long and only 4 inches wide.

There's also a display of various marble and granite memorials for graves, with epitaph suggestions ranging from "A Faithful Companion, He Gave Us Many Happy Years," to "Rest Well, Brown Eyes."

The dearly departed in this case are animals. Not just any animals, but pets. Robbins and his partner, Norm Miller, are in the "pet casket and memorial" business.

The motto of Robbins and Miller's Ypsilanti Pet Casket Sales is "Years of Devotion Deserve a Fitting Burial," and apparently a number of pet owners agree.

"We had a dog named Marty for 11 years who died of a heart attack," said Mrs. Robbins, looking at an oil painting her husband had done of the dog.

"We had to just leave her because there was no place to bury her here. I'll never forget it."

"That's why when we had to have another dog put to sleep, we buried her in the casket and out in the back yard. It's a lot better than just putting her in a plastic bag or throwing her out with the garbage."

The caskets aren't just a plain, old pine box. A deceased pet can go out of this world with class.

Made of high impact styrene, with double wall construction, they have a special sealing compound to make them air and water tight to serve as casket-vault combinations.

A more frugal pet owner can get just a regular casket, including satin-covered pad and lace trimmed satin pillow.

But there's also a deluxe version for high rollers "richly fitted with soft padding and covered with white satin and lace. Certain models also include a deluxe simulated woodgrain finish.

Prices range from $15 for the tiny caskets for parakeets, pet turtles and the like, up to $190 for large dogs.

Some mourners even have put goldfish in a casket. Still another man used one to bury his 375-pound pet pig.

Miller and Robbins decided to go into the business after Miller talked it over with a brother-in-law who operates a local funeral home.

"Really, it's a dedicated business," Miller said, "although there's not too much money in it at this point."

So far, Miller said, the largest order was from a pet hospital that had 17 dogs "on ice," or frozen in a refrigerator freezer.

"Most people want to dispose of a pet properly," Miller said. "But in the past, they didn't know what to do with their animals, and many feel they were more deserving than just being thrown out with the garbage truck."

Mrs. Robbins agreed.

"If you keep a dog for 15 years, it becomes part of the family," she said. "They don't live forever. It just seems better somehow doing it this way."

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's legislature has ratified the 13th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which prohibits slavery and involuntary servitude, 111 years after it became the law of the land. Kentucky and Mississippi were the only states to reject the amendment when it was ratified at the end of the Civil War.

Navy Flyers Suffer Only Minor Injuries

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — A U.S. Navy F-4 Phantom II hit the edge of the deck of the carrier Ranger while trying to land in darkness Saturday night, smashed into a parked A7 plane as it slid down the flight deck and then plunged into the sea, the Navy announced today.

The two fliers in the plane ejected while their aircraft was sliding down the flight deck and they suffered minor injuries, a spokesman said. Eight members of the flight deck crew sustained minor cuts and abrasions, the Navy said.
